

T. P. A. SESSION IS WOUND UP

Delegates Conclude Their Business and Get Ready for Departure.

Little Work and Much Visiting Done

Report of the Resolutions Committee Adopted and Trips to Some Extensive Local Plants Taken During the Day.

As soon as the Travelers' Protective association got together at the Millard hotel yesterday the committee on resolutions reported through Chairman Benson and Secretary Bush. Most of them were resolutions of thanks to all who had been connected in any way with showing the delegates the hospitality of Omaha.

Resolved, That the thanks of the convention be extended to the honorable mayor and council of the city of Omaha for the kind welcome they extended us, to the committee on arrangements headed by Messrs. R. F. Hodgins and M. W. Wulp, the efficient and zealous workers who did all in their power to make our stay pleasant, and also to the efficient chairman of the royal highness, King Ak-Sar-Ben IV, and his royal household for their splendid entertainment, and further thanks be extended to Messrs. J. G. Grothe, A. DeYong, W. A. Kerechoff, George W. Smith, John A. Lee, J. W. McDonald and F. W. Crandall of St. Louis; A. H. Beckman, J. W. Porter and W. L. Farris of Louisville; E. E. Smith of Atlanta, E. E. Lebold of Richmond, Ind.; J. F. Johnson of Racine, Wis.; as also the delegates from Chicago, J. M. H. Mason of St. Joseph, Mo.; Chauncey Medbury of Fort La. Wis.; G. W. Collins of Portland, Ore.; J. M. Glasspell of Davenport, Ia., and others.

Most of the delegates left on the earliest train for their homes. Before going Chairman John S. Harwood of Chicago, president of the association, said to a reporter that the action of the Travelers' Protective association this year on the anti-scarce bill put him in a very awkward position. Last year at Nashville the convention took the opposite course, and as chairman of the legislative committee said to a reporter that the action of the Travelers' Protective association this year on the anti-scarce bill put him in a very awkward position.

Concerning Excess Baggage. A resolution concerning excess baggage offered by W. A. Ryan was: Whereas, There has not been any concession made by the railroads in connection with excess baggage, and the same prices and scale of prices obtain now that prevailed twenty years ago; and Whereas, The same has now made for excess baggage is made burdensome and oppressive to that class of trade and traveling men who are compelled to carry large lines of baggage.

Resolved, That the chairman of the railroad committee be, and he is hereby instructed to inaugurate and pursue measures looking to relief from the present excessive charges for excess baggage, to the end that the same may be reduced and made less burdensome to the traveling men and the houses they represent.

Resolved, That in our belief a reduction from the present scale of 12 per cent of a first-class fare to a scale based upon 10 per cent of a first-class fare by the railroads, with a 20 per cent reduction of scale would operate to remove the burdensome charge of which we complain.

Resolved, That the Travelers' Protective Association of America, in convention assembled at Omaha, that congress be, and hereby is, respectfully requested to house bill No. 7120, commonly known as the anti-scarce bill.

Resolved, That the Travelers' Protective Association of America, in convention assembled, that in the death of James T. Drummond of St. Louis, which has occurred since our last national convention, our association has lost one of its ablest, most loyal and friendly members, and that we deeply regret the loss of a man who so prominently sympathized with commercial travelers as a class, and in fact, with all mankind. Be it further Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this association, to be made a part of this convention.

Endorses President McKinley. The one on the war had been introduced by R. L. Simons of Colorado. It read: Resolved, That the T. P. A. of America in convention assembled heartily gives its support to the government in thought and deed in the matter of the present war with Spain.

Finally one from Aloy Jacobs of Denver, Colo., was adopted that the convention honor Joseph Wallerstein of Richmond, Va., the outgoing president, by electing him life delegate to the Travelers' Protective association.

Immediately after the convention acted on them, H. L. Benson, one of the Texas delegates, arose and said he had something for the "good of the order." But what he did say seemed to stir up a little storm, and his remarks were in relation to the triumph of President-elect Duffin the day previous over the retiring president, Mr. Wallerstein. He accused the four central states of Illinois, Indiana, Missouri and Kentucky with trying to run the Travelers' Protective association, in charged with having effected a "combination" against the outside states in a "cold blooded manner." "If this is to continue," said he, "you who represent these four states might just as well fix up your business without coming to any national convention and save the expense." The candidate for president, Mr. Wallerstein, then came forward with his reply, saying he had nothing to say in any way against the election of the delegates from the outside states. He hoped all such combinations would stop.

Smooth the Matter Out. This brought to his feet W. A. Ryan of Indiana and several others for a little while a battle of debate was fought by the members, respectively, of Messrs. Wallerstein and Duffin, the delegates from the outside states taking one side and those from the four states named by Mr. Benson taking the other. Mr. Wallerstein, himself, tried to pour oil on the troubled waters, saying he was "not in any way against the election of the delegates from the outside states." He assured the association that under all circumstances he would always stand by the association.

The hour was getting late and the delegates came to the conclusion that if they were to go to South Omaha all they would better be starting, so when the hour of the clock had gone around considerably past 10 a. m., the hour which had been set for the start from the hotel, they broke up the meeting in better spirit, feeling that they had now a better understanding of the status of things and could breathe more freely, and at once took their departure for the South Omaha packing plants, to the visiting of which they were to devote the forenoon.

Visit the Stock Yards. As soon as the convention finally adjourned, the delegates, many of them accompanied by their wives, boarded the street cars for the Union depot to take the train for South Omaha. Assistant General Freight Agent A. B. Smith of the Burlington, took them in hand, having provided for them four comfortable chair cars. Yard Master Robinson had charge of the train and J. Eyer, the Burlington stock agent, went along.

At South Omaha the visitors divided into three parties, each going through the city, to the Cudahy yards and observing everything from the time the animal is led to the slaughter to the final dressing of the meat for the consumer's table. The visit to the packing plants was without incident except that some of the ladies did not greatly enjoy the close contact with the carcasses of butchering, but they bore up bravely.

The next institution visited was the Krug brewery. There a chance was enjoyed to shake the thirst the wind and dust had been responsible for. William Krug gave a souvenir of some kind to everyone, and then they went to the banquet hall, where the establishment found their way into the possession of the knights as keepers of the trip. Messrs. C. F. Bouffier and M. Meyer were in the height of their glory as entertainers.

While waiting for the train to take them back to the city, the delegates indulged in some of their yells, which had become familiar now to the ears of the public. "It's all right!" "What's all right?" "Omaha!" and others of the same tenor, taking care to mention everybody who had shown any courtesy and every member of the convention who enjoyed an unusual amount of popularity, among the latter, particularly, G. H. Schellmeyer of St. Louis, who is nicknamed "Scully." On the way back "Scully" manifested remarkable vocal talents and led a chorus of ready singers in a succession of very pleasant songs. On the whole it was a very pleasant trip, and the convention among the women who accompanied the party were: Mesdames L. Ochs of New Orleans, R. M. Milligan of Evansville, Ind.; Katherine Booth of Jacksonville, Ill.; Benjamin P. Hoffman of Lafayette, Ind.; S. E. Grote, A. DeYong, W. A. Kerechoff, George W. Smith, John A. Lee, J. W. McDonald and F. W. Crandall of St. Louis; A. H. Beckman, J. W. Porter and W. L. Farris of Louisville; E. E. Smith of Atlanta, E. E. Lebold of Richmond, Ind.; J. F. Johnson of Racine, Wis.; as also the delegates from Chicago, J. M. H. Mason of St. Joseph, Mo.; Chauncey Medbury of Fort La. Wis.; G. W. Collins of Portland, Ore.; J. M. Glasspell of Davenport, Ia., and others.

Most of the delegates left on the earliest train for their homes. Before going Chairman John S. ADVANTAGES OF THE JEWS

Dr. Levy of Philadelphia Discourses on the Opportunities of His Race.

Dr. J. Leonard Levy of Philadelphia was the guest of the congregation of Temple Israel last night on his way to the Pacific coast for a vacation trip. He was introduced by Dr. Frank H. Stone, one of the most learned and eloquent rabbis of the city, and he spoke in a very interesting way of the history and present condition of the Jewish people.

Dr. Levy based his address upon the words of Paul, "What advantage hath the Jews? Much, every way." The author of the remark was described by the greatest man that has lived in the last 1,800 years, a man who saw his race overcome by superior physical power and yet felt that the spirituality and moral power of the Jew would be sufficient to bring him the final victory. And his judgment was true for the Acropolis of Greece, the temples of Serapis and Diana of Ephesus, and others, were in crumbling fragments, while the religion of the Jew is still a power upon the earth, for to him, Dr. Levy said, were revealed the oracles of God. His first of all was the advantage of a correct ethical conception of the universe, the unity and eternity of God, the reality of a power indicated that might make right, the Jews' belief that that right made might, and so it has proved, as the names of Moses and Christ are those of Caesar and Napoleon.

Another advantage which the speaker said was credited to the Jews, was their invaluable gifts to the human race. Such a one, he said, was the bible, the most remarkable book mankind has ever produced. In it were truths thousands of years old which only were beginning to be understood at the present time. The prophecy in the verse, "Nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall there be war any more," Dr. Levy said, is even now coming to pass. The tolerance of the United States in its slowness to anger with Spain was given as an example that Anglo-Saxons at least, whom the speaker believed were the natural successors of the Jews in showing the way to spiritual and enlightenment, were ready for a reign of peace. The speaker finished with an appeal to Jews to be true to their conscience and the assurance that in the end they would be justified.

Robbed the Grave. A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition, morning and evening, low eyes, swollen tongue, coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Finally, a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters' to my great joy and surprise the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents per bottle at Kuhn & Co.'s drug store.

LOCAL BREVITIES. E. E. Welty of Walnut, Ia., was relieved of $12, all he possessed, in a disreputable desert at Twelfth and Capitol avenue last night.

Kittle Owens, unknown to police circles for several months, once more broke into jail last night for the alleged theft of $12.50 from the person of an Iowa visitor.

A permit has been issued to David Cole for the erection of a $1,000 iron-covered addition to his establishment at 1619 Barney street. Minor permits for improvements aggregating $200 in value have also been issued.

The travel on all lines centering in Omaha still continues heavy. The West and North No. 4 arrived yesterday in two sections and was late because of the heavy travel. The train on the Fort Atkinson route was also delayed by the crowded cars.

George Duff was arrested by a detective in the employ of the street car company last night for jumping on and off cars. He is suspected of being one of the pickpockets who have been so successful in robbing passengers upon citizens and visitors during the last few days.

FIVE HUNDRED IS MISSING

Money is Taken from Detrich and Boyd Residence, from the Custody of the Police.

The case of the State against G. H. Detrich has been on trial before a jury in Judge Slauch's court, the defendant being charged with setting up and keeping gambling devices.

Detrich and Boyd were the proprietors of the Diamond, a gambling house on Douglas street that was raided some weeks ago. After the state had concluded its case the defendant was placed upon the stand in his own behalf and entered a general denial.

He testified that when the raid was made something like $1,000 was taken and that he was of the opinion that $500 of this money had disappeared. He was not certain what had become of it, though he was of the opinion that it had been paid out by the chief of police without any authority.

South Omaha Gas Fight.

The case of H. M. Christie against the Omaha Gas company is having a hearing before Judge Scott. The plaintiff appears in his own behalf and asks that he be restrained from tearing up the streets in South Omaha for the purpose of laying gas mains. He alleges that the council, without justification, granted a franchise for carrying on the work and that the members of the body acted unwisely and against the best interests of the town.

Udolung Cupid's Work.

Judge Scott devoted a greater portion of the morning session of his court to severing the ties which unite the divorced couple ordered in the following cases: Grace M. Thompson against John B. Thompson, Samuel A. Bowman against Anna May Bowman, Sarah Lane against Arthur Lane; Anna M. Griffin against Joel F. Griffin, and Minnie A. Lowdell against George A. Lowdell.

Notes from the Courts.

In the case of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance company against the heirs of the Building company, the appraisers have made their return and have fixed the value of the theater property at $185,000. On this appropriation the heirs will make their claim.

The supreme court has issued an order suspending the carrying into effect the sentence imposed upon Henry Oerter, who was convicted in criminal court of setting up and keeping a gambling house. The defendant was found guilty and was fined $400 and costs.

John Morris has asked the court to appoint a receiver to receive the rents and profits of the property of Phoebe R. E. E. Linton. In making his application, he alleges that the client whom he represents, and keeping a gambling house, the defendant was found guilty and was fined $400 and costs.

Milkman Under Arrest. Martin Andrup, a milkman, was arrested last night on complaint of Andrew Christiansen, his employer, for starting out on his morning delivery and taking a milk can with him, and returning with other his liquid truck to the proceeds. The driver sent his horse to the dairy, which is in the neighborhood of Cutler, and his brother, Hans, who had a mortgage on the wagon, started out to see if they could get any return on the property. He found that in 30 minutes the wagon and milk cans to a friend, Christiansen says that the driver had given him $110 for material used, and he was charged with grand larceny.

HOW A WAR IS FOUGHT.

The Changes in the Mode of Warfare Illustrated by Pictures.

If you wish to properly understand the war news, if you desire a definite knowledge of naval affairs and the events that are occurring in the East and West Indies you can secure no better, no more reliable source of information than the official photographs of the United States navy, just issued by the Omaha Bee.

The price is only 25 cents, and more valuable and timely information is never offered for the money. It is on sale at The Omaha Bee counting-rooms, or will be sent to any address on receipt of price.

The book consists of nearly 200 pages of views made by E. H. Hart, naval photographer, and the list of subjects embraces everything of interest pertaining to our navy, of which every American is so proud.

First within the covers of this interesting work comes a map sixteen times as large as the book itself, showing on one side the Spanish possessions, and on the adjacent territory, while on the other side the East Indian possessions are similarly detailed.

Scarcely a line, with the distances intervening between different points, are shown, and a close study of these maps will give one a thorough understanding of the territory, in regard to which the interest of the American public is now at fever heat.

Then follow more than 200 rare pictures of the navy, its officers and equipment. The views are all authentic, and are the latest official photographs of our torpedo boats, torpedo boat destroyers, cruisers, battleships, gunboats, monitors, rams, dynamite cruisers, dispatch vessels, and other war craft, the whole embodying an authentic portrayal of the American navy as it exists today. A complete description of the construction, displacement, size, speed, batteries, armor, crew and cost of each boat is given, and the reader is given an accurate estimate of our fighting strength. Included with these are photographs of the leading Spanish men-of-war, also fully described.

Far the most interesting portions of the book are views of the Maine, taken before the disaster in Havana harbor, showing the life and discipline aboard a battleship, together with a portrait of the Maine's crew, supplemented by photographs taken after the explosion, depicting the divers at work, and other incidents in connection with this and other memorable events.

This work can be obtained by cutting a coupon from page two, and bringing it to The Bee office, Omaha, The Bee building, South Omaha, Twenty-fourth and N streets; Lincoln, 1626 O street; Council Bluffs, 10 Pearl street. By mail 4 cents extra for postage. Address Navy Photograph Department, Omaha, Neb.
