

RAIN DAMPENS THEIR ARDOR

Exposition Visitors Stay Down Town During the Forenoon.
STREET SCENES ARE QUITE INSPIRING
Busy Through Press Along the Down-town Thoroughfares, Giving Evidence of the Great Number of Strangers in the City.

Saturday of the exposition's first week started in as though it would make the city as moist as the lagoon, or the Midway. The heavy rains of the early morning drenched more than the arid of the visitors. Those who were late in getting home on Friday night were succeeded in getting drenched, and some of those who ventured out early on Saturday morning were not altogether dry. The rain also wet the flags flying from stores and office buildings about town, and made the color in some of the streamers run as fast as Spanish. Before noon, however, every one was glad that the rain had come, for it sprinkled the streets in fine style and cooled off the atmosphere to an appreciable degree.

There was all kinds of activity about town Saturday of the exposition's first week. The heavy rains of the early morning drenched more than the arid of the visitors. SCHOOLS' FESTIVAL OF SONG

Three Nights of Concert by the Seventh and Eighth Grades and the High School.
A festival of song will be given during the coming week by the school children of the seventh and eighth grades and the high school of the city at Boyd's opera house. Three concerts will be given—on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings—and 3,000 children will appear and sing at them. It will be the biggest musical entertainment ever undertaken by the schools of the city, and judging from the preliminary work, it will be the most successful and enjoyable.

All these thousands of children will not appear at each of the affairs, as the stage of Boyd's theater is not big enough to accommodate them all. They will make their public appearance 1,000 at a time. One night the school children of the seventh and eighth grades in the northern part of the city will appear, and on the following night the southern portion will have their part. The other part of the schools of the central part of Omaha will appear on the third evening. The high school contingent will be at all three.

Miss Fannie Arnold, the supervisor of the day, has been training the children at the schools for some time. It has been a stupendous task, but her success has been proportionate. The singing of the children is said to be unusually good. In her work Miss Arnold has been materially aided by the principals and teachers of the different schools who have taken as much interest in the work as the supervisor herself. The proceeds of the concerts are to be devoted to worthy objects. One portion will be turned over to the women's relief committee who are at work providing necessities and luxuries for the soldier boys who have enlisted in the war with Spain. The rest of the money will be expended in securing and increasing the libraries and the number of pictures in the public schools. This portion of the proceeds will be divided among the different school buildings.

LEARNING THE EXPOSITION

Union Pacific Passenger Men Going Over the Big Fair in Detail.
The family party of General Passenger Agent Lemax of the Union Pacific arrived in the city on Saturday morning and proceeded to at once gain all the possible information regarding the attractions of the exposition. The party includes twenty-two general agents of the Union Pacific's passenger department. The visitors are in charge of Samuel A. Hutchison, assistant general passenger agent of the Union Pacific.

The trip is mainly an educational one, though it will afford some pleasure to the men who have not had the opportunity of seeing this part of the country for several years. To have the energetic passenger officials view the exposition so that they could intelligently describe its attractions to prospective travelers was the main idea of the trip and it has been well carried out. The party spent nearly all day at the exposition grounds. They went directly there from the station and did not leave the exposition grounds until it was time for them to leave for their train. They left the city at 4:35 o'clock on Saturday afternoon for a trip over the Union Pacific's main line. They will be joined at Cheyenne by representatives of the road from Denver, Cheyenne, Butte and other western points. After a day at Salt Lake City and Ogden the party will return eastward through Kansas City. The trip will be under the personal supervision of Mr. Hutchison.

The following is a list of the visitors, including passenger men of various degrees from all the leading cities of the east, west, north and south: R. Tenbroeck, J. D. Tenbroeck, Willard Massey, E. J. Hutchison, A. Langlois, A. Myers, D. W. Johnson, W. T. Holly, A. G. Shearman, T. C. Hira, T. C. Wallace, J. W. Tuttle, J. F. Aglar, R. Tuttle, A. J. Ratcliffe, J. B. Frawley, J. B. THE FAMOUS ONYX FOUNTAIN

Visitors to the exposition should not fail to visit the finest and largest soda fountain on earth, made of Mexican onyx, white enamel and burnished gold, with the most harmoniously blended effect ever produced. The entire pavilion covers over 10,000 square feet. The main fountain is built in pendant shape and is without question the most magnificent sight of the exposition. It is the largest manufacturer of soda fountains in the country and are not in any manner allied with the trusts. Visitors when in the city will see one of the best efforts in the store of Myers & Dillon drug company, corner of 16th and Farnam streets. Visitors to the exposition will be courteously treated and served with nectars of the gods while listening to the seductive strains of the world-renowned Marine band—morning and evening—discouraging the most classical and popular music. Mr. T. B. Rains and Mr. J. B. Herron, the originator of the system of drawing soda water which has made the Onyx company famous and who is secretary of the company in Chicago, are giving the installation of the plant personal attention. Mr. Rains of the company is widely known as the largest manufacturer of soda fountains and the big fountain on the grand plaza under the big trees is the most delightful spot on the grounds.

CONSUMPTIVE TAKES POISON

F. W. Bowlin, Despondent Because of His Physical Condition, Commits Suicide.
Despondent, it is believed because he was afflicted with consumption, F. W. Bowlin, a young negro living at 1017 Capitol avenue, committed suicide yesterday morning by swallowing a quantity of morphine. He was found dead in his bed by his landlady about 10:30. From the appearance of the room it was evident that deceased had a violent hemorrhage just before he took the fatal draught. Bowlin was a stranger in the city and his antecedents are not known. He was about 22 years old. Pawn tickets and receipts for fines from the police court were the only papers found in his possession.

A Beautiful Woman. Always attracts attention, but if with a handsome face and figure is combined an artistic mind, she is an hundred-fold more attractive to all refined men and women. But mere outward beauty cannot long retain our admiration. It is the soul that is within, and behind it all that takes a permanent hold upon us. This we may apply to a piano. The case may be of choice woods and artistically designed, but it is the tone, the soul as it were, of the instrument that must be combined with it to complete the beauty which the case alone cannot supply. Such a combination is found in the Fischer piano, the cases are the most artistic and beautiful ever produced, but the tone quality brings out a new beauty to the piano as the artistic mind of the beautiful woman lends a new charm to her face and figure. We have an exhibition in our music room a very large and specially selected stock of these famous pianos, along with 22 other different makes, including the world renowned Chickering piano, rightfully termed the King of Instruments. We sell the very best pianos the world produces. We guarantee the price on any piano you select to be less than you will get anywhere else on earth. Every instrument sold guaranteed as represented or money refunded.

It's just as easy to use big words and make extravagant claims for poor shoes as for good shoes. But the selling of the shoes is rather different. People know good shoes when they see them. They know a poor shoe, too—the second time, if not the first. Our methods are simplicity itself square and straight-forward. We take the ground that you are the best judge of the shoe you want and the price you ought to pay. You tell us what you want—we show you what we have and what the price is.
