SOCIETY ON THE MIDWAY

Takes Its Time and Gases Upon the Attractions.

Usual Number of Receptions and Functions Fill in Days of the First Month of Sammer.

But for the advent of the Apollo club, the receptions to visiting convention delegates and the much abused Midway, society would scarcely have aroused itself from its mid-June siests. The week has been full of little dinners and delightful informat musicals. The Midway itself is scarcely more attractive than the throng of people who nightly stroll through bizarre villages, for here will be found the golf and blevele girl in athletic costume, the gauxy, befrilled and ruffled sweet society girl, the tailormade girl, gotten up to see and be seen, the veni-vidi-vici girl in the full panoply of conquest, and the military girl, with erect soldierly bearing, adorned with trophies, despoiled from many a soldier boy's uniform. In strong contrast with these are the Chinese, Dutch, Greek, Cuban and the scantily attired dansenses and vaudeville performers. The attention of the general society man is about equally divided hetween the two. As one sweet girl described him, he goes down the Midway and down in his pockets and usually leaves down in

As June draws to a close there is a decided decline in the matrimonial market-The summer crop of cupid's captives will defer their nuptials until Ceres gathers up her sheaves.

Society, as has been noted, has for the most part moved out to the exposition. How it spends its time there may be gathered from the following letter written by one of its members to an eastern friend:

OMAHA, June 25 .- My hear Carita; It hardly seems possible that it has been three weeks since last I wrote you, the days have such a way of hustling by in true western fashion, and particularly so now that we have so much to amuse us in

Of course we haunt the exposition and its charms are so many and varied that if I have to miss one evening I am quite mis-

The last week has been set aside for the representative state days, and crowds of people were in the city for the dedication of their own particular state building. Such a motley array you never saw and I do not suppose you ever will until you come west for we alone can show you these specimens of country gawkiness and ign They were varied and strange; I send you a few sketches I made of some of the most striking, so you may judge for yourself how highly entertaining the kaleidoscope

I have given you a general idea of the buildings by the garish light of day, but my dear girl you should see it at night. Last evening Jack and I dired at one of the big restaurants out there, and after a delicious little dinner we spent an hour on the largoon, and It was beautiful!

The buildings glow with electric lights the great fountain shoots forth colored sprays, the searchlights dance from palace to palace, bringing forth splendors in statuary, the whole reflected in the great basin which we were silently stealing in a

The picturesque did not end with the grand court, for you should have seen the that you could fairly swing on, a broad chest and sunny face, curly black hair and a fascinating accent. Of course I chatted with him about his Venetian home and he was most affable, while he handled his oar with that graceful case and finish that is

There is no other craft so dainty or graceful as a gondoln and these stately water birds of Venice are certainly in perfect harmony with the scene.

There is a launch on the lagoon in the shape of a swan and I wish it would bepuff itself off to another world. It fars on ones senses with its nervous manner and progressive airs, and reminds me of a fussy, old maid; one almost sees the corkscrey curls bobbing

You would laugh, I know, "Carita min," at the amount of sentiment I can conjure up over this dreamy scene; I can persuade myself into thinking that this white city around me is entirely genuine, and as firm and solid as the marble it represents; that it has taken centuries to erect these palaces and that they are now inhabited by kings

Well, enough, my dear, of reverles and dreams, so we bade our gondoller "good night" and started for the Midway.

I am sure you will enjoy this long stree with its gorgeous coloring, bits of foreigners, queer buildings and show palaces. It is pulsating with excitement, riotous with the strivings of a battalion of bands and peculiar to the last degree. When you come you shall see everything; there are all sorts of entertainments and big toys like the giant see-saw and the chutes to edify and take the breath away of tust such little Boston puritans as your-

We lingered in the German village for awhite and on leaving I was tempted to drop a curtesy and say. "By my troth and halidame, thou art a goodly knight" to the figure of more heroic days who bids you

Every exposition has some particular favorite spot where one is sure of meeting their friends, and as "old Vienna" was at the World's fair, "the Streets of All Nations" is to this exposition; so we wandered down the Midway with its fantastic scenes and queer people, and through the big gateway of this most popular rallying point in the It is an attractive corner; you find yourself in a street square, the colors are bright and warm, there are projecting bal-conies, mysterious archways, a theater, and everywhere are tiny shops overflowing with bracelets, belts, hat pins, shell ornaments and a hundred other odds and ends for which they ask amazing prices.

We wandered up to one of these booths,

Prove to Be of No Value in Mrs. Fritz's Case. "I extend my sincere thanks for the good advice you have given me. I do not be-Heve I would be living now if it were not for you. I had suffered with flow of blood for four months, and the doctors could help me but little. They operated on me three . times. It was very painful and I only obtained little relief. As long as they worked at me the blood stopped; but just as soon as they closed the door it would commence to flow again. I was so weak I could not turn in bed. At last my neighbors began to speak of patent medicines. Then I applied to Dr. Hartman. I did not know whether he could help me or not; but I followed his advice, and only used three bottles of Pe-ru-na and Man-a-lin. Now I am well and as strong as I ever was."

HAYDN'S "CREATION" IS RENDERED. Given in the Auditorium by the Dubuque Chorn! Association.

The Dubuque Choral association, under the direction of Mr. William H. Pontius. gave a performance of the "Creation" by Haydn and "Barbara Frietchie" by Jules Jordan last evening at the exposition Auditorium in the presence of an audience of about 1,000 people. The chorus numbered seventy-five singers, but sang with a volume of tone that would have done credit to twice that number. Prof. Pontius is a good drillmaster. He is full of life and has such confidence in himself and in his singers that he carries them through all sorts of difficulties with perfect safety when one less confident would meet disaster. By this it is not meant that the members of the choral association are not equal to the work chosen for performance, but instead simply a just tribute to the conductor. His latter were carried to a field hospital to interpretation of the oratorio was musicianly and his choice of tempi almost al ways accurate. He is not as familiar with the orchestra as he should be and in con ducting the recitatives he made the task rather difficult by neglecting to mark with precision the beginning of each bar. If to had been before a body of less thorough musicians than those of the Thomas orchestra he might have had trouble at times least fifty. last evening. The singing of the chorus was full of spirit and merited the enthusiastic applause which was accorded to all its work. The music of the "Creation" is intricate and far from easy, but all the difficulties were successfully met and con-soprano; Mr. Henry Stowe, tenor, and Mr. Homer Moore, baritone. Miss Estelle Rose brought all the way from New York to sing the contralto solo part in the "Crention," but as there never has been any such part | Santiago in the oratorio, of course, she did not sing it. This oversight by composer Haydn, who evidently did not foresce the action of the musical department of the exposition, compelled it to look about for something else for Miss Rose to sing and an appeal was made to the universal genius of the late Mr. Handel, well known in Omaha as the composer of "The Messiah." selections from which were recently given by the Apollo club of Chicago. The result was that Miss Rose sang the beautiful aria, "Lascia Ch'io Piango," from "Rinaldo," displaying a lovely contralto voice and a most artistic style of singing. It is to be hoped that she may yet be engaged for an oratorio in which there is a part for her and that she may be heard under circumstances that will afford her an opportunity to show her full powers as an artist. She will sing a solo this morning at the First Congregational church at the regular service.

proud of its choral association

Mrs. Markee possesses a clear soprano voice of especially good quality in the upper register and considerable flexibility. Her singing is not broad enough for oratorio, but further study will secure all the needed improvement. She was well received by the audience. The tenor, Mr. Stowe, has a lyric voice of considerable power and sings in a musicianly manner. He is fond of his high notes and occasionally sacrifices the integrity of the Interpretation in order to demonstrate their Boarding and Day School for Girls existence. He was also well received, as was also the baritone. Homer Moore. The concert closed with a short patriotic which is "The Star Spangled Banner," The playing of the orchestra was fully as artistic as one would expect from the musiclans who compose it.

Card to the Public.

Upon completing our duties as architectsin-chief of the Transmississippi and International Exposition we wish to give public expression to our appreciation of the services of the professional men who have been associated with us in this enterprise. We feel that the measure of success of the architecture and grounds, which is, we believe, universally acknowledged, is due t the training, skill, energy, and specially to the earnest good will and unity of action of the architects of the principal buildings. We also wish to recognize our indebtedness to Mr. Luther Stieringer and Mr. Henry Rustin for the scheme of lighting of the grounds and for the perfection of that scheme, which we believe has never been equalled in its effect; also, especially to Mr. Rudolph Ulrich for his indefatigable and successful labors in laying out and bringing o completion the landscape architecture; to Mr. H. Weatherwax for his efficient and untiring services both as chief draughtsman and as construction engineer, and to Mr. William Bellamy, the sanitary engineer, for his invaluable assistance in that department. While in many directions we have received valuable advice and aid, we desire the public to know that it is above all to Proclaims the Turnfest. OMAHA, June 25 .- To the Citizens of Omaha: I have been requested to announce that the Transmississippi Turnfest will hold its annual meeting in our city, beginning June 30, an continuing until July 3. This society of our German-American citizens is one of the most important organizations in the country for promoting strong physical manhood and womanhood. There will be more than 500 performing turners in attendance, and at least 10,000 people are expected to visit the city during this annual meeting. The colors and badges of the turnfest will be on sale at the flag tores of the city, and our citizens are requested to decorate their residences and places of business in honor of the occasion FRANK E. ### HORSES ARE BADLY NEEDED TWO KILLED BY A FALL Army Greatly Hampered by Lack of Beasts to Haul the Siege Cons.

(Copyright, 1898, by Press Publishing Co.) PORT ANTONIO, Jamaica, June 25 .-New York World Cablegram-Special Telegram.)-The disadvantage of a lack of orses for the army has become more apparent. At Biaquiri there are only horses chough to drag the artillery and none even for the officers. General Lawton had to walk at the head of his troops. The correspondents whose borses did not come are in dire straits. Major Forbes of the Rough Riders borrowed a mule. The Cubans hang any person selling horses or mules. One sold his mule for $150 and was pursued into doubtful. the mountains by the Cuban soldiers. Dispatches have been sent to hurry the horses along. The roads are bad and there is real difficulty in traveling. The task of moving the siege guns toward Santingo began to day. These are 51/2-inch guns and very
