Triplett. Mr. Triplett arrived here yesterday, having received a message from whom he ompanion of the young man who was with him at the time, that his son had been injured at Minden and brought to this city.

Mr. Triplett said his son was 18 years of age and had left home but two weeks ago to calist. It was thought he had gone to Des Moines, but his parents later heard that he had started for California to work on a fruit farm. Mr. Triplett thinks his son must have been making his way home when killed. Young Triplett had been married, but his wife died two days after the wedding, having been taken suddenly ill with diphtheria. Mr. Triplett took the body home with him last evening to Indianola. Coroner Jennings decided that no inquest was necessary as the railway company was not responsible in view of the fact that the young man was stealing a ride when he met with the injuries that proved fatal.

Deputy Revenue Collector Knox of this city has not as yet received a supply of the new adhesive revenue stamps that will be so much in demand in the transaction of business rive some time today so that they can be put in circulation in time for the opening As is well known by now every check

The rate on messages to Omaha and the Union Pacific transfer is now but 10 cents, so they will not come under the tax. Manager Atkins of the local telephone exchange estimates that only about fifty messages a month are sent 10 cents. Thus it will be seen so far as Council Bluffs is concerned the revenue from this source will be decidedly insignifi-

> All packages sent by express will have to pay 1 cent tax and this will be managed by affixing a stamp to the receipt that the express company gives to the shipper. The express companies will stand the cost of the stamp. The tax will necessitate the express companies giving a receipt for every package shipped over their lines, and in the case of business houses who do large shipping the stamps will have to be affixed to the receipt books. All money orders issued by the express companies, the same as checks, will have to bear a 2-cent stamp. This the purchaser will have to pay for. The source of revenue from express packages will be considerable, as it is estimated by the local express agents that over 10,000 packages of one kind and another are hipped monthly in this city by this means.

On bills of lading, which require a 1-cent stamp to be affixed to each, the railway companies have agreed to stand the tax. n the event, however, of a shipper requirng a duplicate bill of lading the shipper will have to pay the value of the stamp The same applies to live stock contracts. In the matter of railway tickets, on the contract part of each railway ticket calling the railway companies have decided to bear this share of the tax and not their clients. All sleeping car berth or seat tickets will inder the war revenue law be required to have a stamp on them and the sleeping car ompanies will bear the tax and comply with the requirement by having their con-

A revision of the charter under which this city is now operated is being talked of in official circles and it is more than likely that Mayor Enser will appoint a special committee of the council to take hold of the matter and consider a number of proposed amendments. The charter under which the city is governed at present was granted in 1889 and on account of South Omaha being the largest city of its class in the state there has always been some difficulty in securing legislation adapted to the needs here. Many provisions of the charter necessary for this city would be wholly useless for other cities of the same class and for that reason a thorough revision has been suggested.

In speaking about this matter yesterday City Attorney Montgomery said that one of the changes needed most is a provision empowering the council to make the cost of cleaning vaults and the removal of garbage matters a little and especially in so far as a lien on the property from which such Older claims of years standing are still unrefuse has been taken. Up to about a year ago this was the practice here, but a propaid while this claim is only a little more han a month old. test was filed against this manner of assessing special taxes against property and the courts sustained the complainant. Since trouble about the removal of garbage and the sanitary condition of the city has not been what it was prior to this decision. In order to compel property owners to remove night soil or garbage now it is necessary the use of the lot. As for the building, it for the sanitary inspector to file complaints in police court and cause the arrest of the donated to the city. The property to be acoffending parties. Naturally the owner of the prop- engine may be kept there if necessary. erty gets tired of paying for the removal of such stuff, and as the tenant is gone there is no way in which the city scavenger can be paid for his work unless the city allows the bill out of the general fund. This latter plan was tried once after the scheme to levy a special tax against the property was knocked out and the case was taken to the courts by one member of the council, who objected to having the taxpayers at large pay a bill for the removal of garbage from private property. Another amendment which is badly needed is one to allow the council to levy more than 3 mills for fire purposes. A levy of 3 mills is not sufficient to pay the expenses of the present fire department, let alone paying for repairs to apparatus, hose, etc. It is thought that at least a 6-mill levy ought to be made in order to provide for the increase in the department which is needed. The fire department as now organized consists of a chief, assistant chief, four men, two hose carts and 1,600 feet of hose. Another hose cart is needed for Brown park and men and horses to man the hook and ladder truck have been asked for by the chief. Some of the equipment now in service is wearing out and the horses will have to be replaced before long, besides this, the chief says that he needs three additional men. To properly support the department it will take not less than a 6-mill levy. Another section of the charter which needs remodeling is the allowance for police protection. The charter provides that a 5 mill levy only shall be made for the maintenance of a police force. More men are needed and residents are constantly complaining about the lack of protection afforded. Five or six men are not sufficient to properly pratrol this city at night although there is not so much need of more men in the day time. It is stated by those who have looked into the matter that the force ought to be increased to fifteen men. This would leave five men on duty days and ten men at night. A levy of not less than 8 mills is deemed necessary for this purpose.

The present method of assessment is point which will surely receive the attention of those interested in the proposed changes. The charter should, it is claimed. amended to provide for the election of an assessor for the city at large instead of having one for each ward. The reason for this is apparent as it would insure a more uniform listing of the property in the various wards and would tend toward placing the choice of the people in the office regardless of the wishes of the corporations. Mayor Ensor appears to be heartily in favor of some of the changes suggested and thinks that it would be a good idea for a committee to consider the proposed amendments and have bills draws. Then he favors the sending of a man to Lincoln for the purpose of presenting the needs of the city
