Good Crops Prospects Again Weaken the Wheat Market.

Everything Else is Affected by This Depression and Corn, On the Advance.

Depression and Corn, On the Advance. All Provisions Advance in Price.

CHICAGO, June 30.—Prospects of an enormous crop weakened wheat today after a slightly better hour nothing about, but closed 3c lower and September lost 2-3c.

Comfort weather throughout the winter wheat belt so favorable for the continuance of harvesting and threshing operations gave wheat an appearance of confidence to the bull force that raised in the pit the latter half of the session yesterday. Those who thus dismissed the opening conditions were unwise in the opinion of the market, for in less than ten minutes the fever had again reached the stage it had attained the day before and in another hour nothing about, but heard but calls of shorts for wheat and prices of futures began to fall. The closing price of which was 5-5c, started at 5-3/4c from 5-1/2c to 5-1/4c, but it quickly advanced an upward movement, and reached great dimensions, both in the volume of the transactions and the extent of the advance.

Shorts, who had been conservative, falling themselves over the reaction in prices at 5-1/4c bid, became more active and the price of September reached 5c and commenced to feel thoroughly alarmed when it got to 5-1/4c.

When it was climbing from 5-1/2c to 5-3/4c, the price had advanced from 5-1/2c to 5-3/4c, the opening price of the wheat, which had been reported from people in the trade in various western sections, had been exaggerated to the amount of damage done by rust and blight, some of them suggestive of the conditions which had advanced was all lost on reports from sources conversant with the broad general situation of the wheat crop in the west, which indicated a crop of unusual magnitude.

Traders Close Up Business Preparatory to the Holidays.

NEW YORK, June 30.—Continued dullness of the stock market today justified the judgment of the members of the Stock Exchange that it was hardly worth while to keep open for Saturday's half day's trading.

NEW YORK, June 30.—The closing of today's business consisted of closing up and evening up outstanding contracts preparatory to the closing of the market on Saturday. This dullness in the market in the face of the actual existence of war in the striking contrast to the general nervousness which dictated the abolition of the usual stock exchange holiday on Good Friday last year.

BRANDON'S THIRTY-FIVE SONS.

Came from Fighting Stock and Seventeen of Them Served in Civil War.

"I have been reading in the papers since the war began a good deal about families with fighting sons, so ready and patriotic that as many as four and six brothers.

Clairville, Va., to a New York Sun correspondent, "and it has made me feel good; but I don't believe any family, no matter how ready and patriotic its sons are, will be able to equal the record of old man Brandon's, for it is doubtful if there is another one in the entire land that could turn out seventeen sons to fight for their country. That's what Charles Brandon's family was able to do, and did so, in 1861."

Charles Brandon lived at Mountaiville, Va., and died when he was 95 years old, but his youngest child was less than a year old. He died of a broken heart, just as the civil war broke out, his wife having refused to live with him any longer, and having begun proceedings against him to obtain a divorce.

When he took his last breath, he was 95 years old, and he had been married three times. His first wife bore him seven sons, all of whom were killed in the war. His second wife bore him five sons, all of whom were killed in the war.
