

NATIVE MUSIC OF AMERICA

Students Discuss the Question of a National School at the Congress.

MANY RAMIFICATIONS OF THE TOPIC

Messrs. Coe, Moore, Gow and Nelson Talk of the Possibilities and Necessities of What They Have to Be a Growing Fact.

With a day entirely devoted to discussions and compositions of a distinctly American or patriotic character the musical congress finished its work.

Louis C. Elton of Boston presided over the morning session and addresses were delivered by N. Coe Stewart of Cleveland on "Music in the Public Schools" and Homer Moore on "The Adaptability of American Music to the Public Schools."

Remarks that "this is said to be a child's age," Mr. Stewart presented many good suggestions as to the teaching of music, both as an art and as a science.

Mr. Moore presented as an example of "early American music" a history of the music of the American music drama, an outline of an original story drawn from two interwoven legends of witch-burning days in Massachusetts.

He regarded music as a subject which should be taught in all schools, and on this point said: "Let us say boldly that the children of America have two native languages, English and music."

Full of entertainment was the address of Louis C. Elton on "Our National Music," in which he traced back to its original parent on the other side of the Atlantic, such as "Yankee Doodle" to "Lucey Lockett Lost Her Pocket."

He also gave the origin of "Hall Columbia." Many of these old tunes, that is, the airs they developed from, Mr. Elton played on a piano so that the audience could make comparisons.

FOURTH AT OLD FORT OMAHA

Colonel Bryan's Regiment Observes the Day in a Very Enthusiastic Manner.

Probably no more patriotic celebration occurred anywhere yesterday than that which took place at Fort Omaha. The boys of the Third regiment, Nebraska Volunteer Infantry, are not permitted to go beyond the line of pickets, so a special celebration was arranged and several thousand people from Omaha joined with the soldiers in making the affair a great success.

BRIEF LIST OF ACCIDENTS

One Boy Badly Burned, Some Glass Broken and a Man Gored by a Cow.

Twelve-year-old "Babe" Palmer's attempt at Fourth of July celebration may be the cause of his death. He was lying at Boulevard and Forty-fifth street in a serious condition. The flesh on his body, hands and arms is burned almost to a crisp. One of his eyes is completely burned out.

The accident happened near the lad's home, where he with other small boys were shooting off fireworks. Young Palmer had a small cannon and his pockets bulged with powder for the cannon charges.

An explosion of what is believed to have been dynamite damaged the windows in the buildings in the vicinity of Fifteenth and Chicago streets to the extent of $75,000.

Albert Dumski, who lives near Tenth and Charles streets, was almost scorched to death by a signal light at Grand and Eighth streets yesterday afternoon.

A clean train made up and started from Omaha, baggage checked from residence to destination.

A fine display of fireworks in the evening completed the celebration at the fort.

Offered by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway.

SOUTH OMAHA NEWS.

The Board of Education met yesterday and organized by the selection of John Fitz Roberts for president.

Text books and courses of study: Shupp, Wyman, Loechner, Lott, Brennan, Rules and regulations: Bruce, Roberts, Wyman.

By this arrangement of committees the four union members are each given chairmanship of committees while the new members are also equally well provided for.

Another meeting of the board will be held on Friday evening of this week.

It is expected that the brewers association will reach some conclusion today in relation to the complaint of the South Omaha saloon keepers regarding the war tax on beer.

Among the charter amendments which have been suggested is the selection of a city attorney by a vote of the people.

For the first time in a number of years there was no celebration here yesterday.
