DRESS FOR SUMMER GIRLS.

Gloves, Pins, Ribbons and Various Articles of Adornment.

NEW YORK, July 14.—This is the time when the summer girl, not Paris, leads all the well dressed world by a system of charming chicnery that we may all deplore, but which, like floating thistle down, yields its influence after all.

For example, your truly well-set-up girl at the seaside does not wear a gold, silver or gun metal chain about her neck. She cares not if the metal thread is striding with jewels as big as her thumb and as precious as the tomb of Mahomet.

Smoked Glasses.

The green eye patch that Woden wears in the Wagoner opera is not more becoming than the common smoked glasses of cheap manufacture, but the pincery that the hot weather flower of fashion sets astride her nose bears not the least relation to the green goggles of the weak-eyed student.

how their number five pispkin covered extremities may appear in this bold relief, enjoy the suggestion of extreme youthfulness that these brief skirts undoubtedly convey.

To bleach her hair in the sun is another latter-day notion of the woman who fares by the seaside. For this reason cutting hair is somewhat at a discount, all save a very ugly and unbecoming, but none the less vigorously adopted refer cap made of white canvas.

One of the very newest things for supporting a wealth of tress is the hair bodkin that some women have adopted as an entire substitute for the two-pronged pin.

THE MAN THAT IS NEAR.

TWO SUMMER FANS.

To preserve the eyes soft and bright, some protection must be sought. This realization sent the girls packing to the jeweler, and he has put on the market a glass. It is gold-rimmed or not as you please, and if you are a brown-eyed girl, buy the glass that is stained a soft, palish brown; if you have black eyes, then take glasses flushed with green; if blue are your eyes, by all means select blue glasses, and so your way rejoicing.

The crystal is not ground to magnify, but to cast a grateful shade betwixt your tender pupils and the sun. In no instance is a deeply toned glass used. Their colors resemble those seen in this smoke on a frosty day.

A Novel Glove.

The glove of most importance, while July is with us and August near, buttons up behind. That is, its catch and opening are at the back instead of the inside of the wrist.

There is a noticeable predisposition among smart women for avoiding the use of silk ribbon and leather belts. A large per cent of sailing, golfing, bicycling and even walking skirts are so trimmed at the waist line that a belt is unnecessary.

The Sensible Skirt.

Fashion has arrived at a degree of sweet reasonableness in the matter of skirt lengths that though it was not expected is none the less deeply appreciated.

ing brilliancy of their material. A cape of vivid corse cloth will have a collar of turquoise blue velvet, corded along the edge with gold braid and a thin silk lining will be of a color to match the collar.

DESCRIPTION OF ILLUSTRATIONS.

The pleasing rule of infinite variety is closely followed by the makers of our summer robin, and golden orioles. If I miss cutting the roses one morning, even, I feel that I have lost something which cannot be replaced.

She never sells a flower. Instead, she gives them as royally as they deserve to be given. After her own home is wreathed with them they go to friends in town, to friendly neighbors, to the tenants of her husband's great business blocks, to the sick in the hospitals and to such strangers within the city gates as the rose-giver may know will care for her gifts.

Notwithstanding the rose cutting, the rose planting, Mrs. Cole's hands are sofly white. Always in her garden she wears open-fingered, home-knit white cotton gloves.

THIN WOMEN CAN GAIN FLESH.

"First of all, the person inclined to thinness must learn to be quiet, even in active exercises," writes Mrs. S. T. Rorer in the July Ladies' Home Journal.

THE CZAR'S DECREE.

Royal Approval of Woman's Advance in the Profession.

The present czar of Russia is said to be very favorable to all movements in the direction of the advancement of women, and although woman's clubs, congresses, conventions, mothers' meetings, etc., do not blossom on every hillside, there is in Russia a large class of earnest, intellectual women who work side by side with the best equipped men of that talented race and who enjoy privileges beyond any ever accorded women in America.

LADIES' TRY IT FREE

A Free Trial Package of a Remedy That Gives Health, Happiness and Personal Beauty.

Do Not Be Backward but Write at Once and a Trial Will be Mailed in Plain Package, Postage Prepaid.

Portrait Mrs. A. L. Moque.

For every condition that makes a woman miserable, pale, stinky, wrinkled and faded, a trial package of an absolutely unflinching remedy is mailed free to all who write.

Worry, anxiety, sleepless nights, eyes that betoken care and sickness, frightful headaches, painful monthly sicknesses, dragging sensations, fallen or displaced womb, leucorrhoea, aches and despair. All of these wearisome and harrowing conditions are positively cured by this marvelous remedy.

It is an extremely unfortunate fact that ladies continue to suffer rather than expose their true condition. They do dread the doctor's examination and have such a terrible fear of a possible operation that rather than face such an ordeal they would rather have the disease. And it has never been thoroughly proven but what she is correct in her reasoning.

As with complete a cure as her fondest hopes could wish for. Experience, however, has shown that nearly every woman has tried many medicines without relief. They have also been under the care of physicians without material benefit.

"Consider all these various conditions and circumstances it cannot be wondered at that the sufferer gives up in despair and positively refuses to believe that there is a remedy that can turn her life towards the sunshine.

It is for this reason that Hazeline is sent free to try. And this free trial brings such an emphatic relief, such a feeling of unusual freedom has such a remarkable action in loosening the tightness that drags and tugs at the vitals as to immediately denote that there is the exact remedy for a condition which seemed incurable.

Mrs. M. Beck of 135 William St., Newark, N. J., was cured after suffering 30 years with painful menstruation, inflamed ovaries, bladder trouble and many other diseases.

Mrs. Louise Brosing of Elberfeld, Warrich Co., Ind., says she is so thankful to be cured after 12 years of frightful suffering that she is willing to do or say anything that helps spread the knowledge of wonderful Hazeline. It cured Mrs. Chas. Wilbraugh of Sandusky, O., after she had given up to die and is now the marvel of all her friends; she lives, stronger, happier and younger.

Mrs. Minnie Williams, 10417 Avenue M., South Chicago, Ill., says there is no reason why girls and married ladies should have painful menstruation when they can use Hazeline and be cured. Mrs. Con. Frisch of Fresno, Cal., was cured by Hazeline and she declares it is the grandest medicine in the world.

Mrs. Lina Tortz of Thayer, Mo., suffered six years and a single box of Hazeline gave her back the health she enjoyed in her girlhood days.

Mrs. Lina Herzinger, 1025 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., Mrs. Louisa Baehr, 5144 Carnegie St., Pittsburg, Pa., Mrs. F. L. Priebe, Gaylord, Minn., Mrs. Fred Slack, Wellsboro, Ind., and Mrs. Margaret Schaeffer of Constance, Neb., are among many hundreds of others whose cases of long standing and frightful severity were cured by this marvelous remedy. Send your name and address to the Hazeline Co., 221 Bressler block, South Bend, Ind., and they will forward by prepaid mail a free trial package of Hazeline. Send it. Send today. Do so no matter how you are so doubtful that you are utterly discouraged. This remedy will cure you and there is absolutely no doubt about it. Write today without fail. In case you prefer to begin treatment at once you can obtain a full sized package at your druggist for $1.00.

of butter at this meal would not be too great a quantity if well constituted with the bread. Use also a baked potato, or a couple of tablespoonsful of boiled rice, or as a desert, rice pudding, custard, any of the light souffles, or Bavarian cream—in fact, anything but cake, pie or boiled puddings. Avoid the use of heavy gravies.

"For the night meal have a clear soup, a red meat, either beef or mutton, with a baked potato, or mashed potato browned in the oven, or a potato croquette, or rice in any form, stewed macaroni, a green vegetable, and a salad composed of a green vegetable with French dressing. Do not have more than two vegetables at one meal, beside the salad. For desert have a Charlotte, a little ice cream eaten slowly, or any of those above mentioned, or a wafer that has been thoroughly toasted, and any of the ripe cheeses. For luncheon, where cream soups cannot be used, a cup of cocoa or chocolate with cream is exceedingly valuable.

go to the front to take care of the sick or wounded soldiers. Miss Phelps is 19 years old and a blonde. Her naturally curly hair, arranged in pompadour fashion, is of a golden brown, where the tints of the sun seem caught and held, and her gray-blue eyes are frank and fearless as a child's.

"It does not seem to me much of a sacrifice," she said, in talking of her intention of enlisting. "All the men are volunteering. It is only natural the women should want to do something."

Her experience in the hospital has quite dissipated a few notions, and she may have had, though it has by no means dimmed her ardor.

"I like it thoroughly. It is hard, but then, you know, it agrees with me," and the pink color deepened in Miss Phelps' pretty cheeks to verify her assertion. "No, I have not done any very rough work. I'm on watch duty and assist in bandaging, and all that sort of thing. I don't expect to become a nurse in a few weeks, and if we are called to Cuba I shall go as an 'aid,' as they are termed."

Miss Phelps admitted that every effort is being made to dissuade her from her purpose. Her two brothers—one of whom is at Harvard and the other at St. Paul's school, Vernon—will leave for England June 17. "And they want to take me with them," she said prettily. "I cannot tell, I am sure. If the Red Cross call is certain, I shall go in the first detail."
