Becords of the Gates the Most Potent of Arguments.

Present System of Passes and of Their Issuance Offers a Premium "& on Dishonesty-Not Seeking a Place.

more people into the grounds than the pay gates has for some time past been the source of serious alarm to the managers of the exposition. The number of free passes has become manifest that hundreds if not thousands pass through the pass gates daily who have no right, who have either been smug- | tion directing the employment of an ingled on the free list or are traveling on others' names. As there has been no check on free admissions and no system whatever to prevent imposition or detect fraud Manager Resewater has for weeks been urging the appointment of a pass inspector with authority to check up the deadheads, after comparison of lists, and to devise some system by which the free list should be curtailed and imposture stopped. More than two weeks ago a resolution was adopted by the executive committee directing the Bureau of Admissions to employ such an inspector. The head of the bureau-Manager Lindsey-repeatedly asserted that he could not find a competent person for the place. Last week, on Wednesday, Mr. Lindsay, fust before starting for a trip to Dakota Hot Springs, with other members of the executive committee, was again reminded of the urgent need of the pass inspector, and said then to Manager Rosewater that if he Andy Sawyer, but it was of a questionable could find a man he considered qualified to engage him. Two days later, on Manager Rosewater's recommendation the committee tendered the place to Mr. T. W. Blackburn at $5 per day for whatever time he might be occupied. Mr. Blackburn, on being notified of the committee's action called on tion being that he had turned it over to Manager Bruce, who was then acting in place of Manager Lindsay of the Ways and Means department, and was requested to await the return of Manager Lindsay before assuming the duties. In the meantime Mr. Blackburn visited the Bureau of Admissions and endeavored to familiarize himself with the condition of affairs and the task that was to be imposed upon him. On Mr. Lindsay's return Mr. Blackburn wrote him the following letter:

Makes Some Suggestions.

OMAHA, July 25.—Z. T. Lindsay, Esq.— My Dear Sir: At a meeting of the executive committee of the Transmirsissippi and In-ternational Exposition association on Friday afternoon, I was elected pass inspector. This action was taken without solicitation on my part and I do not know whether or not I can afford to accept the position. However, I have spent some time in making inquiries, and submit the following sug-gestions as to infirmities discovered: 1. The card passes, trip passes, working-men's passes, press passes and employes passes afford the exposition no protection

Whatever against abuse.
2. There is no check attempted whereby to detect abuses in the matter of issuing passes on the request of heads of depart-

d. There is no record of the use made of any form of time passes. 4. There is no check against the num-bers, and any printer could duplicate any form of exposition pass except the photo-graph passes without danger of detection. Collusion between the holder of any form of pass and the gatekeeper will permit one, two, three or even six persons to use the same pass. the identity of the holder of the pass other than a photograph pass, is the signature the holder of such pass makes with a 7. There is no record made against a department on time passes, nor against any exhibitor or concessionaire who may hold 8. In the matter of certain kinds of passes the superintendent of a department makes a request for a flat number and he is not required to advise the Bureau of Admissions to whom the same were issued or by whom they were used.

9. When a fraud is detected no record is made, which will prevent the same party from the same fraud through another department, or even the same department. Instances have come to the attention of the Bureau of Admissions where out-oftown persons have loaned their passes to other visitors, but these would not have dropped on the ground that it would be imbeen detected, except for the excessive stucard pass, requiring no signature of the owner, and affording no means of determin-ing whether the party presenting it is the pidity of the recipients of the passes. one to whom it was issued or not, might almost as well read, "Admit bearer."

Invitation to Fraud.

11. The forms adopted for passes, with the exception of the photograph pass, are all wrong, and afford unlimited opportunity for fraud. In fact, they invite deception, and place a premium upon sharp practice, and I do not see how it is possible to avoid frauds, so long as they are used. Whoever devised these surely had a sublime faith in the absolute honesty of visitors to an exposition.

12. Exhibitors and concessionaires can and do obtain more passes than they are enti-tled to, but the pass records of the Bureau of Admissions do not present any facilities for correcting the abuse, since no charge whatever appears against the exhibitor of oncessionaire.

13. It is possible for one and the same man to get an exhibitor's pass, a concessionaire's pass, an employe's pass and a workingamn's pass, as well as one reading Mr. Hyde's report. simply "reporter," and to have a friend us-ing each of the passes every day, and each friend letting in four or five other friends, with the gate keepers all doing their duty. 14. There are fifty trip passes each, per week, issued to each head of a department, and nobody pretends to check over the stubs of these trips, and not the least attempt is made to prevent such trip passes being transferred at will. transferred at will.

15. In your absence, I did not feel justified in demanding permission to examine records in your department, and, of course, did not call on other department officials for information, but I saw enough and learned information, but I saw enough and learned enough to warrant me in saying, that if the exposition is not losing thousands of dollars as the result of pass frauds, it is because the people attending the exposition are either scrupulously honest, or hopelessly stupid. Well known as I am in Omaha, I will undertake, on a wager, with a single card pass, to admit six friends, no one of whom shall resemble me in any particular, and I shall not tamper with the gate keeper either.

As to the correction of the abuses, I have some definite notions, which could be sub-mitted, if desired.

My time is quite well occupied now with my own business. I am not seeking outside engagements, and the compensation proengagements, and the compensation pro-posed, is no inducement to me to abandon my office to a clerk, and give my entire time to exposition work. However, if the executive committee has confidence in my ability to perform the duties of the office of pass inspector, will clothe me with the necessary authority, provide necessary cler-ical help, office rooms, records, etc., and permit me to apply myself to the proposed inspection in my own way, leaving me re-sponsible solely to the executive committee. sponsible solely to the executive committee, I think I can arrange to serve. If the conditions are not satisfactory, I am unwilling to accept the place so unexpectedly tendered me. Yours truly,

T. W. BLACKBURN.

Complies with a Request, When the committee met Tuesday, Manager Lindsay, who has just returned from his trip, said he thought Manager Rosewater had invaded his prerogatives as head of the Bureau of Admissions. Manager Rosewater recalled the fact to Mr. Lindsay that he had been asked to find a good man

NEED OF A PASS INSPECTOR qualified. He assured Mr. Lindsay that he had no desire to invade his department, or any other prerogative, but called his attention to the fact that while he had for eight een months allowed Mr. Lindsay, who is chairman of the board, to call to the chair other managers, the fact remained that he (Manager Rosewater), is the legitimate chairman of the board in the absence of BLACKBURN POINTS OUT DOOR FOR FRAUD | Manager Lindsay, being second on the list INCREASE of managers, and under all parliamentary usages, the second person on a committee becomes its head in the absence of the chairman. Reiterating the circumstances under which Mr. Blackburn had been employed, Manager Rosewater said $5 a day was not too much to pay a man competent to take charge of the in The fact that the pass gates admitted portant business which would come under the control of inspector of passes. Judge Haxter Decides One Case Is Strong Enough to Require Further Investigation.

County Judge Baxter dismissed one of the cases against William Ball of Valley, the one for keeping liquor on hand with intent to violate the law, but he held him on the other, namely, for disposing of beer consigned to him. The bond was fixed at $300. The complaint in the former case was based on section 20 of the liquor law. The only evidence in this, said the court, against Ball amounting to anything was that of character and the court would not hold any person on any evidence of that kind. As to the other case, Ball, himself, had stated on the stand when testifying in his own behalf, that he had had beer consigned to him by the keg from this city, his explana-John Yager without profit. It was an arrangement entered into between the two men to save Yager money. However, tho section under which this case was brought is very explicit. It is section 11 and does not make any allowance for any question of intent. It says: "To sell or give away on any pretext." Judge Baxter considered the evidence of Ball ample of itself to show probable cause that there had been a violation of the law.

The substitute bottle of liquor did not cut much of a figure either way. Anticipating that the defense would try to make it appear that there was a conspiracy among the witnesses for the state to palm off the substitute on the court as original, Mr. Winter endeavored to have Lon Byers, one of the Valley village board, swear that Attorney A. J. Sullivan representing the defense, had told him on Sunday last, while Marshal Miller and Constable Rice were armed with a search warrant, that he (Sullivan) had then the original bottle in his possession but the court sustained an objection from Attorney Rich, who also engaged in the de-

Mr. Rich, in his argument, contended that the authorities for the state were "persecut ing rather than prosecuting" his client, considering that the matter had already been sifted by Justice of the Peace Stenglein and he made much of the right of the defendant to have a bottle of liquor in his ice box a home for the benefit of himself, family and friends, if he desired to keep it. The consignment of the beer to Ball, said Mr. Rich, was not conclusive in showing that Ball The gatekeeper's sole reliance as to was criminally guilty of a violation of the bearing the pictures of criminals wanted

> The surety for Ball was Edson Rich himself. Mr. Rich did his best during the afternoon to have Judge Baxter reconsider his order by presenting to him the law and stores about the city. Detectives Savage some decisions covering the point of Ball's and Dempsey were detailed for this work responsibility for having the three kegs of But only machines that pay the player beer pass through his hands, but Judge money are included in the order. Baxter maintained that all he could do was violation of the law by Ball. If the guilt or innocence, said he, had to be settled one way or the other by himself he did not think the evidence was sufficient to convict in the face of the rulings of the courts on the question of "giving" liquor. Mr. Rich then endeavored to persuade the prosecuting possible to find a jury that would convict. Mr. Winter, too, thought that a conviction would be rather improbable, but he felt it his duty to take the matter into court and have it determined there.

Creedon Against Patrick.

The Creedon against Patrick case drags slowly along before Judge Fawcett. Mr. Mahoney, the attorney representing Contractor Creedon, has no less than 1,200 exceptions to Referce Hyde's report and there are 640 items to be gone over seriatim. Creedon's claim for about $15,000 was pre sented while Judge Duffie was on the bench udge Duffie turned over the matter to M. D. Hyde as referce. The claim was for building the Patrick home in Happy Hollow. The defense raised was that Creedon had already been overpaid and a counter claim was made to offset his. After several volumes of testimony were taken Referee Hyde decided that instead of Mrs. Patrick owing anything to Creedon, he was really indebted to her about $500. Hence the fight against

The matter has been in litigation now for several years and the Patrick estate, including about $175,000 worth of land, is tied up under a mechanic's lien.

Habeas Corpus Case Postponed. The habeas case before Judge Scott of the two youths charged with highway robbery, Dellbridge and Porter, was postponed a day for the reason that no one in the county attorney's office was in a position to attend to the matter. The petition for the writ goes at some length into the character of the evidence against the prisoners. It says that Johnson, the main witness against them, a man of maturer years, was the one who knocked the victim of the robbery, Rothman, down, and that, furthermore, notwithstanding it was alleged that Rothman was relieved of $8, only 90 cents was found on the prisoners when they were arrested a half hour later.

An increase in the individual deposits, however, is a sure sign of improving conditions. The opinion of other bankers and men who are posted in financial matters is much the same. The fact that so much money remained in the banks in place of being invested in government bonds points clearly that people who have money are looking for an investment that will yield a larger income than 3 per cent and the prospect is flattering for the circulation in the near future of large sums of money, which have lain idle for a long time.
