Since the an adjunct to a modern fleet should prove its worth at once and so signally in the intricate science of naval conflict is strong evidence, not only of the need which it has filled, but of the vigilance and foresight of the engineer-in-chief of the navy, with whom its design originated and under whose direction its plant has been installed.

In preparing for this exigency the Navy department at the outset of the war purchased the steamship Chatham, re-named it the Vulcan and fitted it out with much expedition at the Boston navy yard. It may here be noted that the Vulcan is not the first repair ship which the engineer-in-chief has projected. The notice given by Sheriff McDonald that he proposed to break up the practice of robbing strangers has served its purpose temporarily at least. Deputy Mitchell will still remain here in order to prevent a return of the confidence men who are reported to have gone to Council Bluffs for a brief vacation. Those who have been reaping a harvest by the work of the flimflammers are naturally sore. but they expect to get matters adjusted so as to return to the old-time practice before essary to do so in order to break up the gang.

Deputy Mitchell makes his headquarters most of his time watching the Kirby hotel and the saloons in the vicinity of Twentyfourth and Q streets. He requests that any citizen who has a complaint to make leave word with Justice White and the matter will be attended to.

The coat which George Adams left at Judge White's office when he jumped out of the window Saturday is still in possession of the judge and it is hoped that Adams will ome back to claim the garment. Warrants for W. S. Rae and a number of other alleged confidence men are now in the hands of Deputy Mitchell and these men will be arrested on sight. The law permits a justice of the peace to sentence a common gambler to ninety days in the county jail and this is what those who are brought before Judge White can expect.

Permanent Sidewalk Trouble. A big howl is going to be made by Tweny-fourth street property owners against the ordinance which is now before the city council creating a permanent sidewalk district on Twenty-fourth street from J to L streets. In some cases the walks are in fairly good ondition, having been laid within the last twelve months, and naturally the property with brick or stone at this time.

Building a New Roadway. A grading outfit is now camped on the hill west of the stock yards and just north of the standpipe. This outfit will commence work today on the roadway which is to be constructed from the Exchange building to the west end of the L street viaduct. It s the intention of the stock yards company to build a macadam roadway forty feet in width and 1,200 feet in length and considerable grading will be needed in or der to prepare the ground for the broken stone. Four inches of gravel will be used as a top dressing and a fine driveway will thus be constructed.

Walks on N Street. Building Inspector Dunscomb is now paying some attention to the condition of the permanent walks on N street. Many of these walks, which are of brick, were laid late last fall and the work was not done as thoroughly as was expected. In a number of cases the walks have been damaged by heavy rains so that they are worse that no walk at all. Inspector Dunscomb has served notice on the property owners to make the needed repairs at once and in compliance with these orders work was commenced on a number of walks yester-

Prominent among the local lights who were converted from barbarians to loyal subjects of the king last evening were the general solicitor of the exposition and the superintendent of the American Express company. Both were warmly greeted by the knights assembled and were reminded that while the growd wanted the Sunday admission of 25 cents to stick the same request did not hold for the stamps on express packages. Then there were some scribes, and a few pharisees, from the country precincts, and they were not overlooked in the distribution of favors. Every one had a chance at the grab bag and appeared to get his money's worth. The visiting scribes struck good lend for once in their lives and the farmers who had been praying for rain for several weeks had their hearts' desire more than gratified.
