ing and food for those who can join its colony, as a return for services rendered. There are no loiterers at this hotel. Those who occupy the "rooms with bath" are no more exempt from the duties, the performance of which entitles the boarders to the privilege of the house, than are those of humbler men who sleep in apartments of lesser attractions and fewer conveniences. Everybody does a full day's work; everybody is fully repaid for that work by living conveniences, good food, and a fair, though not extravagant, salary. These salaries amount each month to a trifle over $20,000, and no man, from the humblest boarder at $250 per month, but fully earns his pay. Out of this they must purchase their own clothes, soap, towels, shoes, and even knives and forks, while about thirty-three of them who are interested in the active management of the great hotel, although not in its financial output, furnish their own food, drawing out a proportionatealy larger salary as a ration commutation.

> tendants. It is with this immense and inique hotel's commissary that this article is intended mainly to deal. The commoner commodities of life are purchased or made in auge quantities, and are for the dwellers under Uncle Sam's roof, exclusive of the thirty-three managers and servants. In one month 16,000 leaves of bread, one pound to a loaf, are made in the bake shop, and thirty-five pounds of yeast are consumed in the making. To butter the bread 1,000 pounds per month of the best butter obtainable are used. For breakfasts 900 pounds of coffee are used (all items now for but 100 pounds a month is its record. In the meat line the record is quite appalling for the monthly consumption. Fresh beef heads the list at 8,000 pounds, while salt perk comes next with 1,800 pounds. * 6:40 a m | Salt beef touches a consumption record of 1,200 pounds, and the other meats follow with: Liver, 800 pounds; ham, 900 pounds; bacon, 480 pounds; pork chops, 900 pounds; sausage, 300 pounds; pigs' feet, 500 pounds; tinned meats, 800 pounds; bologna, 240 pourds. This vast consumption of meat does not seem to demonstrate a partiality

> Such an attack upon meat and fish might suggest an abhorrence by the colony of the principles of vegetarianism, but that theory is combated by the fact that the monthly consumption of vegetables includes 400 bushels of potatoes, twelve bushels of onions, twenty bushels of turnips, 600 heads of cabbage and 300 gallons of beans. And then, as little relishes on the side, there are 240 pounds of cheese, 800 pounds of rice, 200 pounds of macaroni, 100 pounds thirty gallons of syrup. The country store connected with the very large business, not particularly lucrative, because it is not intended to profit by the sales. The average monthly sales at the store include 2,000 pounds of soap, 500 pounds of tobacco, 300 yards of blue flannel, 150 yards of cloth, 100 ribbons for hat-bands, fifty suits of underwear, fifty pairs of shoes, twenty-five pairs of trousers, twenty-five over-shirts of flannel, besides numerous whisp brooms, scrub brushes, shoe brushes, tape, pins, needles, cotton thread, knives, stisters, spoons and forks. This great hotel, in keeping its boilers coal each month, and its incidental expenses are about $2,400 per month. Its general daily average of cost to Uncle Sam, including salaries, is about $1,400 per day, and for the first time in many years he sees himself liable this year to get a fair. If not a remarkable, return on his investment. The name of this wonderful hotel is the Brooklyn, the flagship of Commodore Schley's flying squadron. It is electric-lighted, steamheated, splendidly ventilated; has dozens of bath rooms, with porcelain tubs and shower bath; large promenades for exercise; large, airy sleeping rooms; comfortable diningrooms; a large library; plenty of lounging places; a hospital, with attendant physicians, and a country store where any commodity may be obtained at the lowest market value. It is not generally sought by transients, because they are not welcome, and its colony, therefore, usually partakes of the *10:45 am nature of a huge, happy, and exceedingly well disciplined family.
