POPOCATEPETL'S ORACLE.

Mexican Tribe that is Several Hundred Years Behind the Times. As is well known to all who have looked into the matter carefully-for instance, such men as Lumboltz, Starr and Sovillethere are in remote parts of Mexico today to be found portions of tribes of Indians who are practically as much given to idolatry, superstition and witchcraft as were their forebears in the vanished years when the gleaming banner of Castile and Aragon glanced amid the peaks and valleys of Mexico, announcing the advent of a stronger race and more victorious faith. The other day, while making a little trip over the Interoceanic, relates the Two Republics, that runs through so many picturesque Indian towns, I happened to meet in one of these villages a very intelligent Indian who told me the following. Whether it is true or not I do not know-"I tell the tale as 'twas told to me." He said that on the northern slope of Popocatepetl, near the foot, there is a large cave almost wholly unknown to the outside world. In this cave lies an old white-haired Indian who is the oracle of a small tribe of Indians in that vicinity, whose language is unlike that of any of the neighboring towns.

This little tribe has never been conquered either by the Spaniards or by the church or by the modern government of the republic. The Indians have preserved all their old customs and traditions until this day and are practically as they were 400 years ago. One of the very curious institutions among them is that of the oracle, or seer, who dwells in the above mentioned cave all alone. He is always the oldest and wisest man of the tribe. He is looked upon with the same superstitious reverence as were the oracles of Dodona and Delphos in the boyhood of the world. In that cave are preserved rare gems of curiously carved emeralds, such as the great "Malinche" sent home to Spain; idols of gold and silver and copper and stone, pearl necklaces from the far-off Gulf of California and strange robes of feather work, of which but very few examples are known today outside the pages of Sabagun, Prescott or Clavigero. There are also ranged in fitting order the ancient gods of this strange people, of whom this old man is the high priest. Once a month a commission of the oldest men of the tribe visits the cave and takes with it, in the name of the people, offerings of fruit • 9:00 pm and flowers and eatables and incense in honor of the gods and their oracle.

Upon all affairs of importance to the tribe this old man is consulted and his judgments are as those of the Medes and the Persians. I asked whether it would be possible to * 4:20 pm visit him or not and was told that no one. not even members of the same tribe, out-• 3:15 pm • 8:40 am side the beforementioned "commission," had ever seen the inside of that strange and • 8:25 am mysterious cave. My informant told me that at a certain point all persons are stopped by a guard and told that they can proceed no further upon pain of death. And this is not a tale of 400 years ago, but of today.

The tribe and the cave are at the north side of Popocatepetl and every Saturday in Atlixco members of this tribe are at the market to buy and sell their simple necessaries of life. It is enough to see them to realize at once the great difference between them and the other Mexican Indians who are to be seen there at that time. Not only is their style of clothing very different, but

RECIPE FOR SLEEP-PRODUCING. When She is Shy. How many people are there, particularly in these summer days, who, do what they will, find that sleep refuses to come to them and that they are doomed to a night of perpetual rolling and tossing? Yet, according to a well known New York physician, himself a sufferer from insomnia for many years, sleep can easily be summaned by within reach of all. The doctor has tried his methods on his patients and, simple as it is, has never heard of its failing. Those who find themselves eluded by sleep will do well to try it, says the New York Herald, and for their benefit it is here given. The method is essentially one of selfasphyxiation; nevertheless, there is no reason to fear, for there is no risk. Indeed, it is impossible to asphyxiate one's self by this means. The first thing you have to do is to take a long and deep inspiration, as much air being drawn into the lungs as can be borne with comfort. This air is retained until positive discomfort is felt, when it must be slowly exhaled. Repeat this process two or three times and the chances are you will forget all else until you wake up from your sleep the next morning.

During sleep there is a flow of nutrition to the cerebrum; consequently an increase of blood to supply its deficiencies. The semiasphyxiation brought about by holding the City breath keeps a quantity of blood in the head, armam with a consequent increased cerebral circulation. That this is the case can easily be proved by the increased throbbing and pulsating of the arteries of the head. Another point also to which the doctor calls attention is the habit of sleeping with * 8:50 am * 4:45 pm the head too high. If the head be kept low more refreshing sleep is obtained. He raises the foot of the bed, so that it forms an inclined plane, but recommends that this be done gradually, as a sudden change is desired. The sleep thus obtained is more beneficial, and one awakens with a clearer

The explanation of this is simple enough.

Sleep is due to hyperaemia of the brain.

As Was Done Unto Him. Chicago Chronicle: Catching at the stranger's coat tail, he murmured in a depreciating tone: "Could you give me a little assistance, sir?" The stranger turned and looked him over. His eyes were blood-shot, his clothes dirty, his whole appear-ance decidedly the worse for wear.
