Since the transmississippi crop of wheat and oats has been transferred from the fields to granaries, that bulge with the bounty of a prosperous year, the farmers are coming to the exposition in largely increasing numbers.

The increased tendency of the crowds to patronize this part of the grounds has also resulted in a decided increase in the visitors to the Indian enclosure.

Getting Out of Debt.

A happy report of the handsome patronage that the exposition has enjoyed during the last two weeks is the reduction of the floating debt by $122,623.17.

The balance now standing against the association exclusive of the expenditure that has been ordered for the fairgrounds, amounting to $180,457.37, a month ago.

At the beginning of August the floating indebtedness of the association was distributed as follows: Warrants outstanding, $22,869.41; bills payable, $46,112.31; balances on contracts, $21,493.57; overdrawn on a treasurer, $31,884.87; total $122,360.16.

Since that time the warrants outstanding have been cut down over $20,000. More than 70 per cent of the contract balances and bills have been taken up and the overdraw on the treasurer has been wiped out.

The record now stands: Warrants, $12,242.23; bills payable, $20,869.03; contract balances, $32,777.82; current bills, estimated, $7,500.00; total, $73,399.10; less $15,265.53, cash on hand, $58,133.57.

A large proportion of the visitors who have been in the city during the week went home before Sunday, and the result was a rather slim attendance yesterday.

There was nothing in particular to induce people to remain who had already seen the permanent features of the show.

The great and reception that were to have been held in the Auditorium yesterday morning in recognition of Editor's day were called off at the last minute as the purpose had been practically served by the reception which occurred at the Illinois building.

AMSTERDAM IN GALA ATTIRE

Dutch City Arrays Itself in Bright Hues in Honor of the Young Queen.

(Copyright, 1898, by Press Publishing Co.) AMSTERDAM, Sept. 3.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—When Washington Irving described with so many charming touches the New Amsterdam on the Hudson river, he must surely have had in his prophetic mind's eye the older city, Dutch Amsterdam, as it stands today.

The commercial capital of the Netherlands in entire this week, as it will be for many days, celebrating the coronation of Queen Wilhelmina. The event is heralded throughout Holland by clanging bells, crowded thoroughfares and a marvelous display of flags and heraldic emblems sufficient to put to shame the quarters of the proud metropolis of Europe.

Almost unique among the cities of the world, Amsterdam is Venice over again, with barges in place of gondolas. The barges will make a brave display the incoming week. The intricate work of canal-lined with poplars and willows and traversed by picturesque bridges gives almost unrivaled facilities for decoration, especially after dark.

On Tuesday Queen Wilhelmina will be solemnly inaugurated in the Nieuwekerk (new church), which so-called, dates back to the fifteenth century. It is a good specimen of the cruciform style of the period.

LIPTON'S CHALLENGE FOR CUP

British Public Generally Hopes that the Race Will Be Potted Off.

(Copyright, 1898, by Press Publishing Co.) LONDON, Sept. 3.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—Two interesting facts concerning Lipton's challenge for the America cup have reached me from authoritative sources. Sir Thomas was first inspired to undertake the challenge at the suggestion of Lord Russell of Killowen, lord chief justice of England, father of Hon. Charles Russell, now of New York.

The other fact is that Lord Russell was approached on behalf of the challenger to loan plants of the Valkyrie to Mr. P. He Lipton. There was no intention of needless copying of Valkyrie's plans, but it was thought an inspection of them would facilitate life in preparing his own. Pending negotiations over the challenge are followed here with eager attention. The decision is now general that Lipton may bring off the race.

NEGOTIATIONS HAVE BEEN PENDING SOME TIME between Anthony J. Drexel and the owners of Valkyrie III for the purchase of the famous cutter, but so far nothing definite has been attained.

The Dreyfus case is now a political issue. The revision is the only solution of the situation in these circumstances. The hesitation of the ministers is viewed with surprise.

There has been no further cabinet meeting, but Cavagnac has conferred repeatedly with Brisson and Sorcier. The idea that Cavagnac is the sole obstacle to revision is now discarded and responsibility for this desperate attempt is fixated on President Faure himself.

General Joe Wheeler Introduces the President to the Soldiers, to Whom He Pays Glowing Tributes in a Few Well Chosen Words.

CAMP WIKOFF, MONTAUK POINT, Sept. 3.—President McKinley spent five hours in the camp today—barbed most of the time—visiting the sick in the hospitals and inspecting the well in their cottages.

THE ladies of the party were Mrs. Alger and Miss Hecker, a daughter of Colonel Hecker.

General Wheeler, his staff and nearly every officer of prominence in the camp met the president at the station except General Shafter, who is still in detention.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt of Rough Riders was among a group of horsemen nearby. Mr. McKinley saw him and got out of the carriage to speak to him.

Miss Wheeler, a daughter of the general, happened to be in the first row of the hospital tents and she showed the president through her division.

The president congratulated General Shafter on the Santiago campaign and after a rest proceeded to the general hospital.

General Wheeler, who is in a tent back here by himself and is in a dying condition. He has asked about your company and Miss Wheeler has promised that you shall see him.

Introduced to Soldiers.

The others of the party discreetly remained outside of the tent. The president sat on the cot for a minute or two later. His eyes were moist and downcast.

He then proceeded to the infantry plain, as it is called. The men of the Ninth Massachusetts, the First Illinois, the Eighth Ohio, the Thirtieth First, Twenty-second and Tenth regiments of infantry were assembled without arms.

They had seen some of their friends and many of their kin folk, they had had a chance to talk it all over with them and they had enjoyed a good meal at the hands of the Omaha women.

Square Meal at the Fort. The welcome of the people of Omaha to the Second Nebraska regiment took a very substantial and pleasing form yesterday.

It was after 1 o'clock when dinner was served on the tables north of the parade grounds.

The soldiers were tardy in responding to the first call for dinner. As some of the sweet home-made bread was very cut began to get dry the second call for dinner sounded and then the soldier boys made double time in securing convenient seats at the tables assigned to them.

How It Was Managed. The testimonial banquet was a distinct success. Mrs. George A. Hoagland, the efficient chairman of the women's committee, was here, there and everywhere.
