WILL DEDICATE A BUILDING TODAY

Special Exercises to Be Held on the Grounds This Morning in Honor of the Occasion—Yesterday's Attendance.

Total Attendance Yesterday 18,319 Total to Date 1,189,650

The hold that the exposition has acquired on the interest of the people has never been more forcibly indicated than yesterday when in spite of unfavorable weather conditions and a big down town attraction it is estimated about as many visitors as are usually seen on an off day. The size of the crowd was a surprise to the exposition officials, who had estimated a very light day. In deference to the Labor day celebration no effort was made to organize any demonstration on the grounds and the day was entirely without fevers. Then the rain brought a sudden shower of people to the grounds and the people who had gathered for the parade to wait for the parade to be held at 10 o'clock. It was estimated that 20,000 people were present at the exposition. The crowd was estimated to be 20,000 people. The crowd was estimated to be 20,000 people. WAR BALLOONS AND CANNON.

Captain Ward Gets Word of the Commission

Captain Ward of the War department exhibit in the Government building has been notified that the war balloons are en route from Tampa and that they will arrive sometime this week. They are being shipped by rail and will be taken to the exposition. The exhibit will include a number of balloons and a number of cannons. The exhibit will include a number of balloons and a number of cannons. The exhibit will include a number of balloons and a number of cannons.

MANAGER'S PROFITABLE FARM.

John A. Manget is a practical farmer and also has made horticulture a study, and as a result he is showing 11 varieties of products raised upon his little farm. He is in addition to making a living for himself and family, has netted him $1,000 per year for the last five years. The collection includes every known kind of grain, cotton, all kinds of fruit, vegetables and grasses besides cotton and tobacco. Manget frequently raises as many as four crops per year, and while he is planting one crop, another of the same kind is ready for the market, so he has some help, but most of the work is performed by himself and boys, even to the marketing of the produce.

WISCONSIN AND RAILROAD RATES.

Consolidation of B. & O. Wisconsin is in the city for a few days and is making his headquarters at the state building. He was here a few weeks ago, but sees many changes in the exposition since that time. He says he is very glad to see the state building again. Speaking of Wisconsin railroads, he said: "If the railroads make a rate that will admit of people coming there will be a crowd, but if not there will be few people here from our state to return, we would bring out thousands of people. Over in Wisconsin people are talking of the exposition and all they want to come, but they can't do so long as the railroads hold the rates up where they are at this time. The exposition is a success and nothing can kill it, but what we want to do is to make it more successful from a financial standpoint and we will do so if the railroads will give us an opportunity."

NEBRASKA'S FOLDERS.

The Nebraska Exposition commission has issued a very neat looking little document, to be known as the "State Building." It has a picture of the State building on the title page, calling attention to the comforts and conveniences to be found within the structure. On the other pages are paragraphs telling of the various state exhibits that will be found and short descriptions of the most interesting features. The folders are being given away by boys who are stationed at different places on the grounds.

HURLED TO INSTANT DEATH

Fatal Collision Between a Railroad Train and Trolley Car.

SUDDEN CRASH WITH FRIGHTFUL RESULTS

Eighteen of the Thirty-Five Passengers on the Car Are Instantly Killed and at Least Ten More Will Die.

COHOBES, N. Y., Sept. 5.—An appalling disaster occurred in this city shortly before 8 o'clock tonight. A trolley car of the Troy City railway was struck by the night boat train on the Delaware & Hudson River road at the west end of the bridge and its load of human freight was hurled into the air.

The identified dead up to 1 o'clock are: ARCHIE CEMPEAU of Cohoes; JAMES TEMPLE of Lansingburg; EDWARD BARNEY of Cohoes; MRS. JOHN CRAVEN of Cohoes; MRS. WYNIE CRAVEN of Cohoes; JOSEPH SENSE of Cohoes; NELLIE SWETT 15 years old, of Cohoes; MRS. ELIZA McELROY of Cohoes; MRS. JOHN W. SUTCLIFF of Cohoes; MRS. JAMES L. TAYLOR of Cohoes; MRS. WYNIE CRAVEN of Cohoes; JAMES LINSE of Cohoes; MRS. ELLEN SHAW of Cohoes; JOHN TIMMINS of Cohoes.

The injured are: Isaac Shaw, Cohoes, skull fractured; George Ankers, Cohoes, injured internally; John W. Sutcliff, Cohoes, head cut and ribs broken; Miss Lizzie McElroy, Cohoes, leg broken; Mrs. Linnese, Cohoes, collarbone fractured and several ribs broken; a baby in her arms was crushed and will die; Emma Davshire, Cohoes, skull crushed; Mrs. James Temple, Lansingburg, jaw fractured and injured internally; Mrs. Ira Dewey, Cohoes, head crushed.

The cars from Lansingburg were crowded with passengers returning from the Labor day picnic at Rensselaer park. The crossing where the accident occurred is at a grade. The tracks of the street line run at a grade from the bridge to the point where the disaster took place. The motor man evidently saw the train approaching as he reached the track and opened his controller, but in vain. With a crash that was heard for blocks the engine struck into the higher vehicle.

The effect of the collision was horrible. The motor car parted in two, both sections being hurled into the air in splinters. The mass of humanity for the car was crowded to overflowing—and torn and mangled. Those in the front of the car met with the worst fate. The force of the collision was then expended to the greatest degree and every person in that section of the car was killed. The scene was horrible. Bodies had been hurled into the air and their heads were seen to be found in some cases fifty feet from the tracks.

The pilot of the engine was smashed and amid its wreckage were the mangled corpses of two women. The passengers of the train suffered a similar injury except a violent shock. The majority of the passengers of the trolley car were young people and included many women. Headless women with ray summer dresses bathed in their own and the blood of others, limbs without trunks or any means of identifying to whom they belonged; women's and men's heads with crushed and distorted features; bodies crushed and flattened—these sights constituted a spectacle most horrible to behold.

It is estimated that the aggregate amount due the Atlantic fleet is $1,000,000. The prize money will be $3,250,000 rather than he was before the war.

EGYPTIANS GOOD FIGHTERS

Do Fine Work in Battle with Dervishes at Omdurman.

MOW DOWN ENEMY WITH THEIR MAXIMS

People of the Desert Fight with Desperation, but Are Finally Vanquished by the Allied Forces.

(Copyright, 1898, by Press Publishing Co.) LONDON, Sept. 5.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—The English press publishes glowing accounts of the capture of Omdurman, an operation carried out with brilliant generalship and fine courage and discipline on the part of the rank and file.

The dervishes, for some strange reason, preferred to meet the Sirdar in the open field of waiting for him at Omdurman. Their defeat therefore was even more complete than anticipated. The abandoned fortifications of the town, though much injured by Anglo-Egyptian cannonading, still formed useful entrenchments from behind which heavy losses might have been inflicted on the attacking force.

Quite early Friday morning it was found that the enemy meant to take the offensive. They advanced in the sunlight with a front of three or four miles long, flaunting many-colored banners and shouting war cries. They tried to envelop both flanks of the Sirdar, who was still partly entrenched in the form of a great horseshoe, but the movement was repulsed at 5:30 a. m. Their design of rushing according to their old custom, was foiled. They were staggered by the massed fire of the Anglo-Egyptian force, delivered without intermission for a quarter of an hour.

The bravery of the dervishes' attack cannot be overstated. The flag men struggled on to within a few hundred yards of the British fighting line and mounted emirs absolutely threw their lives away in the bold charge. After midday the enemy retired.

Stubborn Fighting.

When the Sirdar had refreshed his force an advance was ordered. The fight then became even more stubborn than in the forenoon. The dervishes had massed behind rocks under the black standard of the Khalifa and seemed determined to make a supreme effort to snatch a victory. Some 14,000 or 15,000 came down on the Felleheen and Soudanese troops on the right. They clearly thought this the weakest part of the army, but the Sirdar's native troops have learned to stand firm. Assistance was, however, given them. By wheeling around the center and left and caught under appalling fire three brigades and the artillery of the dervishes received a blow which they never recovered.

ATTEMPT ON COL. GOVAN'S LIFE

No Decision Reached in Kinney's Case, According to General Breckinridge's Report.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—In response to a request for information concerning the attempt made by a private of the First Mississippi volunteers upon the life of Colonel Govan of that regiment, General Breckinridge, in command at Chickamauga park, tonight wired the War department as follows: Private J. A. Kinney, Company H of the First Mississippi, is alleged to have entered the colonel's tent after he had retired for the night, about 10 o'clock September 3, and with a loaded revolver violently threatened the colonel, who, however, did not get up, and caused much disorder in camp. The court met for the trial of Kinney at 8 o'clock this morning. The regiment will leave for the Springs on Thursday.

SWINDLE SOLDIER'S FAMILY

Member of Second Nebraska Discovers That Some One Has Been Obtaining Money on His Account.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—E. K. Valentine, formerly sergeant-at-arms of the senate, has written a letter to Secretary Alger stating that some time ago a relative of his, belonging to the Second Nebraska regiment, received a letter saying that the soldier was sick and in want at Chickamauga and asking that money be sent to him. The money was sent, but no reply was received. A second installment was sent by registered letter, to which the soldier replied, saying he did not understand why the money was sent him and had received none previously. He had not requested any money. It is thought some swindler wrote the first letter.

OPINIONS ON DREYFUS CASE

Prominent Frenchmen Voice Their Ideas of the Matter for Publication.

(Copyright, 1898, by Press Publishing Co.) PARIS, Sept. 5.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—I have been able today to obtain the following statements on the Dreyfus affair. Gastimir Perier, ex-president, says: "The matter now being in the hands of the council of state it is for the ministers, and particularly the ministers of justice and foreign affairs, to decide whether there is a presumption of innocence and whether exterior susceptibilities will be excited. If a revision takes place and Dreyfus is condemned again agitation ceases for the public. If the conviction is maintained the republic cannot afford for having righted a wrong at all hazards."

Brisson, premier, says: "I have no personal bias for or against revision, but am in the hands of the ministry and the ministry is in the hands of the country. The question, it cannot be denied, has ceased to be individual and concerns France."

Estherazy says: "I find myself telling journalists every day, and sometimes twice a day, that I am not the writer of the border-line. What more do they want? I cannot prove it and there is no need, as Dreyfus is judged by law to have written it. I am ruined in every way, but I will be revenged."

Troville, minister for the colonies, though without a seat in the Chamber of Deputies is under my department, but I have no power to release Dreyfus or even modify the conditions of his confinement, which is a matter of the minister of justice. The severity of these conditions is much exaggerated. What more do they want? I cannot prove it and there is no need, as Dreyfus is judged by law to have written it. I am ruined in every way, but I will be revenged."

British Flag Hoisted.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—The war office received this evening the following dispatch, dated at Omdurman yesterday, from General Sir Herbert Kitchener: "This morning the British and Egyptian forces were hoisted with due ceremony on the walls of the palace in Khartoum. 'All the British wounded have left for Abadia in barges towed by steamers. I saw the barge leaving. They were all doing well and were comfortable. 'The cavalry sent in pursuit of the Khalifa was compelled to abandon the attempt, owing to the exhaustion of the horses, but I have ordered camel squadrons to continue the pursuit. 'CAIRO, Sept. 5.—Advices from Omdurman say the Anglo-Egyptian cavalry company sent in pursuit of Khalifa Abdullah after the fall of Omdurman and followed the pursuit about thirty miles beyond the city. The horses were completely exhausted, having ridden forty-eight hours, during six days of which they had been engaged in fighting. The Khalifa has gone to Kordofan, to the southwest of Omdurman. General Kitchener has organized Arab camel squadrons to follow him."
