

COMPERS TO THE WORKERS

American Federation of President Addresses His Followers at South Omaha.

SPEAKS AT THE AUDITORIUM TONIGHT

Grand Mass Meeting of Workmen Arranged to Take Place of the Labor Day Exercises Spoiled by Rain.

The elements put a veto on the Labor day program at Turner park and neither the addresses of President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor and Deputy Labor Commissioner Sidney J. Kent nor the athletic contests and field exercises could be given. The rain caught the parade just before it reached the Vinton street entrance and as soon as the first division reached the grounds a rush was made for cover. Most all the afternoon was spent under the canvas covered sheds and on the pavilion. The speakers bore their disappointment cheerfully, laughing over the way the intended barbecue had turned out. Messrs. Gompers and Kent and President Bell of the Central Labor union remained in a carriage close by the dressing room until it was concluded to postpone the oratorical part of the program at least and by 5 p. m. the grounds were vacated entirely.

At a late hour in the afternoon arrangements were made by the committee with the exposition directors for the purpose of using the auditorium tonight for the addresses, to deliver which Messrs. Gompers and Kent had been invited to the city. The executive committee willingly acceded to the request and the speakers were to appear tonight there will therefore be a most important labor meeting in the Auditorium, to which the admission will be absolutely free, the entrance being from the Sherman avenue side. Mr. Gompers will speak on "Labor's Struggle in Sixteen Years," and Mr. Kent on "The Struggle for the Right to Organize." In addition to Mr. Gompers and Commissioner Kent, Judge Noonan, ex-mayor of St. Louis, will speak.

The day was not permitted to pass, however, without a speech of some kind from Mr. Gompers. He had been invited to have him speak at South Omaha tonight, but as this would now be impossible, considering the Auditorium meeting, he addressed the recently organized packers and the butchers, cooper and other trades unions, the last being at Koutsky's hall at Twentieth and Q streets.

His Idea of Unionism. He was introduced by President Bell of the Central Labor union and gave just an advisory talk, so to speak, to union men as members of organized labor. In this he was emphatic in impressing upon them the importance of organization and their duties as trades unionists. He said he was a laborer, and he was a member of a union. He said he was a laborer, and he was a member of a union. He said he was a laborer, and he was a member of a union.

You are recently organized workmen, having but lately entered a controversy even before you were organized, and you stood like a rock of adamant, determined to secure redress from some unjust employer, and, very strangely, you won a victory. Let me tell you that you have now more need of organization than ever. Your masters are lords of all they surveyed up to your absolute slaves. Since you have organized your masters against perhaps better than you do, you are now in a position for a purpose, for better positions, for better living, for that which is due you. They are the result of all the brain and brawn of the nineteenth century, have determined that all the products of our toil shall go into the coffers of their employers, but that some of them shall go into our own homes for our own benefit. When men are poorly organized it makes strong-hearted men heroes for the cause of the oppressed, but when they are organized, they are no longer heroes, they are only men.

Another check to the contempt proceeding of Judge Scott against President Holmes and Superintendent Quivy of the Nebraska Children's Home society has been given by Attorney Carroll S. Montgomery. He has already sent a transcript to Lincoln in an appeal to the supreme court and expects a supersedeas allowed immediately. Mr. Montgomery in his appeal is attacking the very foundation of the statute. He sets up that Judge Scott did not take the proper statutory course in his habeas corpus order; that the statute in Nebraska is different from that of Michigan, Iowa and some other states referred to in the judge's opinion. In this state the statute requires the order to be made directing the sheriff to produce the bodies in court, explains Mr. Montgomery, instead of the respondent direct, and a necessary preliminary order is required by the judge, who directed the Nebraska Children's Home society to disclose the whereabouts of the Dold children. But he even goes behind this. He pleads that the contract entered into by the parents with the society was a contract for their guardianship, and that the right way for the parents to have gone about the matter was to have filed a bill in equity to set aside the contract. From Mr. Montgomery's point of view the whole controversy of habeas corpus and its sequel is a mere technicality.

AK-SAR-BEN HOLDS COURT

Horse Doctors and Local Citizens Are Initiated Into the Mysteries of the Remin.

The cohorts of King Ak-Sar-Ben IV rallied about the royal throne in strong numbers last evening and gave the claud habit to over three-score initiates. Samson had sent out a special order for full attendance at last night's meeting and in response to his command about 500 of the faithful appeared to learn the king's pleasure.

The guests of honor were visiting veterinary surgeons from various parts of the country. They thought they were pretty well informed about horsemanship before entering the big den, but in the three hours they were here they learned to ride more peculiar horses and other quadrupeds which they had never before had the pleasure of meeting. It was a horse on them most of the time, but they took it all good naturedly and declared it to be the most unique entertainment they had ever had. There was also a goodly number of the business and professional men of Omaha among the initiates.

Pollmen's Picnic Row

The controversy over the conduct of the forthcoming policemen's picnic has taken a new turn by the action of "Chief" of Detectives McGrath and other affidavit-pollmen, who testified to the good character of the officers in the police force, in turning back the tickets they were expected to sell without even an effort to dispose of them. This is supposed to be intended as a protest against the invitation extended to Judge Scott by one of the speakers at the picnic. Having failed to force Judge Scott's name off the program, the affidavit-pollmen and their allies have been exerting themselves to prevent him from having an audience, but the success in spite of the backbiters.

LIFE AT CAMP MEIKLEJOHN

Second Nebraska Volunteer Infantry Well Settled in Quarters.

DAILY ROUTINE NOT VERY RIGID

Colonel Bills Has Arranged So That the Boys Have Had a Week of Liberty in the Camp.

The third day of the Second Nebraska's residence at Camp George D. Meiklejohn saw the deserted village at old Fort Omaha brightened up with the air of military and civil life. Outside of the gates a mushroom settlement of older mills, sawmills, factories and carrying places has sprung up, which is enjoying the business created by the presence of 1,600 soldiers. In the barracks around the parade grounds are cleared and floors are swept in accordance with the discipline of a soldier's life. Very few visitors were seen during the afternoon, owing to the unfavorable weather, though almost every porch was occupied by a few women, friends of the soldiers, who had disregarded the rain to spend the afternoon in barracks.

States What He Considers the Causes of Present Prosperity.

Samuel Gompers, the president of the American Federation of Labor, who is in the city to address the labor organizations and will speak at the exposition Auditorium tonight, has some ideas of his own on the reasons for the general prosperity of the country. In discussing them he remarked: "I consider that the two great causes of the prosperity have been the withdrawal of about 250,000 and 300,000 men from competition in the various lines of industry. The general expenditure for new things is getting worn out and it is necessary to replace them with new. For instance, the railroads have been wearing out their tracks and rolling stock, with little effort to repair and renew, but as things will wear they have to be renewed more or less, all of which keeps up a demand for labor, to which the withdrawal of the 250,000 soldiers gave a great impetus. The general expenditure for new things was considered one of the best aggregations of the park, is still depleted by illness and marches to the parade with sixteen members.

Getting Off Easily in Camp.

Headquarters is dealing easily with the boys, recognizing their natural desire to see the exposition and friends in the city. They are usually taken care of through their regular trade, but they can secure without difficulty permission to be absent in the intervening seventeen hours. Accordingly the barracks hardly see as much of the soldiers as the downtown streets. On a number of occasions messes have been held at the expiration of leave and they are given some sort of police duty as punishment. One homesick young soldier of the 12th regiment disappeared the morning of his arrival and could not be traced until he returned to duty until Sunday night. He had been in the guard house, of which he is the only occupant, and will probably receive a sentence of ten days. Yesterday the delinquent was paraded around in the year charge of a guard, when by an awkward chance he met a young woman friend, who had considerable difficulty in understanding why the young soldier was unable to pause and retire. He was told that the year charge showing the regimental roll posted in each company barracks and reads as follows: Reveille, 6:15; assembly, 6:30; mess, 7:00; drill, 7:30; fatigue call, 8:00; guard mount, 8:15; first call, 8:45; second call, 9:20; recall, 10:00; mess call, 11:00; first sergeants' call, 11:30; mess call, 12:00; dress parade, 1:00; first call, 1:30; recall, 2:00; dress parade, 2:30; adjutant's call, 4:00; mess call, 5:15; retreat, 5:45; tattoo, 9:15; call to quarters, 10:45; taps, 11:00.

Gets After Judge Scott

Attorney Montgomery Makes a Move in the Nebraska Children's Home Society Case.

Another check to the contempt proceeding of Judge Scott against President Holmes and Superintendent Quivy of the Nebraska Children's Home society has been given by Attorney Carroll S. Montgomery. He has already sent a transcript to Lincoln in an appeal to the supreme court and expects a supersedeas allowed immediately. Mr. Montgomery in his appeal is attacking the very foundation of the statute. He sets up that Judge Scott did not take the proper statutory course in his habeas corpus order; that the statute in Nebraska is different from that of Michigan, Iowa and some other states referred to in the judge's opinion. In this state the statute requires the order to be made directing the sheriff to produce the bodies in court, explains Mr. Montgomery, instead of the respondent direct, and a necessary preliminary order is required by the judge, who directed the Nebraska Children's Home society to disclose the whereabouts of the Dold children. But he even goes behind this. From Mr. Montgomery's point of view the whole controversy of habeas corpus and its sequel is a mere technicality.

Under Sound Roofs

At all the quarters visited yesterday the boys were happy and dry, in spite of the most exterior. The roofs were all reported tight and with the exception of a few damp patches the rain caused no inconvenience. The company G, the Omaha boys, has been considerable trouble to make its quarters a credit to the company. The piano, slightly out of tune from three months of disuse, has been moved from the down town armory to the quarters, and has become a great source of pleasure to both soldiers and visitors. The principal performer is Cook Blemmerstein, in charge of the mess table, who can render Chopin and prepare music with equal perfection. Blemmerstein is also celebrated in other ways and proved himself a competent physician during a prostration from lightning at Chickamauga, as well as a painter, fencing master and carpenter, when by the company of the army was also drawn upon for a supply of coats and the boys will have tonight, for the first time in months, comfortable sleeping accommodations. The exterior of the barracks is adorned with a magnificent display of flowers, with a setting of ferns presented by J. W. and E. E. Arnold. Probably the most cheerful member of the returned is Robert Hayes, who has recently returned from ten days' furlough which he spent in Cincinnati. O. White the wife was united in marriage to a former Omaha girl.

WATER AND THE FIRE BOYS

Too Much Rain Spoils the Program for the Tournament's First Day.

DOUBLE-HEADER COMES AS A RESULT

Events at the Grounds Today Will Make Up for the Time Lost—Fine List of Volunteer Entries.

Water, which is ordinarily the fire ladder's greatest ally, yesterday afternoon proved to be his enemy. It came in the form of a rain—a drenching downpour that soaked the heat and natty clothing of the firemen and tarnished the golden and silvery glitter of the apparatus. The boys had received a complimentary shower from thousands of spectators during the labor parade. The rain came upon them before they had reached the grounds at Twentieth and Ames avenue, where the tournament of the National Firemen's association was to have commenced, and continued long enough to necessitate the postponement of the first afternoon's portion of the program.

To Save Your Digestion

Use "Garland" Stoves and Ranges. VETERINARIANS ARE COMING

Many Leaders in the Profession Gather for the Annual Convention at Omaha. Veterinary surgeons from all parts of the country are gathering at Omaha to attend the annual meeting of the United States Veterinary Medical association which begins this morning at 9 o'clock. An attendance of about 200 is expected, and from the rate with which they are now arriving it is probable that the number will be still higher. The meetings are scheduled for the assembly room in the Millard hotel, but an effort is being made to secure the use of the city hall, where there is more opportunity for the committee to work.

Dr. E. Salmon, of the Department of Agriculture at Washington, is president of the association, and he will be here. He should be here now, but with Dr. W. H. Keating of the Kansas City office, who is now in the Kansas City train while in the city, which delays his arrival here about a day. Vice President A. T. Peters of Lincoln, Secretary S. Stewart of Kansas City, Kan., and Treasurer William Herbert of St. Paul, Minn., are also present.

The local committee has arranged for clinics on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at the barn of the W. R. Bennett company, 1415 Capitol avenue. The visitors will be taken to the city hall, where they will be given a course of treatment vigorous even for a veterinary. Today the women of the party will be taken on a trip through the city, and in the evening will attend a shopping party at the city hall. The members of the association will that evening attend a banquet given in their honor. Tuesday morning the women will be taken on a shopping tour among the retail stores, and if the association will be taken to the city hall, where they will be given a course of treatment vigorous even for a veterinary.

Have a Splendid Location. The grounds upon which the tournament is to take place are ample and well suited for the purpose. They extend from the Missouri Pacific tracks on the south to Ames avenue on the north and from Sherman street on the east to about Twenty-second street on the west. The grand stand is located at the southern end and in front of it are the stables, the engine house and the buildings that are to be burned. The track runs directly at its feet. Entrances are provided under the grand stand, and at Twentieth and Ames avenue. The former is directly opposite the northern exposition gates and just across a couple of railroad tracks, the latter is directly on the Sherman street car line.

A good number of companies will take part in the contests, but the number would have been doubled, if not increased more largely, had not the railroads pursued their usual tactics. It was the understanding that 1 cent a mile should be fixed as the rate to the city from any point within a radius of 200 miles of the city and a round trip rate of 80 per cent of one fare for the return. This was the assurance given to President Wood of the association and on the strength of it he succeeded in working up a great deal of interest in the tournament. No less than 115 companies were reported to be training for the contests, a dozen special trains from different parts of the country were arranged and a big concourse of spectators would certainly have come along.

Two or three days ago, when the companies concerned were getting ready to come they were utterly unsuccessful in getting the rates promised, special trains were refused and no satisfactory rates could be secured. The case at Atlantic City, is cited. The town of Rock Island, 100 miles from Omaha, had arranged to have a band and a big lot of spectators along. In order that the representation from this town might be issued, it was decided to have been held there this week was postponed. When the excursionists were to get their tickets, however, they were refused any lower rate than a fare and a third for the round trip. They were kept on the ground in this city in disgust and even the team has failed to come.

Trains that Have Reported.

Last night all the teams and companies that will enter in the competitions had not reported to Secretary Barkman, but they all must do so this morning in order to be entered in today's events. Those who have reported are as follows: 1st, Peoria, Ill.; Hook and Ladder Companies—Polo, Ill.; Central City, Colo.; Princeton, Ill.; Red Oak, Ia. Hose Companies—Winfield, Kan.; Bedford, Ia.; Vinton, Ia.; Marysville, Kan.; Mt. Carroll, Ia.; Princeton, Ill.; Deadwood, S. D.; Lead City, S. D.; Sturgis, S. D.; Blair, Neb.; York, Neb.; Marshalltown, Ia.; Corning, Ia.; Ottawa, Kan.; Harlan, Ia.; Fremont, Grand Island, Farmington, Ill.; Tipton, Kan.; Wagon Wheel, Ia. All these are volunteer companies. The companies which will enter in the contests for paid companies will represent Denver, Kansas City and Lincoln.

Local Breweries.

Mrs. H. W. Hart, who is stopping at the Millard hotel, yesterday had a prize containing money and tickets to Chicago. She will pay a liberal reward for their return. Spencer Ellison, who was reported as one of the juvenile burglars who snatched themselves with toys at the expense of Shott & Co., has been exonerated from any connection with the case. The boy was kept in bed by an injured foot when the raid is said to have occurred.

ALLEGED HORSE THEFT IN CUSTODY

George Hall, wanted in Indianapolis, Ind., for stealing a horse and buggy, was placed under arrest in this city last night.

IDA HAS HIS COIN

William H. Hays, visiting the city from the western part, carried $20 with him to a questionable part of town last night and entered the house of Ida Baker, 1515 S. 16th, where he was held three minutes before his money was taken. The woman is under arrest.
