

"SAVING" THE STATE'S MONEY

Campaign Circulars that are Intended to Mislead Voters.

FEATURES OF POPOCRATIC FINANCE

Commissions of Legislative Appropriations Prove the Alleged Economy to be Largely a Fictitious of Imagination.

LINCOLN, Sept. 14.—(Special).—The popocratic statesmen who are making claims of having saved large sums of money for the benefit of the state have issued a circular in which the appropriations of the legislative sessions of 1895 and 1897 are placed in parallel columns, to show that the republican legislature was more extravagant and wasteful of the state money.

The legislative session of 1895 made appropriations amounting to a total of $2,781,634.40. Of this, $250,000 went to the drought sufferers, $21,648.75 for the fees in the maximum rate cases, $27,588.12 was for deficiency claims, and $180,101.75 to reimburse the state for the money lost in the Capital National bank failure.

Actual Expenses of Sessions. Comparing the expenses of the two sessions in the matter of salaries of members and employees, it will be found that the "reformers" did not allow their economy to interfere with their own individual take-off.

On hand on April 16, 1897, $4,218.97. Executive department, $1,422.00. Auditor, $2,421.49. Treasurer, $493.22. Superintendent, $25.50. Attorney general, $23.94. Board of public lands, $25.00. Board of education, $25.00.

Effect of Their "Saving." The difference in the two amounts, $9,226.71, shows what the popocratic financiers used of the funds between April 16 and September 1, 1897. A perusal of the books shows some particularly interesting figures regarding the penitentiary, which the popocrats have been claiming to have made "self-sustaining."

These are the amounts that have been drawn from the general appropriation funds, and have no relation to the fund reserved for the labor of the prisoners, which has all been used up.

Copper Colored Spots. Mr. H. L. Myers, 100 Mulberry Street, Newark, N. J., says: "I contracted a terrible blood disease which broke out in sores all over my body. I spent a hundred dollars with doctors but grew worse instead of better. Many blood remedies were also used with no effect, until I decided to try S. S. S. This remedy seemed to get at the seat of the disease and cured me completely and permanently."

Sioux Allow Themselves to Be Overcome in Mimic Warfare.

REALISTIC SHAM BATTLE BY THE INDIANS

Efforts to Rescued Standing Elk Result in the Annihilation of the Dakota Warriors Under Goes-to-War's Leadership.

Although they were only playing a part, there were scenes and incidents at the Injun camp yesterday afternoon that stirred the blood of many of the boys of their youth when their tribes were at war with one another. While it was only a mimic affray, to some of the old-timers, it was so real that frequently they almost forgot themselves and threatened to turn fun into earnest.

Just before 5 o'clock Goes-to-War and Knows-No-Fear, arm in arm, walked into the center of the grounds and uttered three long-drawn war whoops, which echoed and re-echoed over the surrounding hills.

During the afternoon the Sioux selected Goes-to-War as their chief to lead them into the fight, while Knows-No-Fear, a Ponca, was designated as their war leader of the allied forces, with each of the thirty tribes having its own officer in charge. These Indians got out and practiced their men, telling them just what to do, after which they all returned to their camps to await the signal for participating in the fight.

were getting uncomfortably close to the men who were tied, Knows-No-Fear came sliding back with his entire party. He threw out a line of the bucks and snatched them back to the outer edge of the circle to rest. After a brief interval the squaws renewed their fantastic song and the warriors returned to the dance.

Sergeant Gruner on Cuban Conditions

Sergeant Robert Gruner of the Second Infantry, U. S. A., passed through Omaha yesterday on his way to Fort Huachuca, Mont. The station of his regiment before going to Cuba. He looks as hard as a Third Ward bull at the right, but says a northern man going to a climate like Cuba suffers from "want of breath"; that the regulars did not experience any want of rations, but he says the climatic conditions were such that it caused the stoutest of them to give in.

GERONIMO AND HIS BRAVES HERE

Famous Apache Terror Brings a Long Procession of Warriors. Travelers who happened to be at the Union station yesterday noon were treated to a novel sight. The noon express from the west was followed by a long and noisy camp of American Indians, fresh from the wooded and logjams of the Fort Sill military reservation.

There were 125 of them all told. Six are enlisted government scouts, twenty-two are private soldiers of the old war-time chief Geronimo and the rest are just plain Indians who live on Uncle Sam's reservations and draw rations. Squaws attired in blankets, which for bright colors surpass imagination, their long jet black hair braided with variegated ribbons, crocheted papoosees strapped to their backs and braided moccasins, tin bracelets and hair braided and tied with beaver tails.

The enlisted scouts in the party are Toland, Perlo, Ramano, John Loco and Archie. Toland is the youngest of the party. He is of medium height and quite heavy. He does not speak English, though he understands considerable of the language. He is a remarkably good and capable man, and after arriving in camp, he commenced finding food because tents had not been erected before he and his party came. Then he grumbled because dinner had not been prepared and was awaiting his arrival.

Tents for the Apaches have been erected on the north side of the grounds, where they will go into camp. Most of the Apaches are good looking men. Their women are not beautiful, but they are much better looking than their northern sisters. They, as well as the men, are small, much smaller than the Indians residing in the northern states.

Having Fun with a Prisoner. Like a whirlwind they rode down through the grounds to the central portion, where they took up their quarters in a large tent and foot and tied to an electric light pole. Not knowing what the Indians were doing, he stopped and waited a few minutes. During this brief interval Aftah, the Apache, who was with them, took a look at the man and threw dirt in his face, calling him a coward. Standing Elk was not in a position to resent the insult, but he begged to be let loose, saying that if the things were cut, he would be glad to see the man.

More Official Stupidity. Trouble Made for Governor Goodman by an Ignorant Dog Catcher and an Indifferent Policeman. Another policeman who either did not or would not know his duty was the cause of a great deal of annoyance to M. Goodman, grocer at 2120 North Twenty-fourth street, yesterday morning. Mr. Goodman has a dog which he values quite highly and had supplied with a tag in accordance with the ordinance. The tag, however, had become detached and the owner was left with the receipt of the city clerk as sufficient proof that the dog was properly licensed.

The village blacksmith is usually considered the type of good health. Even he sickens and dies frequently in disease. It is not the blacksmith who is the most robust, as his most precious health is his health, which is his most precious treasure. A man who neglects his health, which is his most precious treasure, is losing his life. When a man neglects his health, he is losing his life. When a man neglects his health, he is losing his life.
