James Bryant, a clerk in the comptroller's office, was set upon Wednesday and badly beaten by several Turks connected with the Streets of Cairo. Bryant swore out war-rants for the men's arrest yesterday morning. His story is that in company with two other men he approached the ticket window of the show and bought three tickets. He gave the three tickets to the door tender and he placed them in his box. When the three sought to pass him he stopped them and demanded another ticket, saying that only two tickets had been given him. A noisy talk followed and the Turks attacked Bryant.

Burglars Get Over $1,000 Worth o Diamonds and Jewelry to Pay for Their Call.

The burglary committed by two men a the residence of Samuel Newman at Tenth and Center streets, Tuesday night, is more serious than the police gave out. According o them the thieves secured but a "hundred dollars or so" worth of jewelry. As a of fact the robbers secured diamond jewelry to the value of $1,000. The list of the stolen articles is as follows: One ear pendant, set with a arat and a half stone; one ear pendant with a one and an eighth carat stone; one star brooch, set with several half carat stones; one ring with three half carat stones and three rings each set with a half carat stone; one half carat stud. A ruby set ring and a heavy wedding ring were also taken. A gold watch valued at $200 was overlooked by the thieves.

Mr. Newman stood in his bed room door and watched the men rifle the drawers of the heavy bureau in which his valuables were kept. The robber who was on guard was only six feet distant from him. When Newman called for help the two paid no attention to him, but kept on with their work. When they had finished they went to Newman's room, slammed the door shut in his face and made their way out of the building. Newman was afraid to attack the men, he said, because he was not armed, and he knew they were. Newman said the men had been in the rooms for some time before he awoke. Their whisperings as they made their way through the rooms awakened him. Skeleton keys, which were inserted in a rear door, was the means employed by the men in getting into the house. Yesterday morning a young man whose name the police refuse to divulge was arrested as one of the robbers. Mr. Newman was sent for and he positively identified him as the man who acted as guard near his door.

"TRILBY'S" ARTIST.

A Few Facts for an Art Critic Study.

It may be interesting for the Omaha "Art Critic" who knows so little of artists and art and yet who presumes to know so much as to be able to tear to pieces such a great work of art as "Trilby," is to learn something of the artist who painted the picture. Usually it is unnecessary to say much about the artist, as he is so well known throughout the country, but the "Omaha Critic" has evidently not been away from home for some time, and therefore has not visited the art centers where Cooper is known. Mr. Astley D. M. Cooper is an American by birth. He was born in St. Louis, Mo. He went to Paris when 12 years of age and studied under the best masters. Bougereau and the late Jules Tavinetr were among his tutors. When he returned to this country he was appointed sketch artist on Frank Leslie's Weekly and was sent out with General Custer in the late Indian war (i which Custer was killed), in that capacity, At the close of the war he painted "Cus ter's Last Stand," a picture that created universal interest. He moved to California and from his studio in San Jose has sen out many pictures that have brought him fame. Among those may be mentioned 'Cleopatra's Barge," owned by M. H. De-Young, editor and proprietor of the San Francisco Chronicle. Mrs. Charles Crocker of the Crocker Art gallery, Sacramento, owns the painting "She." "The Morning of the Crucifixion" is another of his remarkable productions, and for six years past has been exhibited throughout the United States.

Canada and Mexico, with wonderful success. "Flora" is now the property of C. D. Perry of London, England, and many others have been placed in galleries or private collections throughout the country. Fair and of the age. He studied surgery in the St. Louis Medical college, and has a thorough knowledge of anatomy, which he has used to wonderful advantage in his figure "Trilby" has been exhibited for three years throughout the country. Columns of highly complimentary notices have been written about it by competent critics, and critic should not know about him. As for the critic, she ruthlessly tears to pieces anything that does not suit her aesthetic taste. She must have some strong influence exorted over her to get so far out of her do main as to write up the "Midway attractions" when she was supposed to write abou art at the art gallery, and the complimentary eference to another picture on the Midway hows that there must have been some other motive behind the article than just criti-

A meeting of the North Omaha Improveent club was held Wednesday evening at Marsh's hall on Ames avenue. About fifts members were present and among them Councilman Karr and County Commissioner

Ostrom, both of whom pledged themselves to co-operate with the club in securing for the Sixth ward needed improvements.

The bobtail service on Amés avenue, recently put on by the street car company, was condemned in unmeasured terms. Committees from the club have waited upon the officials of the car company, protesting against the inconvenience to which citizens who patronize the Sherman avenue line are subjected, but their protests have fallen upon deaf cars, the company refusing to improve its service by either running through trains to the end of the line or providing more cars on the stub Needed improvements in streets and side walks were pointed out and discussed by members of the club, after which a constitution was adopted and eleven new members received. The following were elected as officers: President, Jared J. Smith; vice president, Isaac Sylvester; secretary, Edwin A. French; treasurer, J. C. Pettegrew. The regular meetings of the club will hereafter be held on the first and third Thursday evenings of each month.
