City Council Recedes from Its Permanent Walk Position.

UNGRADED STREETS ARE SPECIFIED

Lot Owners on Thoroughfares Where the Grade is Not Established Are Relieved of a Disability that Has Become Serious.

One of the most important ordinances which has recently passed the council is a sidewalk ordinance which became a law at the last meeting. According to its provisions it will in the future be possible for the city to repair old wooden walks and lay new wooden walks upon the streets of Omaha where the grade has not been established or where the street has not been worked to grade. For the last year it has been impossible under the ordinances of the city to lay or repair wooden walks even on streets that have not been brought to

The ordinance which has been in force in the past has been a stringent and extreme one. It provides that only permanent walks of stone, artificial stone or brick can be laid in the city limits. Consequently if a walk has become dangerous in the suburban and ungraded streets of the city, the only remedy has been either the laying of a permanent walk or the tearing up entirely of the old walk and leaving no walk at all. President Bingham of the city council, who introduced the ordinance, has this to say about the matter:

"There are a large number of wooden walks in execrable condition all over the city. Some of them are positively dangerous and have resulted in compelling the city to pay damages for injuries sustained by citizens in passing over them. Under the old ordinance, we could neither repair such walks nor lay new wooden walks, but must order a permanent walk laid. As the dangerous walks are located chiefly on ungraded streets, it is manifestly an injustice to compel the property owners to lay permanent walk which will ultimately have to be relaid when the street is graded. As a matter of fact, I do not believe that in such cases the property owners would be compelled to pay for the walk when the grading is done, but the cost of the work would have to be paid by the city."

Until about a year ago there was an ordi nance which permitted the laying of wooden walks, but it was so loose that it allowed such walks to be placed in streets that have been graded and even paved. Property owners wish wooden walks because the were cheaper and the result is that the city was threatened with being completely covered with wooden walks where permanent walks should be. At a request of the city engineer the law was so changed as to permit the laying of permanent walks only in the city and this has been found to be as extreme as the other. Consequently the new ordinance is in the nature of a com-

Though the ordinance has just been born, a number of councilmen have already taken steps to have wooden walks laid in their wards.

Morsman's Attorney Fee.

At Tuesday night's council meeting the city by Attorney W. W. Morsman. The bill was ment and was referred to the proper com-the Herdman board, and is the second bill of the kind that has been put in. When the old board began its action in the district court to keep the legal board from possession of the offices it hired Attorneys Day and Dunn to look after its interests. These two attorneys acted up to the time that the decision unfavorable to the old; board was handed down by the supreme council. Apparently thinking to change their luck, the Herdman board then hired Attorney Morsman to act in the motion for a rehearing. Consequently the board incurred two attorneys' fees. The bill of Dunn and Day is the same as Morsman's, $500.

Omaha Schools May Not Participate. Friday is children's day at the exposition but it is not probable that the school children of this city will participate in it. Superintendent Pearse is opposed to the idea of declaring that day a holiday in the city schools. He maintains that since there will be a big crowd of school children from all over the state in attendance at the big show that day, it would be better not to Millers Debate the Problem of Dispo sition of the Surplus and Other Matters of Trade Interest.

What to do with Nebraska's surplus wheat crop was the subject of discussion at the meeting of the State Millers' association Tuesday afternoon. The session was held n the rooms of the Commercial club with D. M. Dean of Seward, president of the millers' association, in the chair, Many matters relating to the interests of millers the state over were discussed, but that one about which all present had something to say was the surplus wheat crop. An as sertion was made by O. J. Cooper of Humboldt to the effect that a greater number of mills would solve the problem, the present number, 265, being insufficient to handle

A. L. Johnson of Crete suggested that the surplus be ground into flour each season and that it be the duty of the association to bolster up the price to normal rates. A number of papers suggesting solutions for the problem were read and many met with favor

C. E. Black of the Pierce Milling company made the statement that Nebraska wheat sold for better prices than that of Kansas, the reason being that in the latter state the bottom had dropped out of the Railroad freight rates and fisheries and irrigation were discussed at great length, and the following papers read: "Continued Improvement of Nebraska Seed Wheat, John Graff, Tecumseh; "Ethics of the Use of Flour Brands," C. L. Meiling, Wahoo; 'Practical Points in Milling," by A. M. Vandell of Loomis, was not discussed owing o Mr. Vandell's absence, as was Mr. R. REVENUE STAMP CURIOSITY

Collector Houtz Gets a Souvenir of the Law from a Druggist in Central Nebraska.

Collector Houtz has an interesting souvenir of the new revenue law, which was urned in by a druggist out in the state. For the period between the time the law occame operative until revenue stamps were provided for all, druggists were instructed o keep an account of their sales of proprietary medicines, and when the stamps were issued they were to send the amount of hese sales to the revenue office, with a renittance to cover the amount of stamps repuired to settle with the government. This particular druggist kept these sales in a small blank book, but instead of sending his ecount to the collector, he bought stamps and pasted them over the items entered in gance and ease, with an abundance the book, and then cancelled the stamps. fathers were somewhat dumfounded at The book presents an unique appearance, hearing read a claim of $500 for services with its numerous stamps of variegated rendered in the fire and police board case hues, representing the different denominations, and while the druggist did not comapproved by the Herdman Board of Fire and ply with the letter of the law, he has done Police Commissioners. It aroused no com- so in spirit, and his report will be accepted with all of its oddity

Certain grain dealers out in the state who The services rendered were performed for use grain tickets in making purchases of farmers, are disposed to evade paying the the farmer's name, the character amount of grain purchased, price paid and the amount due the farmer. These tickets are taken by the farmer to the bank, where they are accepted as checks by arrangement with the grain buyer. Collector Houtz says they come clearly under that provision of the revenue law referring to anything serving the capacity of bank checks, and must bear a 2-cent revenue stamp.

German-American Sentiment. OMAHA, Sept. 28 .- To the Editor of The Bee: Allow me to congratulate you upo stand you have taken in regard to the Douglas county legislative ticket. Your recommen dation to place the name of a representative German-American upon the ticket was timely. The Germans have about 3,470 votes augment it with the 16,000 school children of this city. He is in favor of having a appointed after November 8, as one-balf day set aside for the Omaha school children of the ticket as it stands now is doomed to defeat. I make this statement after a careful canvass of the city and county amongs the German-Americans, who unanimously condemn the course of John L. Webster and his ill-guided followers.

Browning King and Co's Store is a Bower of Beauty and Fragrance.

ECLIPSE ALL FORMER FALL OPENINGS

Highest Skill in the Florists' Art $7.50 yard. Mingles with Sartorial Triumphs and Dreams of Haberdashery.

There is a line between a trade exhibit designed principally to attract customers, and a display freed from the stiffness of commercialism, and which has an absorbing interest to the general public, but it requires artistic hands to draw it so plainly that all can see. Such hands have been at work in the annual fall opening made by Browning, King & Co., and yesterday their place business at the corner of Fifteenth and Douglas streets was made a palace of beauty and a garden of richest fragrance. The arrangement throughout was one of exquisite taste, and while there was no attempt to conceal the fact that the establishment has for sale everything in the line of clothing and furnishings for man and boy, there was a total absence of that resuggestiveness "to buy," frequently noticed in the "fall openings" which are the general rule. The store was open to everybody to come in and admire the beautiful which was seen on every hand, to examine every article shown on the counters or in the heavy plate glass cases, to ask countless questions as to quality and price, and perchance, if so disposed of your own notion of the worth and need, to pur chase. But it was all free, and all were wel-

Lovely Floral Decorations.

Some 500 palms, 5,000 cut roses, and 2,000 carnations were used, in connection with trailing fern asparagus and smilax, and hanging baskets, to convert the interior of the building into a floral bower, where the songs of fifty birds and the music of an excellent orchestra all combined to tempt one to forget the perplexities of the day and create the impression that even in the busy business world there are some who find time to enjoy the beauties of nature and the artistic handiwork of man. The rooms were redolent with the odor of roses, which were placed at intervals on the solid glass show cases in large vases; the pillars were entwined with trailing fern asparagus, the clothing counters were given a lively appearance by potted palms and on the walls were festoons of smilax and arm. wreaths of calla leaves. Floral horseshoes and stars contributed to the beauty of these interior decorations, and in a booth in the front part of the main floor was a harp of Beauty roses. On either side of this floral display, as if inviting the public to partake of the delicate fragrance, sat a pair of boy wax figures, clad in the latest style garments

The front mantel on the upper floor was decorated with ferns and palms, and enlivened by several pieces of delicate handpainted chinaware. The ladies' waiting room in the northeast corner was a picture of ele-American beauties to add to the charm of the surroundings. This floor is largely occupied with children's goods, the latest in everything being shown. A novelty for the fall in this line is the Dewey, reefer, with its special shield for the The military cape for boys is also another new thing, showing that the memories of the war still find lodgment in the hearts of the public.

Do Their Own Talking.

men's clothing. It is not necessary to have the attention called to this. One with an eye for the fashionable and tasty is irresistibly drawn to those long and well filled tables, every garment shown being new fall styles, placed before the public the first time at this opening-well made goods, well fitting, price and quality guaranteed by a firm known in every section of this country. But this applies not to clothing alone, New ties, with their bright colors, add materially to the attractiveness of the arrangement of goods, and there are hats, overcoats, shirts, etc., all of the latest patern and most pleasing designs.

Visitors to the store were presented with a souvenir in the shape of a booklet of snap shots at the exposition. It contains views of all the principal buildings, the lagoon, interesting spots on the Midway, the Indian encampment, and some of the noted representatives of the different tribes now at the exposition. It is a valuable book, carefully and accurately prepared, and in this year is a most appropriate souvenir of the most successful fall opening of the many delightful similar events undertaken by Browning, King & Co.

During the morning there were hundreds of visitors to the store, all of whom were impressed with the beauty of the scene presented; during the afternoon the crowds were trebled, and last evening there was a veritable "crush" by people anxious to get a peep at the interior.

Hansen is a bartender in the saloon of Arthur Mehl at Fourteenth and Jackson streets, who is the owner of the dog. He was set upon by the animal, which imbedded its teeth in his right arm. He ran out into the street with the dog clinging to him and his screams called to his assistance a number of police officers from the station near by. It was originated a month or so ago by an enterprising resi-dent of the county, and being popular from the beginning the subsequent discussion re-sulted in the arranging of the excursion which arrived yesterday. The party had a special train of nine coaches all to themselves, and as every provisions had been made to insure conveniences on the trip they had a very jolly time of it. They plan to remain three days and will spend all their time at the exposition grounds.
