On the whole, it was an extremely difficult task, requiring hard work. I have been working systehard work. I have been working systematically with every means at hand to improve the sanitary condition of the city. It is in this department that a vast amount tha of work has been done. I have a force of 170 men constantly employed, and at many times have had nearly double this force working day and night to remove the vast accumulations of indescribable filth which has accumulated in the outhouses and vards as well as the streets of the city, which is reputed to be one of the most unhealthy and dirty in the world. The water system has been put in order and a great many repairs made to it

It has long been the custom in this town to depend upon heavy rains and the rushing floods through the streets to sweep away the accumulated filth of the dry season. All this has been swept down to the water front, where it has been collected for years, chokong the drain so that when the tide goes out masses of dumping material are exposed to the intense rays of the sun and furnish frightful cause of disease. Later this year, when the epidemic season shall have passed. it is my intention, if I am granted funds and authority, to have the shallow places dredged out, so that at least a thin layer of water will cover them at low tide and prevent the present condition of affairs.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 .- The condition of the Catholic church throughout the country will be considered at the annual university, beginning October 11. A full atof the Confederacy" conferred tendance of the leading figures of the church is expected, including Archbishop Keane, who has come from Rome to attend the annual gathering. The directors of the university hold their annual meeting at the same time. It is understood that the archbishops will deal with little outside routine affairs of the church, as there are no large questions pending. It is said that the meeting will not deal with the questions of Catholic authority in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines. So far as Cuba and Porto Rico are concerned, they are under an established Catholic archbishopric, which will not be disturbed in any way. The church authority is centered at Santiago, that being the old capital of the island, and the archbishop of Santiago has two suffragans, one at Havana and another in Porto Rico. The bishops at the two latter points as well as the archbishop of Santiago will remain in control of Catholic affairs. The purpose is to avoid upheavals such as would result from a sudden change in the governing powers of the church in these quarters, so that no changes will be made until they come about naturally by death or retire-

HAY PAYS TRIBUTE TO BAYARD haracter Which Left an Impress on His Time Which Will Sur-

by Secretary of State John Hay: The news of Mr. Bayard's fatal illness—followed so swiftly by the tidings of his lamented death—came upon his many friends with a singular shock. One of the elements of the remarkable charm which distinguished him was his persistent youth-fulners. His handsome face was always young; he had the voice and the bearing of buoyant youth; his enthusiasms and quick emotions were those of a pure-minded and right; his frank expectation of that sympathy which he was so ready to give; his belief in the sincerity of others, being himself absolutely sincere; all of these qualities, even more than his good looks and gallant bearing, gave the impression received. gallant bearing, gave the impression not only of a young man, but of one who would always be young. Senator Cullom said: "We have done as much as possible in the time at our disposal and we have covered the ground covered the ground covered the ground covered to the commission." such a character will survive his death. In case deposits should be found the proto-col would probably be indefinitely postponed. FRENCH AUTUMN GOWN OF BROWN CASHMERE FROM HARPER'S BAZAR

A gown of light brown cashmere, trimmed in tunic fashion, is most characteristic of what is new in winter modes. Narrow guipure over black velvet follows the line of the double shaped ruffle, the latter appearing as a continuation of the bodice, while over the shoulders is a circular bretelle. The jacket part beneath is cut in a sharp point above the waist line, disclosing a vest and beit of velvet in the new tone of ruby red. This little waistcoat opens over a chemisette of Irish lace. The bretelle broadens at the shoulder, rendering more graceful the top of the plain close sleeve, then is divided at the back below the high straight collar.

The skirt, very smooth over the hips, has no pleat or shirrings at the waist line, the back breadths being sloped outward in fan effect, and falling into natural folds. The width of the skirt at the foot is four yards. The proper cut of this gown can be obtained only by use of the cut paper patterns furnished by Harper's Bazar, where the gown appears.

In many French gowns the stiffening in skirts is now replaced by overlapping ruffles on the upper and under sides of a shaped flounce of the foundation skirt, and soft wool linings are sometimes substituted for the silk or sain. But for ordinary wear a narrow band of hair cloth or light weight convas is still the usual interlining to either the gown or underskirt, according to the material and style of the dress.

Quantity of material for gown: Cash mere, eight and a half yards; velvet, three-quarters of a yard; lace, one yard; guipure and velvet trimming, six yards.
