ONLY THE PIE-PATRIOTS OUT

Popocrats for Revenue Only Are Now Running the Campaign.

MEN OF ABILITY NOT IN EVIDENCE

"Reform" that is Being Conducted by the State House Gang in Its Own Interest.

LINCOLN, Oct. 1 .- (Special.)-It is noticed as a remarkable circumstance that the only populists and other brands of popocrats who are on the stump this fall are those who are already holding office and asking for re-election, and their appointees who expect to hang on for the next two years. None outside of this class are taking an active part in the campaign, and the only issue raised by the fusion speakers is the issue of votes for individuals. The speeches are composed entirely of selflaudation, with an occasional epithet for a republican or a calamity statement regarding the state added for good measure. This being the case no wonder is expressed among observant people because of the lack of interest among the voters who have been of the United States by commissioners at any heretofore populists or democrats, and the international monetary conference hereafter inaction of the good speakers who have to be called and to enable the presiden always taken the stump for the vindication to otherwise promote an international agree-of some principle, is easily explained. Such ment." (29 Stat., p. 624-5) and approved men as Judge Broady, W. J. Berge, George A. Abbott and W. H. Thompson seem to have no part in this mutual admiration States fiscal agents in London, to pay exsociety, and the campaign is left to the tender mercles of Allen, Porter, Meserve, Cornell, Wolfe and Poynter, aided by their deputies and pie-counter dependents. All of the do-nothing deputies at the state house who can make any sort of calamity speech, or who can abuse the republicans and brag on the "reform officials," in a good round tone have been armed with passes and sent out to instruct the voters, while those left behind are set to work folding campaign documents for mails. In the skirmish the detail business of the state receives little atten-If the public affairs are being attended to in proper shape, then it is evident that during the last twenty months the reformers have had more than double the number of employes on the pay roll than business of the state. It is said that all the employes at the state house and at the state institutions have been assessed to raise funds for the reform campaign, and that those who are unable to make speeches or are too busy to fold circulars are forced to contribute a double assessment for the use of the men who are "seeking neither place

Cornell as a Pass Grabber.

The best of evidence has been found to prove that John F. Cornell was always a pass grabber, and that whife he was still taken west on the evening train, and posing as a republican he did not hesitate to boast of the favors received from the railroads. In the summer of 1891 he took a trip at the expense of the corporations, something similar to his last year's junker to Hot Springs, and on his return wrote a letter to the Falls City Journal describing the pleasant features of the trip. In this letter, which was published in the issue of September 11, 1891, the following appears

It is seldom that a farmer has the time r money to take him beyond the boundaries or money to take him beyond the boundaries of his own farm, that, when he does get away from his own neighborhood, he sees so many new and wonderful things that he feels like teiling his friends and neighbors of them. Through the kindness of my wife (who took charge of the farm), and a soulless corporation, who furnished the transpo tation, in company with a lawyer, a natural ist and a school teacher. I had the pleasur of a two weeks' trip as above stated. We were well supplied with munitions of war and during our trip we put to flight thou-sands of ducks, snipe and a few jack rabbits, Mr. Cornell is still traveling at the exin the world for his peculiar kind of "munitions of war," and since this trip it is natural to suppose that the Milwaukee brand of ammunition is doing good service in the present campaign.

Correcting the Senator. One of the statements made by Senator Allen in his speeches over the state is that the republicans appointed a monetary commission to confer with other countries regarding an international agreement and that while this commission failed to accomplish anything, the expense to this government was $100,-000. This statement has been made in his speeches in the east end of the state and no doubt is used in the west. In order to find out just what this monetary commission did cost an inquiry was sent to the auditor of the treasury a few days ago. The answer received today shows that Allen is using the same brand of deceit in his speeches that has so far characterized the campaign work of all the officeholding patriots in this state. The letter from the auditor reads as follows:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 28.—Dear Sir Replying to your inquiry of the 25th inst., relative to the expenses of the International Monetary commission appointed un ier "An act to provide for the presentation March 3, 1897, I have the honor to advice you that the amount of $24,400 was advanced June 17, 1897, to Seligman Brothers, United penses of said commission, of which amount $8,351.26 remained in their hands at las eport, August 31, 1898.

The only additional payment from this appropriation was $313.34 on March 19, 1803. to Hon. Edward O. Welcott on settlement departments.

According to the books of the Treasur, department the total expenses incurred and said under said appropriation amounted to $18,362.08 August 31, 1898, thus leaving $83,637.92 as a net unexpended balance to the credit of the appropriation of $100,000 authorized by said act. Respectfully yours, the Question.

LINCOLN, Oct. 1 .- (Special Telegram)-

Governor Holcomb this evening made the following written statement for publication

regarding the muster out of the Nebraska

"Relative to the letter received by me from the acting secretary of war advising that the president had determined to muster out one regiment of Nebraska volunteers, to be designated by me, in response to my request to have a portion of the enlisted men

"I have simply acknowledged the receipt of the letter, saying, that at the earliest possible moment I will secure some desired information regarding the condition, sickness and wishes of the men in each regiment and then advise the department with such suggestions or recommendations as it may seem advisable for me to take.

"It may be deemed a proper subject by some to make the suffering, sickness and death of the volunteers and the suspense and anguish of their families and friends a pretext for playing a political chess game. As for me, however, I shall not engage in it. I shall continue to direct my efforts in behalf of all the volunteers from this state. I will not make any recommendations regarding which regiment should be mustered out until I have possessed myself with some desired information from the officers and enlisted men of the two regiments as to their present condition, the degree of sickness prevailing and the wishes of the soldiers regarding their continuance in the service. I will be guided by such information in making recommendations concerning the muster out of one of these regiments. I am in receipt daily of many letters and petitions from relatives and friends of men in both regiments. I regard all these appeals as coming from persons equally solicitous about those in the service and look upon the friends of the soldiers in each of these regiments as standing upon an equality in this respect and for that reason am anxious to know more of the views of the men themselves."

One of the petitions mentioned by the tovernor was handed in today and contained the signatures of a number of those who have relatives in the First regiment and who asked that the boys at Manila be ones selected for discharge.

There were warm times in each convention, in the populist over the county attorneyship, in the democratic over the candidacy for representative. James Hughes of Schuyler was the champion of many, but the following was after the lead of H. E. RIGHT NOW

All Sufferers From Chronic Maladies Should Prepare for the Stormy Season of Fall and Winter—This Can Best Be Effected Through a Course of Treatment Under Dr. Shepard's Light Fee System.

In volunteering this timely suggestion to the afflicted of the community. Doctor Shepard has heretofore reminded them, as he would remind them now, that the Atmospheric Conditions During the season are such as to engender disease and to antagonize its treatment. With the cold and damp and poison of the air they tend to counteract or undo the work of the physician and too greatly returd the progress of recovery. During the summer, on the contrary, the elements work in harmony with the physician. The air is full of nature's own medicinal balms and tonics that add to the curative potency of intelligent treatment, nursing Winter

And Strengthening the Patient, And Strengthening the Patient, counteracting the work of disease, encouraging the return of health and cutting short the period requisite to a final cure. Dr. Shepard would still further remind the sick that this is true not only of catarrh and asthma and lung troubles; it is true of kidney and liver disease; it is true of diseases of the nervous system. Of all the aliments accepted for treatment, it is true that one month's proper attention in summer may be worth two in winter.

Prompt Results— The Home Treatment.

RHINER, JUNIATA, writes: "Your treatment through the mail for bronchitts and catarrh of the head has effected a perfect cure in my case. Every-thing you sent me was beneficial and my thing you sent me was beneficial and my recovery was as rapid as I could have expected even with a physician to visit me daily. For my lung trouble your Antiseptic Vaporizer has proved invaluable. By its use I breathed healing vapors into the throat and bronchial tubes and deep into the lungs. I am sure I would not be alive today without this medication."

Remember This Point.

Dr. Shepard invites a close scrutiny of every statement printed as coming from matient: who have been under treatment. These witnesses are sometimes your friends and neighbors, often people of prominence and celebrity, and always men and women of standing and respectability. If they live hear you, call and see them yourself. If they are distant patients, write them, enclosing stamp for reply. Thus, in may particular case that interests you, because similar to your own, you may gather many facts that will aid you in your search for health.

Throat With Deafness.

Methodist Episcopal Church Elgin, Neb., Writes:

"For a number of years I suffered from a catarrhal disease in my head, ears and throat. After public speaking or singing for a few minutes I would become hoarse with a feeling of fullness and irritation in the throat and bronchial tubes. My nostrils became stopped up, giving a nasal tone to my voice and causing continual headaches. I had not breathed through the left nostril for two years. Marked deafness came on with other symptoms until my hearing was very dull. This was the worst affliction of all. My whole system has been thoroughly restored to good health, however, by the Shepard Home Treatment and the local catarrhal symptoms have been mastered. The throat and nasal symptoms have disappeared and my hearing is excellent."

How to Secure the Home Treatment.

You may live 200 miles from Omaha, yet if you will drop a postal card to Dr. Shepard you will receive a Hand-some Book on Chronic Diseases, Con-sultation Blanks and a full explanation of "The Treatment That Cures."
It will cost you just the price of the
