

OREGON SHORT LINE MEETING

Session at Salt Lake Next Week a Source of Much Local Interest.

UNION PACIFIC OFFICIALS WILL ATTEND

Probable Control of the Branch Line Passing Back to the Parent Line is Again Being Much Discussed.

Union Pacific officials are eagerly watching for an enlargement of the system, which they feel sure will take place within the next fortnight.

The annual meeting of the Oregon Short Line will be held in Salt Lake City next week, and it is expected that it will be the last annual meeting of that independent corporation to be held.

On account of this meeting a number of the Omaha officials of the Union Pacific will miss a portion of the peace jubilee celebration here.

Whether the Short Line will be operated from Omaha, as formerly is an unsettled question. It is said that this matter is one of the mooted points to be settled before the absorption of the old branch by the parent line takes place.

The absorption of the Julesburg branch of the Union Pacific, Denver & Gulf road is another desideratum that is expected to materialize at an early date.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The plan of reorganization of the Union Pacific, Denver & Gulf road, issued today, provides for an issue of $20,000,000 first mortgage 4 per cent bonds; $5,000,000 4 per cent first preferred stock; $5,000,000 non-cumulative second preferred stock, and $10,000,000 common stock.

Smaller Lines are Helped. Phil Hitchcock, western representative of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western roads in the city, speaking of travel during the last summer, says: "There has been a big amount of travel during the whole season. To be sure a great deal of it has been carried on low rates brought out by the rate war with the Canadian roads, and there has not been a vast amount of revenue in the business on that account.

Celebrates the Burlington Depot. The current issue of the Railway Age devotes two pages to photographs of the Burlington's new station in Omaha and of the old union depot. The article is descriptive of the old and new structures the editor remarks: "The opening of the new station of the Burlington system at Omaha was greeted by the citizens of that place with a degree of satisfaction and pride second only perhaps to that taken in the successful exposition now in progress. The need of a new station is clearly indicated by one of the illustrations shown."

Railroad Notes and Personalities. A. B. Smith, assistant general passenger agent, and C. B. Smith, assistant general freight agent, of the B. & M. road, have returned from the exposition commissioners of Pennsylvania will arrive here in a private car of the Milwaukee road on Tuesday morning, to be here for the celebration of the day set apart for the Keystone state.

A party of twenty-five Philadelphians arrived in a special car attached to train No. 1 of the Milwaukee road yesterday. It is a personally conducted excursion descriptive of the Pennsylvania and the Milwaukee roads and will remain here until the evening of October 6.

OMAHA'S HOUR IS AT HAND

Harvest of Prosperity is Ready to Be Garnered Now.

MATERIAL ADVANCE OF THE CITY CERTAIN

Mr. Rosewater and Mr. Hitchcock Discuss the Outlook Before the Real Estate Exchange and Point Out Immediate Advantages.

Plans were considered by the members of the Real Estate Exchange at their regular Monday meeting for booming the property, railroad and natural facilities of Omaha. Invitations had been issued to all the real estate men in the city, whether members of the exchange or not, to attend, and to Mr. Rosewater of The Bee and Mr. Hitchcock of the World-Herald, to address them.

He said that the attention of various members of the exchange had been attracted to statement in one of the Chicago papers setting forth the increase in value of real property in that city. This suggested to them that an opportune moment had arrived for calling the attention of investors and capitalists far and near to the exceptional opportunities offered by Omaha.

Steps to Advertise the Town. At the close of Mr. Hitchcock's speech Mr. Benson begged that articles on the opportunities of Omaha be inserted in the editorial columns of the papers.

Real Time for Work. "At the close of the exposition is the real time to boom this city. Then call the attention of men to the natural facilities of the country round about Omaha, the improvements that are to be made and the field that is open to investors."

"Though we have no leather manufacturers now, the time is ripe to come, for the market for hides is the cheapest and the supply can be made the largest in the world. With the establishment of these industries, the population will be increased by a most desirable class, the workmen who have steady employment. An impetus will thus be given to rent, merchants and property owners.

overwhelming majority see and have felt its enormous advantages. It behooves us now to look at the future and to look squarely.

"Other practical advantages present themselves. First, the world-wide advertisement of Omaha and its result. Ever more will its name be with us. It is like a stone thrown into the ocean. Though the stone disappears from view, as it sinks it causes an ever widening circle below only by the limits of continents.

"Second, it has commanded the attention of great institutions and co-operations of all kinds and forced them to take Omaha into their plans for the future as a great metropolis.

"And thirdly, it has brought an enormous amount of ready money into the city, which will remain in circulation. The amount of money per capita in the United States, is about $24, making scarcely $25,000,000 for the state of Nebraska. But fully a million people have come to Omaha for the exposition and will have spent much more than a dollar apiece. And this money will be in permanent circulation.

That is a road, independent of pools, and it goes only where there is trade and opportunity for it. Last year this railroad carried 42 per cent of the corn to the seaboard. Corn is our chief product. Thus competition will increase, cheaper rates will prevail and the farmer will put more money in his pocket.

Then methods to advertise the city were considered. Mr. Taylor said that for the last six years real estate men had felt that newspaper advertising was of little use as the people were unable to buy, even if they desired to. But now he thought an upward movement had started and chances as never before were to be found in all the western cities.

Next Monday the two committees will make their reports as to the best plans for conducting the boom, and the work will really be begun.

Some Very Plain Talk.

Here it is in plain words, as plain as we know how to write them—your money back for anything you buy here that you don't like—or that you find cheaper anywhere else. You have known us now for over 13 years, and you have never known us to break a promise or to promise more than we can perform. We say to you this morning in all seriousness that we honestly believe, because we know, that we are selling goods today twenty per cent lower than other houses, lower than any house, lower than you can buy them anywhere in Omaha, under any sort of conditions or at any sort of a "sale." Never mind what you see in advertisements. Never mind how cheap things look in print. It's easy to write big bargains and it's easy to make promises so long as they don't have to be redeemed. If you will look in our great Farnam street window today you will see samples of suits and overcoats that we will only be too glad to sell you. We didn't put them there just to bring you inside. There they are in broad day light—in plain view, every one marked in plain figures and every one waiting for a customer—not merely for show. You can buy the suits at 4.00 or 4.50 just as well as you can those at 19.50. You can buy the overcoats at 7.00. You can buy those at 9.50. You can buy those at 7.50; at 10.00; at 12.00, at 13.50 and you can bring 'em back and get your money any time that you find them for less money elsewhere. Whatever goods you see in our windows are for sale. They aren't put there for "bait" just to get you inside.
