

JUBILEE CROWDS START EARLY

Railroads Surprised at the Rush for Omaha Monday Morning.

EVERY LINE HAS ALL IT CAN HAUL

Nebraska and Missouri People Furnish the Bulk of the First Day's Business, but Kansas and Iowa Are Represented.

The first week day of the Peace Jubilee of the Transmississippi Exposition saw an immense crowd of visitors enter the city through its two passenger stations and one shed.

All of the morning trains from Chicago were heavily filled. There was not one of the four Chicago-Omaha lines that had the least kick coming on the amount of travel it hauled in.

The Burlington brought in its McCook express at 9:35 in two well loaded sections, and the Hastings train, twenty minutes before noon, delivered 600 more Nebraskans to Omaha to be well taken care of until the last sky rocket should be sent up to tell the inhabitants of Mars and other planets about the glorious successes of the army and navy of the United States.

The Missouri Pacific brought in just 2,434 people during the morning. Most of the crowd came from Missouri to attend the state celebration at the exposition grounds.

The train reports showed the following number of passengers on the five trains: Six hundred and twenty-five from Kansas City, 352 from Kansas City, 410 from Kansas City, 547 from St. Louis and 500 from Auburn.

Demand for Equipment.

As the reduced rates to Omaha on account of the Peace Jubilee were not available until one minute after midnight on Monday morning the passenger men were surprised to see such a large crowd coming on the morning trains.

There is not a railroad superintendent in Omaha that is feeling easy today. All of them are worried about the supply of passenger equipment for the crowds this week. One of them remarked to a Bee reporter: "The crowd has started with a rush and I don't know what it will do to us before the week is over."

Superintendent of Transportation Buckingham of the Union Pacific has distributed a goodly supply of passenger coaches at Grand Island, Columbus, Kearney and other central points and the "Overland Route" is probably better fixed for handling the crowds than any other Omaha road, and it is not feeling that it will have an easy time of it.

INSPECTING THE MAIN LINE.

Presidents Burt, Hughtitt and Mohler Move by Easy Stages.

The special train of the Union Pacific carrying Presidents Burt, Hughtitt and Mohler is making fairly good time in its daylight trips across the country between here and Salt Lake City.

Conjectures as to what will be the result of the annual meetings of the Union Pacific and the Oregon Short Line, to be held in Salt Lake City on Tuesday and Wednesday, continue to be heard from all segments of the railroad circle, but little is definitely known.

the meetings. There is a healthy rumor circulating to the effect that the directors to be elected by the stockholders of the two companies will meet in Salt Lake City this week, and on the motion of Marvin Hughtitt, president of the Northwestern, elect Horace G. Burt president of the Union Pacific and president of the Oregon Short Line, thus making the first step toward a consolidation of the two lines.

STATEMENT OF THE UNION PACIFIC.

Business of the Last Year and the Next Surplus Earned.

Preparatory to the annual meeting of the directors the Union Pacific railroad has just made public a statement showing its operations for the six months ending June 30 last. The period covered by this report is only a fraction of a year during which the property held by the company on June 30, 1898, was taken over in parcels and at different times.

The acquisition of the branch lines and auxiliary properties had not been accomplished until after that date.

The report of the operations of the company now made is, therefore, necessarily restricted. The report follows:

Table with 2 columns: Item and Amount. Includes Gross receipts, Operating expenses, Net receipts, Total income, Interest on funded debt, Surplus exclusive of income taxes, etc.

The item of adjustment of taxes represents taxes paid by the receivers in January, February and March on the main line and Kansas and Denver Pacific lines in excess of the amount of taxes apportioned to those months and included in operating expenses and taxes as shown above.

The Missouri Pacific brought in just 2,434 people during the morning. Most of the crowd came from Missouri to attend the state celebration at the exposition grounds.

Superintendent of Transportation Buckingham of the Union Pacific has distributed a goodly supply of passenger coaches at Grand Island, Columbus, Kearney and other central points and the "Overland Route" is probably better fixed for handling the crowds than any other Omaha road.

LOOKING FOR A LOCHINVAR

Wyoming Cowboy Coming to Omaha to be Arrested Instead of Married, as He Thinks.

When Grant Hiteshaw, a Wyoming cowboy and his intended bride, 15-year-old Maud Coy of Lusk, Wyo., enter the county clerk's office here to obtain a marriage license, as he has planned, he will fall into the arms of two police officers and will have to answer to the charge of kidnaping.

A telegram from the girl's stepmother from Lusk, Wyo., authorizes Hiteshaw's arrest. In a terse way the telegram states that the two have been keeping company against the stepmother's wishes for some time past. A threat on the part of the stepmother to banish the girl to some relatives in an eastern city Saturday forced Hiteshaw to act as he did in order that he would not lose his sweetheart. Late Saturday night he rode his broncho to the home of his sweetheart equipped with a saddle leading behind. At a signal the girl left the house and mounted the saddled horse and in an instant the young Lochinvar and his bride were riding at full gallop toward the nearest railway point.

Their departure was noticed and they were chased by the girl's relatives, but they got to the depot first and were whirling east in a train when the girl's cowboy relatives dashed up to the station in a cloud of dust. Some friends of Hiteshaw's told the stepmother of their plans of getting married here and she notified Acting Chief of Police Haze Monday morning. Up to noon yesterday the couple had not put in their appearance at the county judge's office.
