OLD-TIME BAZARS ARE OVERSHADOWED

"The Reformed Fish Pond" and What It Will Do for Those Who Nibble at the Bait—Much for the Money.

There is certainly no better variety show on the boards than some of the charity fairs society women have been booming this autumn, for women, whose tongues cover plenty of brains as well as plenty of curly locks, have taken the matter under their vigorous and reforming interest.

the cold steel of a toy pistol is pressed against the visitor's forehead or shirt bosom; lanterns twinkle, percussion caps snap fiercely and the brigands and their wives order hands up and demand the usual alternative. A pretense of search is carried through, one of the marauding ladies takes down the visitor's name in a neat notebook and then, after coolly robbing him or her of some possession, the victim is allowed to go.

WITH SHERIDAN IN HIS RIDE.

How One of the Bodyguard Went to "Winchester, Twenty Miles Away." General Phil Sheridan making his famous ride from Winchester to Cedar creek to turn the tide of battle in favor of the routed Union troops did not ride alone, as pictures show him. Behind him, one foaming horse, rode his bodyguard of fourteen soldiers, who tried. But during all the excitement, though filled with eagerness and enthusiasm, he showed a remarkable calm whenever it could prove effective.

"He halted just before we reached the scene of the battle to tighten his horse's girth and take a draught at the bottle of whisky in his pocket for he knew there was work for him to do. While the bottle was at his mouth a shell burst over his head. We all ducked.

Great Prestige Earned by the Negro Troops at Santiago. It was impossible to go much about Camp Wikoff, writes Cleveland Moffett in Leslie's, without being impressed by the great prestige that has come to the negro through the re-

UNIQUE FRAME FOR WAR SHIP

Artistic and Suitable Setting for Cherished Pictures.

SOUVENIR OF THE RECENT WAR

Plans and Specifications for a Handsome and Suggestive Home Decoration—Articles to Be Used.

There are thousands of families throughout the country who feel a very personal interest in some one boat, our great navy, having had either a brother, cousin, uncle or sweetheart at sea during the recent war. For them this style of frame is recommended as an agreeable setting for their cherished photographs. And here is the way to make one originally designed to frame the flagship New York.

HE DID NOT COME BACK.

But in the Morning All the Trenches Were Dug. When the American line had fought its way to the top of the hills at El Paso and San Juan and Caney, relates the Atlanta Constitution, General Wheeler issued an order that every command should dig trenches in preparation for the conflict that he knew would break out again in the morning.

alone of the sixty that had set out were able to keep the pace their leader set. These men saw all the excitement of the day, since they stayed close to their general and followed him in all his movements. Among them was Private G. Frank Liddy, now in business in Chicago, who has been staying in Kansas City several days. Mr. Liddy has preserved well the memory of that famous ride, the most exciting incident of his war experiences, but his account of it differs in some particulars from that of the histories.

LABOR AND INDUSTRY.

About 65,000,000 pounds of beet sugar were raised in California last year. At Concord, N. C., the new cotton mill of Lippard & Shealey will be equipped with 4,000 spindles. Eastern labor papers state that over 12,000 operatives will be thrown out of employment in October at Fall River, Mass., on account of the closing down of cotton mills.

either from wood with a pen-knife or painted in oil colors to represent the objects. Here is one story I heard in such a group: "Dar was a Spanish officer on dat hill, an' I was a lay-in' down a firm' away an' a firm' away, tryin' my best fish to get 'im. Ah could see his sword a-shinin' an' all his gold medals a-shinin' on his breast, but Ah couldn't get 'im. Ah never seen such a man as dat Spanish officer. He didn't seem to be afraid o' nuthin'. Ev' time I'd fish I'd see the dust fly, and sometimes Ah'd go one side an' v'ry close, and sometimes Ah'd go on t'other side v'ry close. But dat Spanish officer never budge. V'ry brave Spanish officer."

MANHOOD RESTORED "CUPIDINE"

Manhood restored "Cupidine" is a powerful medicine for the treatment of various ailments, including nervousness, weakness, and general debility. It is described as a "restorative" and is highly recommended for those who have suffered from these conditions.

employed in the street railway service has declined 170,275, nearly 90 per cent. The total length of the lines in the United States equals 16,088.87 miles.

Bascom manufacturers are sending canoes of birch and canvas to Palestine, Japan, India and China. One recently sent to India was made to the order of a British officer and the cost of transportation was more than $25. A canoe just ordered is intended for a trip up the River Jordan.

The National Labor Tribune says that the finest steel mill in the United States for the manufacture of hoops, cotton ties and bands will be erected at Fall River, Mass., by the Monessen Steel company, at a cost of $400,000, and over 200 men will be given employment after the first of the year.

A new glass concern at Pittsburg has improved a process whereby a wonderful extension of the size of glassware can be made. Among the samples is a round jar about thirty inches high and twenty inches in diameter, which will hold fifty gallons, and near it is a glass tank suitable for electro-plating, holding twenty-one gallons. There is a square jar, twenty-four inches high and 12x12, holding thirteen gallons, and a section of four-inch glass pipe about seventy-eight inches long.

The Typographical Journal mentions a new typesetting machine which not only sets type in any length of line desired, but also justifies the lines automatically and perfectly, and which the present machines cannot do. The new machine is automatic, changes in length of line can be rapidly made by the operator, and it is far more compact than any other can be broken around cuts easier than by hand composition.

Zinc ore took another jump at Joplin, Mo., last week, advancing from $30 to $33 a ton, compared with the highest price on record, which was reached four weeks ago. Never since the discovery of zinc in south-east Missouri have the prices of this ore continued at such a high level for so long a period, ranging, as they have, from $30 to $34 a ton for ore in the bin. The present advance is attributed to the increasing demand for zinc.

Rubber-tired wheels are now very commonly used on such vehicles as coaches, coupes and hansom cabs, and within a year or two they are expected to be used to a very considerable extent on lighter vehicles, runabouts and light wagons. They have previously been placed on heavy top buggies, and it is for this reason that they are so popular. Now being the increasing use of rubber-tired wheels for various sorts of vehicles there is a great increase in the use of pneumatic-tired wheels.

The Philadelphia Press says: "There is not as much talk of increasing the length of the steel rail from thirty to sixty feet as there was a few years ago. The Pennsylvania Railroad company some time ago sold considerable of its road with sixty-foot rails, but it was stated since that no more of the rails of this length have been ordered, and it is not likely that more will be bought until after something shall have been discovered to prevent contraction and expansion in cold and heat."

Typographical union No. 6 of New York acquired a tract of land last spring in the suburbs of the city for some sixty members out of work or declining upon its farming. They each received from half to a whole acre of ground and an experienced farmer was employed to superintend operations. Many of the men in fact have become regular farmers. What the union wanted to determine by the experiment was whether the unemployed would work and whether it was feasible to make farmers of them. The sixty farmers will divide about $5,000 from the sale of potatoes alone.

General, I'm afraid our men can't dig the trenches." "What men?" asked the general. "The cavalry division," said the adjutant. "General Wheeler sat up in bed and began pulling on his boots." "Get me the man," he directed. "What man?" asked the adjutant. "The man who can't dig trenches."

The general stopped him and walked out of his tent. "You can go to sleep now, my man, and get up and dig your trench for me. When the sun comes up tomorrow morning the Spaniards are going to open on us, and every man who isn't protected is not only in danger of being killed, but will be unable to help maintain our own position."

The negro's feet shuffled uneasily on the ground. "I see one of 'em, boss, but there's three more are in there."

The trenches have to be dug, and if you are unable to dig yours I'll just go out and do it for you. Where's the pick?"

With the most business-like air in the world Wheeler slid into his coat and turned toward the big cavalryman. The latter's eyes opened as he saw the proceedings, and they began to bulge out when the general motioned to him to lead the way to his camp. For half a minute his voice stuck in his throat, and then he said: "If they done got to be dig I'll just naturally do it myself. I'm dog tired, but that ain't work for you."

"Boss, you ain't fit to dig no trenches. If you done got to be dig I'll just naturally do it myself. I'm dog tired, but that ain't work for you."

"I know it ain't work for me to do," he said, "but I am going to need soldiers in the morning, and I am going to save your life if possible. Do you think now that you can dig the trenches?"

"He seems to have changed his mind," he said. "Now, you got to find me another man who can't dig the trenches."

The adjutant bowed and rode off. He never came back. In the morning the trenches were dug.

Senator Simon's Policy. PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 10.—Senator-elect Joseph Simon, in an interview regarding his course on the leading questions which will come before congress today, said:

I favor the retention of the entire Philippine group, and I should not agree to the ratification of a treaty that renounces any portion of them to Spain. I am for government construction and control of the Nicaragua canal and favor a Pacific cable, an army of larger standing army and a greater navy. I am especially anxious for a firm establishment of the gold standard and reformation of the currency by retirement of government paper obligations and the creation of a banking currency. These measures are of great urgency, both because of our prospective trade expansion and because postponement can only result in disaster when the next financial difficulties occur.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 10.—A special to the Dispatch from Carlinville, Ill., says: Upon petition of Fred W. Lukens, manager of the Chicago-Verdin Coal company, Judge Owen Thompson of the circuit court at Springfield has issued an order on the circuit clerk of Macoupin county, directing him to issue writs of injunction against a number of Virden's most prominent miner citizens. These writs are returnable at the January term of court.

Several hundred Springfield miners have arrived in Virden since midnight. The strikers are elated over the governor's stand in refusing to send troops here. Lukens will have another conference with the executive today. The miners assert they have not violated the law. Their leaders instructed "General Bradley," the Mount Olive agitator, that if he did anything to incite the men he would have to leave the town. The strikers have reason to believe the negroes will arrive today or tonight.
