People by the Thousands Flock Into the Exposition City.

EVERY RAILROAD RUNS SPECIAL TRAINS

Union Depot is Packed with Visitors Who Arrive Faster Than They Can Be Distributed by the Street Cars.

The vanguard of the army of Peace Jubilee week visitors put in appearance yesterday morning. It came from all localities of the transmississippi region, but mainly from Iowa and Nebraska, and the indications are that before the arrival of the last train tonight all existing records for travel over the railroads will be smashed to smither-

Without a single exception a greater number of people were brought into the city by each of the railroads than were ever carried before during a morning and the same assertion holds good with regard to afternoon. special trains are scheduled arrive over all the roads in numbers that are unprecedented. All of the regular trains are carrying extra cars, increasing their size to fourteen or fifteen coaches, being drawn by a pair of locomo tives instead of one. The specials vary in length from nine to thirteen cars.

At the Webster street station, in addition to the usual number of regular morning trains, there were four specials-two from Missouri, one from Minnesota, and one from Iowa. The station was growded all morning. but the visitors experienced little or no difficulty in securing transportation to the parts of the city they wished to reach.

At the big station by the viaduet it was different. Trains followed one another into the depots at such short intervails, unloading one lot of passengers on to the platforms be fore the preceeding crowds had gotten away that it became impossible for those in charge to handle the throngs and every avenue of exit became congested, remaining that way most of the morning. To add to the confusion, the street car service was wholly inadequate to accommodate the visitors, and all morning the viaduct was packed with people who were unable to find places on the street cars and get away. Several hundred preferred to walk and carry luggage than to remain for hours waiting a chance to ride on cars, and as a consequence streets leading to hotel and boarding house districts were crowded by travelers for many hours. The regular trains into the Union and Burlington stations arrived in sections number ing from two to four, instead of one as is usually the case. In adddition to these, there were two specials from Marion, over the Milwaukee: two from Cedar Rapids, over the Northwestern; two from Des Moines over the Northwestern and Rock Island three from Missouri, and several more from the west. Two big excursion trains from Holdrege and Beatrice were scheduled to arrive yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Missourians Still Coming.

The Missourians did not cease coming to the exposition on the conclusion of their state celebration here. Over 5,000 more visitors wearing the up-to-date motto "Show Me" arrived here yesterday morning, and as many more are said to be on the way to Omaha to greet President McKinley.

During the morning the Missouri Pacific delivered 2.685 Missourians to the exposition authorities. They came on six trains, whereas the compan; a time card provides for only half that number of trains. Train No. 1 came in three sections, the first arriving with 650 passengers at 9.25 a. m., over three hours late on account of the heavy travel. Train No. 9 drew in with two sections bearing 300 and 350 persons respectively. The Auburn local train had all of its seats taken and its alse and platforms crowded when it sles and platforms crowded when it reached Avoca, so the engineer was instructed to pull it through to Omaha without a stop. This he did, though he had Mary J. James, Atlantic, Ia............. 32

A special train from Phillipsburg. Kan., will arrive at 4 p. m., and will be followed by four heavy sections of the regular afternoon train from the west, arriving between 4 and 5 o'clock. The trains are running ten minutes apart on the block

Modoe Club Coming

About 2,600 Kansans are aboard of these trains under the guidance of Hon. Thomas Anderson of Topeka, ex-postmaster of that city and a Grand Army leader. He has with him the famous Modoc club of the Kansas capital, composed of twenty-five well-trained singers. His chief clerk, George W. Bainter, is with him.

The has with and Salurday matinee. They play is perhaps one of the best known of Hoyt's many productions, and is full of that pungent humor which has made him famous as a playwright, ter, is with him. All of the large supply of passenger coaches sent west last week by and their aisles jammed. They will be sent out to points in Nebraska, Kansas and Colorado again, no matter whether anyone rides in them or not, so that they will be ready to bring more visitors to the Peace Jubilee on Wednesday and Thursday.

Here's how some of the cars came in on the "Overland Route" yesterday: irain No. 4 his liabilities a large per cent of them are COMING TO PEACE JUBILEE eleven cars; train No. 42 with thirteen cars. That completes the morning grist of arrivals on President Burt's road, while the afternoon express is already reported to be in thre sections, with thirty-five cars, and as traffic this way increases more cars are put in service and additional sections made up.

The Missouri Pacific will bring the 200 soldiers of the Twenty-second regiment, U. S. A., from Fort Crook to the exposition to-morrow in a special train of six cars. It will leave Fort Crook at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning and arrive at the position terminal station one hour later. Leaving for Fort Fort Crook at 10 p. m. Wednesday night the soldiers will reach their post at 11:15 p. m. Excavations for the foundation of the new nion passenger station to be built by the Union Pacific and occupied by all Omaha terminal roads, except the Burlington, were commenced yesterday. The work of remov-ing some of the switch tracks from the plot of ground between Eighth and Tenth and Mason and Marcy streets, to allow the work of preparing the ground for the new structure will be begun today.

The third employe of the Union Pacific within two weeks and the fourth within the past mouth to be injured on Union Pa-cific trains by projecting mail cranes is F. I. Hart, conductor of the eastbound "Overland Limited" train near Clarks. Neb., on Monday afternoon. He was looking out from the side of the train when the mail crane near the station, which had been left tanding out, struck him and inflicted a number of cuts about the face and hands. The most notable railway decoration, in onor of President McKinley's visit to the exposition is that at the B. & M. headquar-ters. As soon as General Manager Holdrege learned that the president would pass the corner of Tenth and Farnam streets he ordered most elaborate decorations, and they were the first conspicuous ones to greet the resident last night. The entire front of the headquarters building is covered with bright bunting of the national colors, the front is outlined with electric lights, and an im-mense clive branch of peace is artistically worked out in multi-colored electric lights, RAILROADS TO CLOSE ONE DAY Everything but Ticket Offices Will Be Shut Down During the President's Visit Here.

"You may say that the railroads hope t see an attendance of 100,000 at the exposi tion to greet President McKinley on Wednesday, and will help swell the crowd by giving their employes a holiday," remarked an executive officer of one of the Omaha lines

Dickinson of the Union Pacific and Bidwell P. A., Cleveland. of the Elkhorn early yesterday morning. The officers of the other lines were consulted at once, and all of the railway officials in charge quickly fell in with the idea. Before noon a general agreement had been reached for a whole day's vacation, and as the bulletins were posted in the different headquarters they were received with enthusiasm by the hundreds of clerks there. It will be the first occasion during the exposition that the railroad employes have enjoyed an entire day off. On Railroad day they were given only a half day. The closing order applies to the general headquarters here, the general offices and the local freight houses. The city ticket offices and the depot ticket offices will necessarily be kept open on account of the enormous number of passengers to be looked after.

The officials of the operating departments of the Omaha terminal lines are glad that the local freight houses are going to be closed all day comorrow as it will save a lot of switching of freight cars and give more room in the railroad yards for the handling of passenger trains. Said one of them. "There is going to be a big lot of extra and special trains in all of the yards tomorrow. We can handle them with greater safety and in quicker time now that we know there will be but little switching of freight cars. As the local freight houses will be closed there will not need to be much switching and we'll have most of the room in the yards for our passenger trains."

County Commissioners and Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben Do What They Can to Relieve Pressure for Shelter.

The county commissioners have decided to throw open the court house for the accommedation free of charge of those who will be unable to secure places to sleep tonight, and will do the best they can to make their visitors comfortable. The court rooms will be opened and those who wish may occupy the benches. In addition to this the county has about 100 cots and mattresses which the jurors use when court is in session, and these will be turned over to the public. An extra force of janitors has been appointed for the time to look after the wants of those who have been unable to secure lodgings in the city. There will be no charge for any of this service. The board of governors of the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben have also decided to open the castle free of charge for the accommodaton of those who are unable to find lodgings. There will be no beds or bunks, there, but the people who desire to take shelter there will be welcome. Policemen have been instructed to guide strangers to the castle, which is the old Coliseum building on North Twentieth street.

It is just a calendar year. 365 days since we moved from our old location on Douglas street, bringing with us everything that contributed to our success; including the planks and foundations on which we built our business. Every day-every hour since then we have studied your interests. We have aimed to add to the good opinion you had of us and to preserve inviolate the principles which have caused us to grow and you to help us grow. These principles we have not for a moment lost sight of. Opportunities have come to us as they do to every store to make a few extra dollars at your expense by buying goods of doubtful quality, goods that are made to sell only, but we have steadily refused to profit by them and we have rigidly adhered to our maxim of money's worth, money's worth, money's worth. Today we celebrate the first day of our second year in this new building by opening to our friends two magnificent examples of what The Nebraska means by money's worth. The first is our offering of men's heavy winterweight overcoats made from genuine Kersey warranted ninety percent wool made up with silesia body linings, iron cloth sleeve linings, canvas stayed fronts and reinforced back and shoulder, at five dollars each, and the second is an offering of men's solid all wool cheviot suits, made for service, made for wear; made specially for The Nebraska, with not a cheat nor a thread of cotton in them and the price-seven dollars. Now listen. Nine hundred and ninety nine stores out of every thousand sell overcoats like these at 7.50 and call them all wool. Nine hundred and ninety nine stores out of every thousand that sell suits like this get ten dollars for them. Not less than ten dollars.
