

MAKING MORE LOW RATES

Railroads Announce the Fare for the Next Three Big Events.

NEBRASKA DAY GETS A BIG BENEFIT

Odd Fellows, United Workmen and Germans Favored by the Tariff and Then the State Day Drops in for its share.

Well satisfied with the enormous attendance of visitors to the exposition during the Peace Jubilee the railroads entering the city have just agreed on a low line of rates for the first three week days of next week.

For these three days the railroads have made lower rates than for the Peace Jubilee, and conservative judges of passenger traffic expect that the total attendance of the three days will equal the total attendance of any three days of the present week.

For October 17 and 18 the round trip rate to Omaha from all points within 200 miles of this city and return will be 80 per cent of the regular one-way rate.

The rate for Nebraska day, October 19, will be 80 per cent of the regular one-way fare for the round trip to Omaha from all stations in Nebraska within 100 miles of Omaha.

From all other stations in Nebraska the round trip to Omaha will be at the rate of 1 cent per mile in each direction. The maximum limit on the Nebraska day tickets will be $5.00.

Midland to Use the Tunnel. DENVER, Oct. 14.—An agreement has been reached between the Colorado Midland Railway company and the owners of the Buck-Vanhook tunnel under Hagerman pass by which the line over the pass will again be abandoned and the road save thirteen miles and thirty-five minutes' time, not to mention a heavy expense for helper engines and additional crews.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—The annual report of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1898, has been issued. The results of operation for the year were compared with the previous one, and the following is the result:

Conductor Homeless Dies. The second death resulting from the wreck between a passenger train of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha road and a freight train of the Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley, in the yards of the Northwestern line, in the city last Saturday morning, occurred this morning at St. Joseph's hospital.

Hill and Morgan Controversy. NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The Press says: It is said on the authority of an officer of the Northern Pacific railway that the fight between the J. D. Morgan and the J. Hill factions has been settled as far as the payment of a dividend on the common stock of that railroad is concerned.

Only Railroad to Chicago With a Daylight Train. Leave Omaha 6:40 a. m. every day, arriving Chicago the same evening at 8:15, when close connections are made with all lines beyond.

Try our new St. Louis Train The "Exposition Flyer." It leaves the new Burlington depot at 4:30 p. m. and arrives at St. Louis at 7:30 the next morning.

Established only three months ago, it has already earned for itself the reputation of being the train between Omaha and the southwestern metropolises.

have passed between the two factions. The recent election of directors of that company indicates that that question, too, will be settled amicably.

To Investigate Rate Cutting.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Upon statements made by Chairman Campbell of the Southern railway association composed of railroads extending from St. Louis, Kansas City and other points to Texas, and of water and rail lines from eastern seaports to Texas, the Interstate Commerce commission has by an order entered October 11, instituted a formal investigation of alleged violations of the interstate commerce act claimed to result from secret rate cutting and unjust discriminations.

Railroad Notes. Terrance Smith, the foreman of the Union Pacific who was hurt by the bursting of an engine flue at Emery, Utah, last Sunday, died on Thursday at the company hospital in Ogden.

John E. Miller, general agent of the Erie Dispatch at New York City, will arrive in the city Saturday morning to spend several days at the exposition, the guest of Agent Potter of the same company in this city.

President Carr and General Attorney Nichols of the Oregon Short Line are in the city spending a few days at the exposition. They are enroute to Boston from Salt Lake City, where they attended the recent annual meeting of the company.

Pirate Barbers Break Out Again.

Another rural visitor was made the victim of the pirate barbers yesterday. His name is H. C. Toy and he hails from some obscure Kansas town. For a shave, hair cut and shampoo he was charged $1.30. When he refused to pay the price demanded it was taken from him by force.

You invite disappointment when you experiment. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are pleasant, easy to swallow, and they cure constipation and sick headache just as sure as you take them.

Bigger and better bargains than ever at the big store of Hayden Bros.

A Carpet Opportunity. Over 5,000 yards of new carpets and matting were laid at the Coliseum for the Knights of the Alibi ball—used only the one evening—not damaged—yet we can't put them in the stock—so we have priced them away below what you could buy second-hand carpets—you can scarcely afford to let this chance pass by—you could better afford to lay them aside until next spring's house cleaning—we pack them for shipping in the city.

25c matting will be sold at 14c. 50c carpets will be sold at 35c. 75c carpets will be sold at 48c.

MANY SHAKE SHAFER'S HAND

Fighting Man from Santiago Gets a Hearty Welcome in Omaha.

GENERAL CORDIALLY GREETED CITIZENS

Impromptu Levee at the Hotel Before Starting for Exposition Grounds Shows How Popular He Is and How Approachable.

General William R. Shafter, the popular hero of Santiago, was welcomed to Omaha by quite a crowd at the Burlington station yesterday as he stepped off the train from Chicago. There was not such a jam of people as there was at the same station twenty-four hours before, when President McKinley left the city, but still the visiting general knew from the number assembled that he was cordially welcomed.

The soldier who was in charge of the American land forces in the Santiago campaign did not appear so immense as the pen pictures from Cuba had painted him. Several of the spectators commented on this fact. He did not show any apparent signs of his recent illness, his eyes were bright and a most genial countenance appeared under a thick head of beautiful iron-gray hair.

The general was attired in the fatigues uniform of a regular army officer, accompanied by these members of his personal staff: Major R. H. Noble, Captain S. M. Brice, Lieutenant W. A. Phillips and Dr. George Goodfellow, all of the United States army.

General Shafter and his staff were met at the station by President Wattles of the exposition directory and General Manager Clark of the exposition. The party drove directly to the Paxton hotel, where a number of rooms on the second floor, overlooking the exposition grounds, had been reserved for the distinguished visitor and his staff.

They went to breakfast at 9 o'clock, and as they sat in the dining room, the corridor of the Paxton quickly became crowded with representative citizens and strangers, anxious to catch a glimpse of the famous fighter, and to shake him by the hand, if possible.

Holds an Impromptu Levee.

It was quite possible, for when General Shafter came out of the dining-room, some time before 10 o'clock, he very graciously received all who came up to greet him, shaking hands with all and chatting with those who had something more than "Good morning" to say. One old man, plainly from a rural district, said: "I'm sorry, General Shafter, I just wanted to shake you by the hand. I knowed you by your pictures."

"Thank you," replied the general. "You did very well to remember me from the awful looking pictures some of the papers have printed. Some of those papers, you know, the worst things that came out of Cuba."

Then he turned to pleasantly greet a young woman who was so glad to see him that she almost gushed. This nettled the general, and he quickly said "Good morning" to her in order to shake her off as a veteran of the war of the rebellion, who had put on his Grand Army uniform in honor of the occasion. Then there were a number of the business and professional men of the city who stopped to shake hands with General Shafter and tell him of a veteran of the honor he had conferred on Omaha by his visit. "How long will you be with us, general?" inquired one of them.

"We shall be here until tomorrow evening, and I want to put in as much of the time as possible in seeing you. I think I'll stay in a great show. Is it a street fair?"

This query rather dazed the oldest inhabitants, who looked aghast while waiting for their breath to return. Finally one of them got up and said: "It's a street fair, yes, my dear. It covers over 100 acres on a handsome tract of ground, like the World's fair, you know."

"Oh, yes, of course," responded General Shafter, who plainly had not been posted by his captives of his own country. "Oh, my dear, it covers over 100 acres on a handsome tract of ground, like the World's fair, you know."

General Nelson A. Miles called on Major General Sumner, commanding the Department of the Missouri, U. S. A., at army headquarters in the Bee building yesterday shortly before noon. It was an official call, but even so the general was very interested in his coming, and the elevator boys were giving tips about the expected arrival a quarter of an hour before the handsome form of the senior major general of the army was seen coming toward the doorway. There was no demonstration, though the distinguished visitor was gazed upon by an admiring throng.

The call at army headquarters was brief, not lasting over ten minutes. General Miles was cordially welcomed by General Sumner and escorted to the latter's office, where the two generals talked of the war and the exposition for several minutes. Then General Miles walked through the corridors of the army floor and looked through some of the army offices. He left just as the whistles were blowing the noon hour and was driven to meet General Shafter.

At 2 p. m. yesterday General Miles and General Sumner, accompanied by several other officers and their staff officers, left Webster street station for Fort Crook, the post of the Twenty-second regiment of the regular infantry. A special train of the Missouri Pacific carried the party to the post to spend the afternoon.

After inspecting the post of the Twenty-second infantry at Fort Crook General Miles, under the guidance of General Sumner, returned to the city at 5:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon. As soon as the special train of the Missouri Pacific bearing the party arrived at the Webster street station one of the cars was switched to another track for General Miles and attached to the night express of the Northwestern system for St. Paul. General Miles left for the latter city at 6 p. m. and will arrive there this morning. Before leaving he expressed himself as well pleased with the results of his inspection of Fort Crook.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup has been sold for over fifty years and is the most popular medicine for throat and lung trouble.

The Grand court of the Exposition is wonderfully beautiful at night. No picture of it is so good as The Bee photographure. Stop at The Bee office for one and some others 10c for ten cents.

MYSTERY OF A CARRIAGE RIDE

Police Have a Story to Investigate Which Involves Much of Possible Interest.

The police are investigating a mysterious shooting that occurred in a closed carriage that passed Eleventh and Dodge streets at an early hour yesterday morning.

The only information the police have of the affair was given them by a stranger, who says he is Richard Goldie of Fender, Neb. Goldie says he was passing south on Eleventh street about 2:30, when his attention was attracted to a carriage being driven rapidly east on Dodge street. As the vehicle rattled over the Eleventh street crossing, he said one of the windows was thrown open and a woman leaned half way out and screamed. Her hair was disheveled. She appeared to be in distress. After uttering her piercing scream, Goldie said the woman drew in her head suddenly, so suddenly, in fact, that he made up his mind that she was violently assisted in doing so by someone inside. The disappearance of the woman from the window was followed by a pistol shot and the cry of "Oh, my God, I'm shot" in a woman's voice.

The shot urged the driver of the vehicle to lash his horses into a run. The carriage disappeared below Tenth street. Goldie reported the occurrence to the police and several detectives were detailed to investigate.

Underwear.

A Great Snap.

We would like you to bear in mind that every bit of underwear we sell is made for us, for us only and made so that we know it will give good service and so that we can warrant it to you. We are one of the few retail houses in the country that buy from the mills only, and we never buy rejected invoices or auction-culled or job lots or goods that are deceptive or imperfect in any way. Our prices are 35c, 45c, 50c, 65c, 75c, $1, $1.25 and $1.50 a garment and at each price we show a variety of textures and guarantee the quality to be better than you can buy anywhere else for the price. Today we call attention to a grand line of men's three-thread chain woven shirts and drawers, fleece lined which are just opened and they are the biggest values we have ever offered at this time of the year. They come in two shades of random mixtures with blue and brown figures, with jersey neckbands on the shirts and improved patent gusset in the drawers, and if we were to take the price tags off and ask you the value of them, ninety-five men out of every hundred would say from 65c to 75 cents. That would be the ordinary price on them if we hadn't bought them in immense quantities; but as it is we can afford to sell them at the extraordinary price of 45 cents a garment, ninety cents for shirt and drawers.
