

READY TO JUDGE EXHIBITS

Jury of Awards for the Exposition Has Organized for Work.

STARTS ON THE GROUNDS THIS MORNING

Members Hold a Preliminary Meeting and Attend to Some Minor Matters
—Nature of the Rules Governing the Awards.

A preliminary meeting was held in the rooms of the Commercial club last evening by the jury of awards of the exposition. Manager E. E. Bruce of the Department of Exhibits presiding in the absence of the chairman of the awards committee, J. M. Woolworth. Of the eighty jurors nearly half were present. The superintendents of the different departments were also on hand to offer their suggestions as to the facilitation of the work of judging. It was decided to commence judging at once and the jury will, therefore, get together at 9 o'clock this morning at the Department of Exhibits on the grounds and proceed to examine the different exhibits. The expectation is that the work will be finished by Wednesday at the utmost.

The personnel of the jury is a picked one. David T. Day of the United States geological survey at Washington, who is the superintendent of the Mineral department, says it is the best one he has seen so far and he was largely instrumental in selecting the Nashville jury. Superintendent H. B. Hardt of the Department of Exhibits prepared the present list from his wide knowledge of men fitted for this purpose and also formulated a set of rules to govern the jury. Every transmssissippi state is represented, he says, and the list includes a number of ex-governors and men of national reputation. Such men as ex-Governor Furnas of this state are on it and Major H. C. Ward and F. W. Clarke of the government board.

In general the jury will go about its labor in groups of three, though there are some anomalies which require experts to be determined on minor cases in his particular line. The recommendations of the three will be made to the general committee on awards as fast as arrived at. One of the jurors in each section has been picked by the exhibitors, the second by the committee on awards and the third by the two acting in conjunction with the committee. Within the last few days they have all been notified and with but few exceptions they are all here.

Rules for the Jury.

According to the rules the jurors will be reimbursed for their traveling expenses and their hotel bills while here but otherwise their apportionment is purely honorary. Manager Bruce says it was surprising how few qualified to serve.

No exhibitor will be allowed to compete for awards which have not been placed on exhibition by June 1 unless the exhibitor is able to prove that there were good reasons for its delay. From this rule, however, perishable articles were exempted.

LITTLE HORN MAKES A MISTAKE.

Wichita Indian Actuallly Gets Hurt During the Sham Battle.

The next time that Little Horn, a Wichita Indian, goes into a sham battle and exhausts his supply of ammunition and then falls down and plays the part of a defeated warrior, he will select a place on the field of carnage where the horses will not run over him and the riders charge back and forth. Yesterday in the sham fight for the amusement and entertainment of General Shafter Little Horn made the mistake of his life by dropping over on the ground just at a point where a dozen horses stepped on him before he could get out of the way. As a result of this display of poor judgment upon the part of Little Horn he is in the Emergency hospital, cut and bruised in a dozen places.

At yesterday's battle General Shafter and a number of other army officers occupied front seats in the reviewing stand and with a great deal of interest witnessed the fight between the Sioux and their allies and the Blackfeet and their allies. As has frequently happened before the Sioux were commanded by Goes-to-War and the destinies of the Blackfeet and the men who had cast their lot with them were looked after by Big Brave. It was the same old story. General Shafter has seen all kinds of fighting, but the battle of yesterday was something new. After the last shot had been fired, Captain Mercer lined all of his Indians up behind and the male and female, in front of the reviewing stand. There they gave three rousing cheers for the general, who climbed down from the reserved seat section to be the principal in holding the reception. Garibaldi was the first to be introduced and he received a hearty shake of the hand. Then came American Horse, Big Brave, Natches, Crow Dog, White Swan and scores of other big men. By this time the general discovered that one hand was not enough and commenced to use the other, bringing both into action. This continued until he had greeted every Indian in the camp and spoken kind words to all.

The recommendations of the jury are to be sealed up in an envelope by the superintendent to be passed upon finally by the awards committee.

W. R. C. HOLDS ITS RECEPTION.

Enthusiastic Gathering of Women and Their Friends.

At the Nebraska building the women of the Women's Relief Corps held a celebration at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The exercises were held in the main rotunda of the building, and were heard by an audience of complimentary proportions, in which old soldiers and their families were in a majority. A number of excellent addresses were mingled with enjoyable vocal selections by Lee G. Kratz and Miss Frances Roeder.

Major Frank E. Moores welcomed the organization to Omaha in a brief address, in which he spoke earnestly of the invaluable services that they had performed for their country both in the '60s and during the more recent war. He presented them with the golden key to the city and assured them that no body that had visited the city would be without a hearty welcome.

Mrs. Abby A. Adams of Superior, department president for Nebraska, added a very graceful greeting in behalf of the department, and these sentiments were recognized in an appropriate manner by Mrs. Rosalie B. Condon.

The principal address was by Mrs. Elo Jameson Miller, national president of the organization, who spoke with much feeling and not a little eloquence. President Miller said that on the preceding day while the achievements of the army and navy were being extolled, she had waited in vain to hear one of the orators say a word in behalf of the women. It was left to the Cuban, Senor Quesada, to pay a well deserved tribute to what had been done by American womanhood in this decisive struggle. She added that she did not wish to detract from the honors that had been won by the American soldiers and sailors, but she did wish to emphasize the heroic sacrifices and services of American women.

The speaker then referred briefly to the history of warfare in this country and

A Woman's Words

Afflicted with Many Diseases—Weak Stomach, Heart Trouble—Life was Misery until Hood's Sarsaparilla Cured.

"About two years ago I was in a serious condition. I could not eat or sleep. My stomach was very weak and I had heart disease so bad that I could not lie down. I was also afflicted with female complaints and my life was misery to me. I could not do housework and was reduced to a mere skeleton. One day I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla and I began to feel better from the first few doses. I could soon sleep well at night. This medicine has done me so much good that I value it very highly and recommend it to my friends as a medicine that does all it claims to do." Mrs. JENNIE M. DEPNTY, Arnold, Nebraska.

If you have decided to take Hood's Sarsaparilla do not buy any other instead.

Shame on Traders.

It is a sad commentary that these brave officers and soldiers are returning to their own land with more honors accredited by the world than the army of any other nation only to find the poisoned shafts of partisan traders. The glory won by them has been marred by the greed of men who have in the nations of the earth to have its brilliancy and lustre bedimmed by those who would use the horrors of war for such ends.

The president of this nation is commander-in-chief of the military and naval forces and the army and navy are directed by him, and his constant and ceaseless watch for the honor of our nation and the welfare, comfort and protection of our brothers who are serving in the ranks from the early hours of morn into the beginning of another day. His close contact and relation with the departments of government have been such that his fund of information and knowledge of details is marvelous and phenomenal. His sorrow for the dead, and the pride of the sons of these brave and courageous defenders of the rights of mankind, is that of a father.

To the secretary of war, to the secretary of the navy, to the major general commanding the army, the hero of Porto Rico, the hero of the Philippines, the hero of Manila, Merritt, to the gallant officers of the army and the navy and their intrepid men, belongs the honor and glory of the brilliant victory in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines, unprecedented in all the world's history. Our nation will ever sing songs of praise for our valor and the sons of these sons of America. The bravery and courageousness of our officers and men astounded the world.

We have among our fallen heroes of the navy Paul Jones, a Perry, a Farragut and a Farragut and a Sampson and a living hero, Dewey, Sampson and Schley.

Whenever the nation has wanted a man for the hour, it has risen in its wisdom and found him. When the country called for such men the people responded with Washington, Lincoln, Grant, Garfield, this rugged fighter for the rights of the negro, who called for all to direct the nation, and seventy millions of people the masterful one was selected. It was his hand that guided us to victory, it was he who placed the nation among the first powers of the earth, the commander-in-chief of the army and navy, the president of the United States, McKinley.

Chinese Minister's Address.

Wu Ting Feng, the Chinese minister, was given a reception no less cordial, and his happy allusion to the fact that while the speakers who had preceded him were not worthy, he himself was fit for the post, is a fitting reply to those who say that he is unworthy.

He is a man of great ability and knowledge, and his speech was well received.

The general classification is to follow the official catalogue, but jurors may subdivide classes and recommend awards in each of the subdivisions. Collective exhibits are to be judged as single exhibits, though upon due notice to the awards committee they may be divided and the parts judged separately. If divided they will not be eligible as collective exhibits. Statements may be filed with the jurors by the exhibitors setting forth the particular merits of their respective exhibits.

There is also a provision in the rules for appeals. The method of appeal for any exhibitor so desiring to lodge his complaint with the awards committee, within forty-eight hours after the publication of the award at the head office of the committee, to the Manufacturers' building gallery, each appeal, however, to be accompanied by $10 to go toward a special fund for the remuneration of experts called in to give evidence.

The recommendations of the jury are to be sealed up in an envelope by the superintendent to be passed upon finally by the awards committee.

W. R. C. MAKES A MERRY EVENING IN GETTING ACQUAINTED WITH ITS STATE OFFICERS.

From Korea and Cuba.

The Korean minister was most introduced, but as he is unfamiliar with the English language he simply arose and bowed to the audience. Hon. Gonzalo de Quesada, the Cuban charge d'affaires, followed and spoke in part as follows:

"From Korea and Cuba.

Last night in the council chamber of the city hall the Woman's Relief corps held a reception for the newly elected department officials of their order. It had been planned to have this reception in the rooms of the Commercial Club, but owing to a misunderstanding between the bureau and the council chamber was chosen as being the next most suitable place. The change necessitated many little inconveniences in the way of accommodations and may have caused a smaller attendance, but it in no wise dampened the ardor of any of the women present or lessened one whit the pleasure of the evening.

The reception was held to allow members of the Relief corps an opportunity to formally meet the recently elected state officials. Invitations had been extended to the Grand Army of the Republic and at the hour appointed for beginning there was a good sized assembly of people present to participate in the social pleasures of the occasion.

While the orchestra played Rosey's Hand march the women who are officers of the department or members of the reception committee filed into the chamber arm in arm and took a position just within the railing, where there is ample room to move about. They were led by Mrs. James Tracy and Mrs. Ingersoll, who were the delegation from the Commercial Club, and the women participated quite freely in the voting, and Black's victory was in some measure due to the activity of his supporters in bringing out the feminine vote.

There were three candidates in the Ninth and Arthur M. Cowie was the winner, receiving 138 votes, 31 for E. G. McGillicuddy and 13 for O. P. Schrum. Of the 243 votes cast, the women supplied twenty-two, twelve of whom were colored.

The following is the list of delegates elected to represent the city in the convention tonight:

First Ward—John Rosicky, S. W. Scott, William Hutton, William Cathro, George Armstrong, W. E. Wilson, Dr. W. H. Larcher, Frank French, Henry Indiana.

Second Ward—George Anthes, H. Boiles, H. J. Bancker, George Cott, A. C. Harte, George Reed, Frank Franck, William Nichols.

Third Ward—Nate Brown, Robert Clayton, Jacob H. B. West, Charles C. Black, John Hendon, John Hendon, John W. Lewis, Charles Morrison, Fred Shafer.

Fourth Ward—John W. Battin, Charles H. Bryant, R. S. Connell, William F. Godsoe, Frank Heimbough, John Kuhn, Edgar H. Scott, A. B. Whitehead.

Fifth Ward—John C. Abbott, J. S. Clegg, C. G. Daniels, Randall K. Brown, G. Northwell, Gus Pinkerton, Thomas Stewart, Robert Smith, Louis Pixley.

Sixth Ward—B. S. Anderson, J. S. Cooter, William Burrell, Nils Larson, Steva Daniels, E. Evans, T. R. Rieke, William Stevens.

Seventh Ward—C. W. Haller, J. W. Russell, John Coastworth, D. Cox, Edmund Bartlett, M. J. Kennard, John Steel, C. L. Chaffee, Andrew Stednah.

LOCAL BREVIETIES.

Mrs. Herbert De Foye Brouard and Mr. Archie Coon will sing at Prof. J. E. Butler's organ recital Sunday afternoon at 4:20 at the Auditorium, Central Avenue and 16th Street.

The trouble with the "Venezian Gondolas" merry-go-round and its neighboring attractions on the East Midway over the continuous playing of its organ has been compromised without further litigation. The proprietors of the merry-go-round have promised to so arrange the playing of the instrument that it will not interfere with the other concessions.

Prof. Willis Moore, head of the Weather Bureau, experienced a small cyclone yesterday morning in his room in the Millard hotel. The way Mr. Moore tells about it is this:

"About 8 o'clock in the morning I heard somebody moving around in the room. I was awake, though I had my eyes shut and I distinctly felt the intruder going through my clothes. I thought it was my wife and kept my eyes shut all the tighter for fear she might make me get up if she thought I was awake. When I finally did get up to dress I discovered that the thief had gotten away with all the cash in my possession, amounting to $68. Strange to say it was the second visitation, the same cyclone having come to the tune of some $45 the day before."

Prof. Moore managed to raise the wind, however, in time to get on his feet again to catch the train last night that took him back to Washington.

Lizzie Kastner Held.

Lizzie Kastner, who was charged with present Omaha's city attorney, writes:

"To Whom This Comes: Greeting: I take pleasure in recommending the virtues of the remedies prepared by the Dr. B. J. Kay Medical Co. Having known of some remarkable cures made by people using the use of Dr. Kay's Remedy and Dr. Kay's Lung Balm, I believe that these great remedies are worthy of the confidence of the public." Thousands of the most prominent people in America know that the above are facts, and no remedies have effected such cures as those made for our large illustrated book. It has great value, amounting to $68. Strange to say it was the second visitation, the same cyclone having come to the tune of some $45 the day before."

Prof. Moore managed to raise the wind, however, in time to get on his feet again to catch the train last night that took him back to Washington.

HITCH AT THE LIVE STOCK SHOW.

Exhibitors Decline for Some Reason to Go Ahead with Competition.

Owing to a misunderstanding between some of the exhibitors and the management the ring showing of the live stock was discontinued yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The next exhibit was to have been sweepstakes by ages, beef breeds. The entries included several fine specimens of Shorthorns, Herefords, Galloways and Guernseys.

The trouble arose over the selection of judges. These were three in number, two whom were to decide on the premiums if any competition should be reached between them and the third who was to referee in case of disagreement. As the competition for premiums in this exhibit was expected to be close, those interested were very solicitous that no shadow of prejudice should exist in the minds of those delegated to do the judging. Some of them believed that the judges selected might be inclined to be partial and biased to show their animals. Consequently Commissioner Dinsmore decided to postpone the showing until this morning, when he hopes that all differences will be adjusted.

Besides the competition for the sweepstakes by ages the program for today includes rings of Merino sheep, Essex swine and Victoria. Awards were made yesterday in Hampshire sheep, jacks, mules and small Yorkshire swine.

Music Last Night and Today.

Indie's third symphony concert last night was attended by an audience which packed the big Auditorium and when the polls were closed 475 votes had been counted, the highest number ever cast in a Board of Education primary in the history of the city. Of this number seven-nine were cast by women. The straight Jordan ticket was elected by a majority that hovered about the 150 mark, the highest number cast for an anti-Jordan delegate being 159, and the lowest for the Jordan delegation 306. The fight was a strictly party affair, for a total of 419 straight tickets were cast, Jordan getting 237 of them. Despite the warmth of the contest there was no trouble about the polls.

R. C. Jordan carried the First ward 2 to 1 and more over the
