of letters and documents from the Philippines, but none of them have been made public and the governor carried them all two rival petitions reached him and that he has no particular anxiety to make public the one favoring the appointment of Ligutenant Colonel Colton.

The first cable message bringing the news of the resignation of Bratt also contained the recommendation for the appointment of Stotsenberg to the place. This occasioned much surprise, as Colton was the ranking officer and without question entitled to the place. It was generally believed at the time that there was some trick being played and that if the truth could be known there would be no question as to the right of Colton to receive the appointment. A number of petitions came from Omaha and elsewhere protesting against the premotion of Stotsenberg and upholding the claims of Colton as an old member of the National Guard, a good soldier and a citizen of the state. Protests and petitions were of no avail, as the governor made haste to appoint Stotsenberg and cabled the news to Man la at the expense of the state, so that the circulation of petitions might be shut off both here and among the soldiers at the Philippines. The arrival through the mails of a petition from Manila in favor of Colton will prove that the boostine up of Stotsenberg was by no means popular in the regiment and will show to be true what everyone has believed, that the Nebraska boys are loyal to their own officers and do not believe that a citizen of their own state should be "jumped" in order that an officer from the regular army could be placed in command.

great deal of trouble in the Nebrasta regigreat deal of trouble in the Nebraska rogi-ments from the very first. Before war was rate. Yesterday morning about 5 o'clock declared, but at the time when it was expected to come soon, the War department notified Lieutenant Stotsenberg that he would soon be ordered to join his regiment. The regular army officer, who was detailed here as commandant of the university battalion, did not want to join his regiment, even when there was prospect of active service against the enemies of his country. He wrote the War department begging that the order be not issued. He said that if he were allowed to remain here at Lincoln there was a prospect that he would be promoted as an officer of the volunteer troops of this state. In fact he intimated that a promise for such promotion had been made, to take effect as soon as the Nebraska troops were called out. The department answered him that the fact that he was in the field with his own regiment would be no hindrance to his promotion with the volunteers. There is no question that such a correspondence was carried on, as the letters sent by the War department were seen by parties here at that time. The performance of the governor and those under him in rejecting the trained officers of the national guard to make room for political favorites is fresh in the public mind, and the suspicion that Stotsenberg was the medium through whom these rejections were made has been prevalent. That he did receive a promotion over the heads of men who were old in the guard and who were besides citizens of the state is a matter of record and has never been explained. Just what was the nature of the obligation that bound Governor Holcomb to this regular army officer has remained a mystery.

He Helped Himself. It is certain, and can be proven by half letter that in his capacity as mustering officer he could accept the old officers of the national guard, in spite of their alleged physical disabilities, in the same manner as has continued to fall at intervals up to the officers had been accepted in other states and it is just as certain that he pocketed the letter and telegram and allowed the injustice to be done to the officers, in order that he himself might get a promotion and the nature of a blizzard. The wind blew a of the governor might get good places. The Manila incident, the hasty appointment of Stotsenberg as colonel when, by his right as a ranking officer, as a Nebraskan and as a good soldier, Lieutenant Colonel Colton should have been given the place, adds another chapter to the Stotsenberg mystery. The correspondence just received from Manila may throw some light on the matter. If the governor sees fit to make it public. There is certainly a strong demand ! among the old members of the national gram.)-The big political demonstration guard and among the relatives of the soldiers in the field that a full explanation is given and that there shall be no further political manipulation of the affairs of the Nebraska National Guard.

DR. JAMES O. H. P. HENDERSON. Although 78 Years Old and Partially Paralyzed. Dr. Henderson is Restored to Complete Health
by Dr. Dix Tonic Tablets.

George W. Yarbrough, one of the leading men of the Methodist church and pressiding elder of the district in which Emory college, Oxford, Ga., is located, writes entertainingly of old Dr. Henderson in a recent article in the Wesseyan Carlson Average He recalls the olden days in the early fiftes when Dr. Henderson discovered the ghost in Professor Smith's pantry. The doctor in a letter to Hayes & Coon, proprietors of Dr. Dix Tonic Tablets, says:
