WHO BOSSES THE BUILDING

One Burning Question in Connection with Uncle Sam's Headquarters.

SEVERAL PEOPLE ASSERT THEIR POWER

Nice Little Conflict of Authority Involving Three High Officials and Two Roller Top Desks at the New Postoffice.

Questions of authority caused no small degree of stiffness and coldness at the new postoffice building this week. The right of prestige around the building has become almost as delicate a matter as that which continually threatens the peace of official society at Washington. The conflict came over the moving of a roller-top desk, and it has furnished a whole lot of amusement to the employees of the building, outside of those directly interested in the dispute.

Some time ago the revenue department stationed a special revenue agent in this city. This was a new innovation for Omaha, and was hailed with delight by all patriotic citizens as a proper recognition of the worth and standing of the city. Previous to that time Omaha had been humiliated by being placed under the jurisdiction of the agent stationed at St. Paul. George H. Wheelock of Des Moines was sent here to take the new position, and his work became so heavy that it was not long until he had five assistants working with him. This made it an important office.

But when Mr. Wheelock came to Omaha there were no quarters which he could convert into an office, and the custodian of the new building was authorized to provide a room and furniture for the new official. A room was assigned to him on the main floor, facing Sixteenth street, which was also occupied by the superintendent of the building. Two desks were placed therein for the accommodation of Mr. Wheelock and his assistants. At this time Postmaster Martin was custodian of the building.

Recently Mr. Martin was deposed from that position and Colonel Champion S. Chase was appointed. Shortly after this change was made Mr. Martin had one of the desks assigned to the revenue agent removed and transferred to the postoffice work room. As this did not occasion any great inconvenience nothing was said about it, but a couple of days ago, acting under the orders of the postmaster, the assistant custodian of the building, Louis Boehm, removed the remaining desk and put it in the postoffice work room.

Latenser Enters the Game.

Now among those who have some authority about the new building John Latenser is no silent partner. He is superintendent of the structure, and as such official has some rights which even the custodian cannot abrogate. It isn't far from his office to that occupied by the postmaster, but as the latter is in his office only a few hours a day, and is therefore hard to find, Mr. Latenser wrote a letter making inquiries as to what authority Mr. Martin had for removing the desks, and requesting that one of them be returned. The letter was rigid in its formality.

Mr. Martin replied in his characteristic English, also using the mails, asking Mr. Latenser when he got into the game and making other remarks about some people crossing the line which defines their own duties.

Mr. Latenser would not be bluffed out, and again used the mails and a 2-cent stamp. He dropped formality in this communication, and told the postmaster that "sticks and stones may wound our bones, but words can never hurt us." He then reminded the postmaster that the roller-top desks belonged to the old postoffice building, and had been removed by the postmaster without orders from Washington, contrary to the rules of the department, and was still scheduled as among the effects left in the old building. He reminded Mr. Martin that the desk occupied the new building unlawfully, and that it was to be moved anywhere it should be taken back where it belonged, and where the government officials supposed it was. He also asked by what right the postmaster gave orders to the assistant custodian, when Mr. Martin had ceased to be custodian some three weeks ago.

This was the last communication to pass between them, so far as the record shows, but the issue has not stopped there. It is promised that the whole transaction will be known in Washington before another Sunday, when instructions are expected which will define the powers of the various officials about the building. In the meantime Mr. Wheelock is using the desk of Mr. Latenser, and the latter is doing his correspondence on the face of a draughting board.

Yesterday afternoon Colonel Champion S. Chase, as custodian of the government building in Omaha, received a telegram from the Treasury department requesting him to furnish the department with an explanation of why Mr. Wheelock was deprived of his office facilities so suddenly. The colonel didn't know anything about the case until he read the story in The Bee and in the time will start out to learn the particulars from the parties in interest. He hopes to have a comprehensive report of the situation prepared in time to forward to Washington some time within the coming week.

China's Emperor Has Bright's Disease

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—A dispatch to the Herald from Peking says: The emperor has been examined medically by the physician and French mission, and the diagnosis discloses the fact that he is suffering from chronic nephritis, better known as Bright's disease. Albumen has been discovered in marked degree. The emperor is very pale, his eyes are puffy, his feet slightly swollen and, although there seems to be no inorganic matter, it is manifest that the emperor is in a very critical state.

Civil Service Examinations.

There will be civil service examinations at the old postoffice building next week, for the departmental service. They will be held

EVERYBODY COMING TO OMAHA

Railroads Preparing to Haul in Some Immense Crowds.

LOW RATES FOR IOWA AND NEBRASKA

Concessions Cover Nearly a Thousand Miles East and West and Promise to Move an Unusual Number of People.

The indications all point to large crowds for Omaha during its last week of the exposition. Commencing on Sunday a remarkably low line of rates will be put into effect on all Omaha terminal lines, and most of the railroads have advertised the reduced rates for next week exceedingly well. Special train service has been arranged over every railroad entering the city, and the passenger men this morning declared that if the sun would just shine in the same bright way it appeared this morning, the attendance of the week would prove a record-breaker.

Rates as low as $1 from the extreme western edge of Nebraska and $5 from the eastern boundary of Iowa have been made for the round trip to Omaha during the week. At some points these rates are offered as early as Sunday, and at other places not until Monday or Tuesday. The tickets will be good for five days. Graded down from the rates named are proportionately low rates from all points in Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas and South Dakota.

City Ticket Agent Plummer of the Rock Island is in the city arranging for a big party next week from the Rock Island, Davenport and Moline. The mayors of the three cities had a meeting on Friday at Davenport, and it was agreed that the three municipal governments should be well represented at the exposition for the tri-city celebration. A special train will leave Davenport on Tuesday evening at 11:15 p. m., and will arrive here on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. It is thought that about 600 concessionists will take advantage of the low rate offered to join this party to the exposition.

The Iowa Central railroad has arranged a big party from Peoria, Ill., to spend a couple of the latter days of the exposition on the grounds. Although 500 of these latter-day saints are surely coming from Peoria, there is a little controversy among the railroads as to what rate they shall pay. The Iowa Central made a round trip of $5 from Peoria to Omaha, but when it commenced to figure with connecting lines to deliver the party in Omaha, these lines refused to accept a proportion of the $5 rate. The party was to have been turned over to the Northwestern at Marshalltown, Ia., but that line declined the proposition. The Rock Island was then offered the business, but on Saturday noon had not made up its mind to accept it. If the Iowa Central cannot get its party hauled into Omaha, it will probably raise the rate just enough to meet the wishes of the general passenger agents of the Iowa lines, although if a number of private schooners can be secured an overland trip from the middle of Iowa to Omaha might be a novel attraction to advertise.

Consolidating with French Lines.

TOPEKA, Oct. 22.—All the branch lines now included in the Santa Fe system are to lose their identity as separate corporations and be incorporated under the title of the Atchafalaya, Topeka & Santa Fe railway. Many of the lines will be formally sold to the present corporation, but those that are in such shape that a formal purchase cannot be made will be conveyed to the company by lease. This scheme will be officially ratified by the board of directors of the Santa Fe system at the annual meeting in this city on December 8, and the formal transfer of the property will be made immediately afterward. It will be an economical move, doing away with a large amount of accounting and statistical work which has been made necessary by the separate corporations. All the stock and bonds of the branch lines are held by the Santa Fe Railway company. The branch lines in all consolidated number about twenty in all.

TRANSMISSOURI PASSENGER MEN.

Formation of the Association is Now Almost an Accomplished Fact.

The movement to establish a passenger association of the transmissouri lines has advanced far enough for another meeting of the general passenger agents of the interested lines. This will be held in this city, convening on Thursday morning of next week. It will be attended by the general passenger agents of all lines west of the river, and probably a number of the representatives of the Iowa lines.

The principal business of the meeting will be to consider the form of agreement for the lines composing the proposed association. An agreement has been prepared by General Passenger Agent L. M. of the Union Pacific, Francis of the B. & M., and Buchanan of the Elkhorn road. These were appointed a committee several months ago to draft the agreement and have completed their task.

The organization of the new Transmissouri Passenger association has not been urged forward during the summer on account of the lax condition of all passenger agreements. Even the one that is supposed to hold all the lines in the Western Passenger association together has been inoperative during the summer. The unsettled condition of rates in the west is responsible for the delay between Chicago and St. Paul. The rates between Chicago and St. Paul have been in the worst condition, and the situation between Chicago and Kansas City has been notably bad. Except for the reduction made to Omaha on account of the exposition, rates here have been well maintained. It was deemed unwise, however, to try to make the association agreement effective until after November 1. At that time, it is predicted, all rates will be advanced to tariff through the way of clearing up the remnants of the rate war with the Canadian Pacific.

The formation of the transmissouri association will mark the end of the control of passenger matters in this part of the country from Chicago. Western passenger men have grown tired of going into Chicago, and the meetings of the new association will be held in turn in Omaha, Kansas City and Denver. The new association will work in harmony with the Western Passenger association, as two of the general passenger agents who have drawn up the new agreement are representatives of Chicago lines and will not do anything to jeopardize the interests of the Chicago institution.

REMOVED CONSOLIDATION SCHEME.

Short Line and Oregon Railway and SALT LAKE, Oct. 22.—It is stated here that the expected reorganization of the Union Pacific and Oregon Short Line and the Oregon Railway & Navigation companies will have the effect of consolidating the Short Line and Oregon Railway & Navigation companies into one system to be operated from Portland, Ore. Inquiry at the general office of the Short Line brought out the statement that this is what has been expected all along by the officials of the road. One who is well informed in the secrets of the Union Pacific said that the rumor was well founded and made the further statement that in less than one year the same combination would control the Central Pacific as well, and that the meeting in this city and the election of the Union Pacific officers on the Short Line board were only the beginning of the working out of a design that will be far-reaching in its effect.

Kansas Railroad Sold.

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Oct. 22.—The St. Louis, Kansas & Southern road was sold at auction here today by Master in Chancery Hiram P. Dillon, under a decree of the United States circuit court for the district of Kansas, to satisfy a claim of the Farmers Loan & Trust company of New York. The line is sixty miles long, running from Arkansas City to Anthony and was at one time part of the Frisco system. The sale includes rolling stock, telegraph lines, etc. The railroad and equipment were purchased for $150,000 by Samuel Baker of Hamilton, Ont., as representative of the creditors, who hold $500,000 of the company's bonds. The sale was subject to lease, which expires on June 30, 1899, and which is now held by Colonel F. S. Eaton, who is at present operating the road.

Railroad Notes.

A notice has been posted in the elevator at Union Pacific headquarters that no more than eight passengers will be allowed to ride in it at the same time. This is a restriction of the Union Pacific, which has been reached by Wyoming Division Agent Hobbs at Grand, Wyo., has given up his position to Grant Smith.

Conductor McKown of an extra stock train on the Union Pacific reports that a stock train was picking up a car of stock at Buda, Neb., on Friday an unknown man was struck and killed.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS MEET

Resolve to Grant the County Employees a Holiday on Omaha Day at the Exposition.

At the meeting of the county commissioners yesterday morning the board took positive action in favor of Omaha day at the exposition by adopting the following resolution, introduced by Mr. Kierstead:

Whereas, The Board of Directors of the Transmissouri Exposition has designated Monday, October 31, as Omaha day; and

Whereas, It is the wish of the Board of County Commissioners to assist all in its power to make the day the greatest in the point of attendance of any day during the exposition; therefore, be it

Resolved, That all employees of the county be given a holiday on that day, with the exception of leaving one man in each office to attend to such business as may be necessary.

The board allowed a bill for the work connected with covering up the lawn on the court house grounds to protect it from the crowds watching the Ak-Sar-Ben parades. The expense for erecting the stand in front of the court house was borne by the members of the board and the county officials, and was not taxed up to the county.

The board allowed the usual number of bills for county work, passed the regular appropriation sheets, and adjourned until next Saturday.

Holds the Body.

While the identity of the man who committed suicide at the Public Library building yesterday morning, has been established as John Reikard of New York City, Coroner Swanson has not been able to learn anything of his relatives or friends. He will keep the body twenty-four hours longer and if no claim is made for it he will bury it at the county's expense. Meanwhile he will telegraph the New York police and ask their aid in looking up the dead man's relatives in New York.

When Reikard came to Omaha Mr. Deming, the lodging house keeper who identified the body, said that he had a big telegraph satchel with him. What disposition he made of this satchel the coroner is trying to learn, as it may contain something that might put him on the track of the man's relatives.

AFTER THE FAIR IS OVER

Memories of the Exposition Will Be Only Vague Dreams.

WHY NOT REFRESH YOUR MEMORY

The Beautiful Buildings Have Been Reproduced by the Master Hands of a Famous Artist in Purple and Gold and Green and White.

The Bee Publishing company begs to announce the publication of a new view in color of the Transmissouri Exposition. These are reproductions in their own colors of the original paintings of John R. Key, the famous American artist, from the press of the Taber-Frank Art Company, Boston.

Mr. Key is well known as the painter of the Chicago World's Fair, and his paintings have been exhibited in a special gallery, the annex of the Illinois building, on the Transmissouri Exposition grounds, where thousands have viewed and admired them, and brought back pleasant memories of the Columbian Exposition. Mr. Key is distinctly an American artist, being a grandson of Francis Scott Key, the author of "The Star Spangled Banner." He has added new laurels to his name by his paintings of the Transmissouri Exposition.

The name of "Frame" of Boston is sufficient guaranty of the faithfulness of the artistic reproduction. These views are 14x19 inches and are handsomely bound in a portfolio cover, making the most beautiful collection of pictures of the exposition, which can be imagined.

We will be pleased to send you two series of six pictures each for $2.50 without mats, or $4.00 with mats; single series $1.25 without mats, or $2.00 with mats.

The subjects of the pictures are: First series—1. Government Building, 2. Arch of States, 3. Procession of All Nations—Fourth of July, 4. The Plaza—Marine Band, 5. Horticultural Exhibition Building, 6. Evening on the LaSalle. Second series—1. The LaSalle—Looking West from Colonnade, 2. View from West Door of Miner Building, 3. The Indian Encampment, 4. Entrance Agricultural Building.

With mats, suitable for framing, these are 25 cents per copy, or without mats at 20 cents per copy. If sets are sent out of town please remit 25 cents extra for expressage, or 10 cents extra for postage for single copies. As the edition is limited, it would be best to send your order at once to insure its being filled. The Bee Publishing Co., Omaha, Neb.

Description of a Dead Man.

A description of the unknown man supposed to be an Omahian, who died in the Paddock hospital at Tacoma on the 18th, was received by the police yesterday. The description is as follows: Age about 27; five feet eleven inches in height; weighed 150 pounds; of dark complexion and slender build. On a card found in one of his pockets was the name "William Knock." Although the clothes were by the dead man, word those of a laborer, the information says that the man's face and hands show him to have been a man above that station in life.

Snap shots 10 cents; cut price from 25 cents; 48 Exposition views, Saturday only.
