STATE LOSES OVER TWO THOUSAND BY IT

Very Low Bid on a Fine Tract Accepted by Uncle Jake on the Strength of a Letter from a Friend of Meserve.

LINCOLN, Oct. 25 .- (Special.) - One of the school land deals entered into by the "reform land commissioner" in Red Willow county resulted in a saving of over $2,000 for somebody, and a consequent loss to the state of the same amount, being manipulated in the same manner as has been done in several cases in Lancaster county. It could be sold. The appraisement was $7 per acre, and the land being very choice for that part of the state it was apparent to every one that the figures were too low. A protest was sent in and the attorney gen eral opened a correspondence with the county treasurer of Red Willow about the matter. This treasurer, who was the deputy when Meserve was treasurer of the county, at once wrote back that the land was not worth more than $7 per acre. The sale was made at that figure, although Pat-Welch, a man living near McCook, had made a standing offer of $15 per acre for one of the farms, and another gentleman was offering $13 per acre for the other piece. By this piece of jobbery the state lost exactly $2.240, and the favorites of Meserve were made richer. By this peculiar system of handling the lands many of the political office he held at the end of fifteen months | cost of school per pupil, about $10. and go into other business. These little speculations were tough on the men in York and other counties who lost their homes, but they furnished a good proof that "you! can't keep a reformer down.

from the secretary of state to the senate attendance. which shows that Porter did not propose to let any perquisites get away, and that he did not propose to allow any theoretical plans of economy interfere with his own been filed in the district court of this county office. On February 18, as recorded on the against the German Mutual Fire Insurance page mentioned, he sent the following com- company of Omaha by J. J. Bryant of munication to the senate:

To His Excellency, James E. Harris, cutenart Governor of Nebraska: Sir-For a great many years the senate has courteously leaned to the secretary of state a page during the session. This year there has none been given. If you can spare one the office of secretary of state would accept, as they have quite a little to do communicating with the upper floors of the state capitol and would like a page for the use of this office. I remain, very respectfully yours, W. F. PORTER Secretary of State.

The records show that the request was granted at once and the indications are that the senate could spare the page quite conveniently, as there were on hand eight pages and two messengers to wait on thirty-three senators. It is certain that after making this request, however, Secretary Porter did not "remain" very long. In a few days he went on a junker to Florida and other railroad points in the southern states, allowing his office force to do the "communicating with the upper floors." It is said on authority that the page loaned by the senate was utilized in going back and forth between the capitol building and Porter's residence more than he was in visiting the upper floors. The absence of Porter at that time is proof positive that his office was not crowded with work and the continual absence of some part of his office force since then is also proof that the work never has crowded. The page borrowed from the senate and the trip to Florida wille the legislature was in session both illustrate the motto of the Merrick county statesman, which is "Git Plenty While You're a-

Clerks Doing Campaign Work.

Speaking of the crowding of work in the state offices reminds one of the fact that for the last two months fully one-third of the entire office force of the capitol building has been out campaigning, and if the work is being kept up it is certain proof that there are too many employes holding jobs there. Some of the clerks have been out campaigning continually for a month, not having done a moment's work in the state house during that time, yet they all walked up yesterday and drew their pay for the entire month of October, Men Like W. B.
