Omaha Republicans Enthuse Over State and National Issues.

RALLY AT CREIGHTON HALL A SUCCESS in all his efforts.

State Ticket Candidates Warmly Received and a Senatorial Aspirant Eclipsed, Finally Disappearing as His Champion is Guyed.

It was a fairly good audience, and really an enthusiastic one, which gathered at Creighton hall last night, the occasion being a political meeting under the auspices of the Scandinavian-American Republican club. But the enthusiasm was confined to congressional and national matters. All references to President McKinley and the conduct of the war and to Congressman Mercer were greeted with rapturous applause. The legislative candidates were received in a perfunctory manner and with little patience if the candidate showed a disposition to occupy much time. Even their assurances that the whole ticket was going to be elected elicited little approbation in the shape of applause on the part of the audience.

There were two features of the meeting noticeable to every one and which furnished considerable amusement to the spectator. One was the complete eclipse of a would-be senator as a stellar attraction by a real live senator, and the other was the manner in which John L. Webster sneaked off the stage when his man Koutsky was making his talk and receiving the merciless guying of the people who were listening to him. At first the young man's efforts were amusing and Mr. Webster smiled with the rest, but they quickly passed to the ludicrous and when the audience began to josh the speaker Mr. Webster felt his presence was needed else-where and did not show himself on the stage again during the meeting. He was not called on for a speech and made none, all the interest in a senatorial line being expended upon Senator Thurston, who was not expected to be present.

After some music by the Swedish Military band, which also played at intervals during the meeting. Theodore Johnson, president of the club, called for order. Occupying seats on the stage at this time were six of the legislative candidates, Peter Mortensen of Ord, candidate for state treasurer; T. L. Matthews of Fremont, candidate for state auditor, and many local republican leaders. Later in the evening Senator Thurston and Congressman Mercer put in an appearance appeared.

Slabaugh on the Situation.

Judge Slabaugh, who led off, said he was born in the same year as the republican party and had remained with it ever since. Some of his friends, he said, had strayed away, but they generally returned, feeling that the republican party was the best for ment of the war and said those who threw mud at the officers who assisted in winning one of the greatest victories the world ever knew threw mud upon the national flag. Speaking of candidates he said he had it was sometimes necessary to vote for a man not personally satisfactory to the voter, but if we all had our choice nominated there would be as many candidates as there were voters. The fusionist, he said, had fooled the people two years ago and the voter should not permit himself to be victimized again. They claim now that they want to send Senator Allen back to the senate, but why, he asked, do the people up the hands of President McKinley in the legislation which will follow the treaty of peace. The worst thing we could do, he declared, was to send a free silver man to congress to bring back the artistic which will everybody wanted me to congress to bring back the agitation which caused so much distress in this country a few years ago.

Phi? Winter said there was but one thing to say, and that was the good old doctrine; and but one thing to do, and that was to vote the republican ticket. He then gave care for the office, and all I care for is to some time to explaining the new blanket ballot which will be voted this year and made some applications of the emblems which will designate the party tickets, saying the republican party is entitled to all honor for the stability of the silver dollar of silver republicans, for the liberty proclaimed by the bell of the prohibitionists, body's back up for it. When the strike in and for the cottage home of the populists. The remaining two emblems are the rooster and the eagle. The former he denominated should not go back to work until the things simply as a disturber of the peace of the by the eagle of the republican party.

State Candidates Presented.

Peter Mortensen of Ord, republican candidate for state treasurer, was introduced and was given a hearty reception. He made no speech, but expressed satisfaction at being able to appear before the club. T. L. Matthews of Fremont, candidate for state auditor, followed. He said he wanted the votes of all the republicans, not so much because he wanted to be auditor, but because would hate to be beaten by a populist. He thought the state ticket would be elected for he had traveled over the state and the signs all point in that direction. Everybody is feeling the benefit of the good times following the election of President Mc-Kinley and they were only awaiting ar opportunity to express their satisfaction by voting the republican ticket.

Senator Thurston complimented the Scandinavian-American Republican club on the good work it has always done for the party in Douglas county. He brought assurance from his contact with the people of the state that the republican ticket will be elected in November and the people will sing songs rejoicing.

Wherever the American flag is more freely displayed and prosperity is found in greater abundance," he continued, "it will be found there that a majority of the people are supporting the government by voting the republican ticket. Are not the people democrats to win. I feel that if they will do this year as they did four years ago ticket, I will have a republican colleague in the senate for the next two years.

"This is not a political time, but a patritie time. It is time when men should rise above politics and sustain the administration, in its settlement of the war. The president stands the wonder and admiration of the world. The world looks upon him and is amazed as he says to his peace commissioners in Paris, 'You may talk till January 1, but on that date Spain must settle on these terms, and these alone.' Two names are honored and loved by the Amercan people. One is that high priest of American liberty, Abraham Lincoln; and the other that high priest of American humanity for a suffering and oppressed people, William McKinley."

Ovation to Dave Mercer.

Dave Mercer was given an ovation when he was introduced. He said it was a compliment to the patriotism of the Swedish-American republicans that the meeting should be so well attended. He said he had been among all classes of people during the present campaign, and found a general feeling of contentment everywhere. "You all remember," he sald, "how it was in Omaha two years ago. A large per cent of our houses were vacant, and many people were idle. You know how it is today. The republicans have kept every promise they made, and all the world is today paying homage to our country. People from all parts of the world come here because they years.

Also, in the event of that one of the medicine head dresses shall always voted for principle and in doing this this proof being furnished he agreed to never be sold, given away or destroyed, so withdraw from the ticket.

Koutsky essayed to make a speech. His laughter and the young man interpreted that as an encouragement of his efforts and continued until his actions became almost pitiful. In the course of his remarks he said: "I am glad to appear before you to introduce myself as Joseph Koutsky, republican candidate for representative. I am the bad man. of Congressman Mercer's address, the band

There was a good gathering of Ninth ward republicans in the club rooms at Twenty-ninth and Farnam streets last night to listen to a program of addresses by local candidates and other prominent reublicans. David H. Mercer was the first speaker and his address was shortened by the necessity of appearing at the mass meeting down town. He spoke briefly current issues and of the purposes of the republican party as to the future.

Isaac Noyes, candidate for the state senate, traced the record of the republican party since the candidacy of John C. Fremont in a very interesting way.

He was followed by H. H. Baldrige, spoke of the local candidates and mentioned of this country better off now than they were specially Phil E. Winter and W. I. His conversion is of quite recent date and he pledged alleglance to the party which has done so much to uphold the honor and prosperity of the country. He was fol-

J. E. Hawksworth presided over a meeting of fifty-three voters of various political persussions called by the Fifth Ward Fusion club over Billy McKenna's saloon on Sherman avenue last night. Edward O'Connor of the Fifth ward acted as secretary and head asher and made one of the speeches. The other speakers of the evening were George W. Shields, candidate for county attorney; W. D. Oldram of Kearney, Neb., lemocratic politician; J. E. Riley, candidate or state senate, and John Liddell, candidate for the lower house of the state legislature. The principal speech was made by Bill Oldham. > Popoeratic School Board Ticket. After many hours of travail the popocrati forces have again succeeded in bringing forth a complete ticket for the Board of Education. After a conference with the democrats the populists last evening agreed to accept the nomination of Richard Engle mann in place of Dr. J. C. Whinnery for th Board of Education, although, as stated b one of the populists last evening, "the endorsement does not necessarily mean sup port by all the fusion forces.'

The populist city committee met at the beadquarters, 315 South Fourteenth street, last evening and decided that a nomination must be made at once. A committee was appointed to confer with the democrats and after an hour of conference the name of Englemann was agreed upon. He is a democrat and was once defeated for sheriff. The omination completes the fusion ticket for the Board of Education, as the place first passed up by Charles B. Wilson and later by John Jeffcoat has finally been accepted by John F. Helin.

APACHES BURY THEIR HEAD DRESS.

Peculiar Custom of the Tribe Followed Out by the San Carlos Band. The San Carlos Apaches have buried their medicine head dresses and departed for their homes in New Mexico, after having remained at the exposition nearly three months.

The burying of the Apache head dress i quite an important function with the members of the tribe. These contrivances are feet long and run out at different angles eight of these slats and around and among strips of red flannel and white cloth, deccrated with pictures of birds, animals and imaginary gods. They are worn at the medicine dance and at no other time. To DR. J. LEONARD CORNING of New From the Surgeon-in Chief of the wear them upon any other occasion, according to the idea of an Apache, would be to bring down the wrath of the great spirit. there is nothing left but to bury them. There is also a belief with the Apaches that if a first burst of rhetoric produced considerable man digs up and touches one of these ornaments, bad luck will follow him to the end of his days. Whether there is anything undoubtedly the most potent in this or not, will soon be known, for the head dresses have been dug up and are now the property of Harry Walker, one of the Exposition guards.

Monday evening just as he was going off original place. Soon after this they started back to camp and Walker started for the spot that the Indians had left. With his which he took away with him.

Yesterday, in addition to the San Carlos Apaches, the Omahas, Winnebagoes, Flatheads and Assiniboines left for their homes. There are still many Indians here, including the White Mountain Apaches, Brule, Crow Creek, Rosebud, Cheyenne River and Standing Rock Sloux, Pueblos, Wichitas, Klowas and Arapahoes. Some of these will leave Thursday, yet most of them will remain until Friday and some until Saturday Covers will be laid for fifty-five and the occasion will mark the forty-first birthday of the distinguished musician and the eleventh year of the organization of the band.

On Saturday Innes will give a special request program in the afternoon. This program has been made up by a committee of well known society women who have been such regular frequenters of the upper portion of the building as to have earned for their little circle the sobriquet of "The Gallery Gods." The selections are highly creditable to the musical taste of the women and the concert promises to be one of the most | the state. successful of the entire series.

Closing Banquet.

President Wattles will issue invitations o the city and county officials, the mem bers of the Board of Governors of the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben and of the executive committee of the Commercial club to particinate in the spread which will be served at the cafe at 6 o'clock Monday night, The banquet will be practically the closing feature of the exposition and the plan is to entertain these bodies that have assisted in various ways to make the enterprise a success. Superintendent Kelly of the Music depart ment is arranging a musical as the final feature of the Omaha day celebration. It is proposed to have lunes' band play from 6 to 8 o'clock on the last evening and then occupy the remainder of the evening with a program which will include one or two organ numbers, a couple of selections by pears, plums, peaches, prunes and grapes local soloists and some contributions by the exposition chorus.

Terminal Company Drops Out.

The Council Bluffs gate on the Bluff tract was closed yesterday and hereafter the terminal trains will be dropped. Mon day only five people passed through this gate and two of them came in on passes. As the receipts of $1.50 for the day would not pay the salaries of the ticket seller and gatekeeper it was decided that the game was not worth the candle. The change was also requested by the Terminal company, which had a contract to run ten trains a day as long as the entrance was kept open.
