

SYSTEM, NOT MEN, TO BLAME

General Sanger Testifies Regarding Trouble in Securing Supplies.

SANITARY CONDITION AT THOMAS BARR

No Secrecy of Food or Clothing Which Could Have Caused the Sickness—General Brooke Did the Best He Could.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 2.—The first witness before the War investigating commission today was General Joseph P. Sanger, who has had command of the Third division.

The general went into a discussion on the complex system of regulations, starting away of regimental surgeons and the mismanagement which led up to the overcrowding of the division hospital and the great spread of typhoid.

When asked whether high medical officers at Chickamauga paid close attention to their duties General Sanger said: "I don't know about others, but as far as I am concerned, I was not negligent."

Leaves for Chickamauga.

The commission finished its work here today and left at 2:35 o'clock this afternoon over the Queen & Crescent railway for Cincinnati.

The members of the commission who were in Lexington today are General G. M. Dodge, chairman; Colonel Sexton and Dr. Connor.

Yesterday a committee of prominent citizens of Lexington, including Mayor Simrall and ex-Lieutenant Governor Alford, went to Washington to confer with the president and the members of the commission.
