Steward Tries to Get His Hospital in Shape for Election.

BEE'S EXPOSE STIRS UP THE OFFICIALS

Haste Made to Get On a Good outward Appearance, Result in serious Damage to Two of the Unfortunate inmates.

LINCOLN, Nov. 3.—(Special.)—Every day something new comes to light regarding the management of the Hospital for the Insane at Lincoln. The political atmosphere here is so thick with the smoke of the election that the majority of the employees are almost in open revolt and will support the republican ticket in the coming election. In the institution head nurses get $25 per month and second nurses $23. An assessment just levied taxes these employees $1.50 and $1.00 each. The female attendants get still smaller salaries, and are assessed in proportion. It is not known that the high salaried officials make any contribution to the campaign fund aside from the amount they extort from the employees. It is certain, however, that they made liberal contributions to the fund in a year ago last winter, when an effort was made to increase the salary appropriations for the principal officers, and the fact that certain salaries were increased after the legislature adjourned showed that the money was not expended in vain.

Shortly after the adjournment of the legislature the management of the hospital, a month ago a change was noticed. Employees were not allowed to enter the dining room used by the officials, for fear they would report the bill of fare to outsiders. The infirmary, which was provided for two years ago, was hurriedly fitted up in a way which the patients could be placed therein, although there was no excuse offered for the long delay in having the work done. In the haste to satisfy public opinion before election day, patients were placed in the quarters before the window bars were put in, and in two instances, one through these windows to escape, and sustained dislocated ankles in dropping down to the ground. One of these, while thus injured, lay under the window until nearly daylight before the guards discovered him. The two patients, crippled in this manner, are now confined to their beds in the infirmary, and bars have been put up in the last few days to prevent other accidents.

Insurance Agent Doctor.

The outrage of keeping an insurance agent at the institution to act as chief physician is what is attracting much public attention. This agent doctor, who draws one salary from the state as physician and another from the institution as insurance agent, is a man who is a physician, and who is regarded as more politician than physician. It would take something more definite than a veterinary advertisement to explain why he is placed in charge of the helpless inmates of a state institution. It is asserted that his hasty examinations of sick inmates would scarcely do credit to either a horse doctor or an examiner of cyclone risks. One case is cited where an employe had been out on a drunk for two days and went to the hospital to recuperate. The insurance agent, who draws one salary as a physician, made an examination of the case and reported that the sick employe "had strong symptoms of typhoid fever," and made a prescription for this ailment, which of course was not taken. The matter is treated as a rich joke by the employes, who say that the insurance agent at this true value, and Joseph Burns, one of the republican candidates for the legislature from this county, has just received a second letter from the State Dairyman's association asking what attitude he would take in the legislature on questions relating to the dairy interests of the state. In speaking of the letter today Mr. Burns said: "I was a member of the legislature of 1895 and worked for the passage of the anti-butterine law that is now the statute book. I have not changed my mind since then, but it appears as if a whole lot of the farmers in the state do not want the dairy interests protected. They declare their intention of walking up to the polls and voting for a lot of men who are on record as favoring buttering. In this matter I shall be guided by the farmers of Nebraska. If a majority of them vote for the butterine crowd, then I will conclude that the dairy interests do not desire protection. The people who milk the cows and those who run the churns have it in their power to decide this election. Next Tuesday will show whether or not the dairy interests deserve protection."

Inquiry Into Meserve's Bond.

LINCOLN, Nov. 3.—(Special Telegram.)—The dispute over the value of the Meserve bond has at last taken definite shape. Citizens of Pawnee county held a meeting yesterday and selected a committee to come to Lincoln to examine the records and inquire into the standing of the principal bondsmen, who are residents of this county. The committee is non-partisan, being composed of Major C. H. Norris, republican, Captain R. P. Jennings, republican, and Anton Kavanda, democrat. All are business men and old citizens of the state. They propose to make a thorough examination here tomorrow as to the standing of parties within their reach. Many inquiries are coming in as to this bond matter, and the Pawnee county people had evidently taken the right course to learn the truth.
