RESULT OF SMASH-UP AT THE JUNCTION

Morris Peterson, Who Was Hiding on Blind Baggage Car, Has a Good Chance for Recovery.

Louis Jacobson, who was crushed in the wreck at the Junction switch, near the Union Pacific transfer, Saturday night, died yesterday morning at the Woman's Christian Dispensary hospital as a result of his injuries. Jacobson and his companion, Peterson, worked for the Omaha Packing company, and their cars were on their way home from the Junction when the wreck occurred yesterday afternoon at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Neils Jacobson, at 2215 South Eleventh street.

WADE TO COMMAND IN CUBA

Probability that He Will Be Chosen to Be Military Governor of the Island.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The government of Cuba has given the administration much concern and its form is not yet definitely determined. Since issuing the order designating the troops and where there has been considerable talk at the War department about the probable commander of troops in Cuba and the organization of a government, civil and military. The probability is now that Wade will be designated as commander and placed under the command of one officer. The general impression seems to be that the officer will be Major General Wade, now chairman of the Cuban military commission, whose duties as a member of this commission have fitted him for the office. The president and Secretary Alger have great confidence in General Wade and believe he combines the military and civil qualities necessary for the supreme command in Cuba when our occupation is complete.

OPENING MANILA'S DUNGEONS

Hundreds of Victims of Spanish Injustice Given Their Liberty.

STORIES OF SOME OF THE VICTIMS

Remarkable Scenes Attending the Opening of the Doors by American Soldiers—Some Instances of Spanish Injustice.

The worst arraignment and condemnation of Spain's miserable colonial system is to be found in the prison and penitentiaries of Manila, writes a correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. The invading American army found the dungeons filled with hundreds of prisoners who had been thrust into confinement without charge, without trial and without opportunity of knowing their freedom, on the mere command of some petty military or civil official. Under the iniquitous system which has long prevailed here there has been an absolute suspension of all of the ordinary inalienable rights that should be accorded to every human being.

WADERS AVOID SPECIAL TAXES

DUBUQUE, Ia., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—The internal revenue department is going after some of the banks in this district and it would not be surprising were some of the banks to object to the special stamp on their checks.

THINKS REPUBLICANS WILL WIN

Cummins Believes They Will Carry Our State by 30,000 Majority.

"My observations during the present campaign lead me to honestly believe that the republicans will carry the state by at least 30,000," was the statement made yesterday by Hon. A. B. Cummins of Des Moines in discussing the political situation in Iowa. He said the people of both parties showed a general apathy, politically speaking, but that the apathy was as great in the republican as it was in the republican party. He accounted for this general apathy from the fact that the people of Iowa were as a rule content with present conditions. They had all they could do in the way of work and were generally speaking satisfied with the administration. The farmers, he said, were busy attending to their business, times are prosperous, prices are good and the farmer as a rule was not bothering his head with politics this year.

Fairfield's cheese factory has been purchased by a community of farmers who will operate the plant and sell the cheese for John Whaley, the defendant in a sensational breach of promise suit at Webster City, says it is blackball.

THANKFUL PEOPLE

Never were the beneficiaries of justice and enlightenment more thankful, and never was a better lesson in the mission of the American people as he walks from the prison. He is told that the United States has no political offenses. That in America men are permitted to think and talk as they will as long as peace is preserved, and that open opposition to any policy of government is not a crime. They are told that every American is a part of the government; that no man can be confined without being charged and tried by his peers, and that the law presumes his innocence until the contrary is shown. The unfortunate fellows seem unable to grasp the force of what is told them, but they have its conviction in freedom and justice.

Something of the nature of his work on the first day may be gathered from the fact that he released seven men from the damp ground. The first woman whose case he examined belonged to one political group. They were arrested on the Island of Negras on July 11, 1889, for resisting the arms of Spain. They were not tried, but upon the simple order of the then captain general were brought to the prison. There they have been for nearly ten years, perhaps forgotten, for no attention was ever paid to their cases. One of the women came to the prison with a babe in her arms and that child, now a sturdy boy of 10 years, plays about the prison yard. He was never outside the gates until Captain Moffett showed him the way to another of the women a child was born after her incarceration and that child, too, had his first step into the outer world when Moffett freed him. It is improbable that these six weak women could have offered any very serious resistance to the arms of Spain and yet they have been buried for the best years of their lives in a Spanish dungeon. One falls for language to correctly picture such injustice. Another of the women was a bent old creature of 60 years, who was arrested for offering resistance to the armed forces of Spain. She was the owner of a tract of woodland in one of the provinces, and the government, without any knowledge upon her part, sold the right to cut the standing timber. She rightfully objected and was promptly arrested. Her property, valued at $40,000, was confiscated, and she remained in jail for 18 months. The records of the prison show that she was charged in July of this year, just eight years after her arrest. She was grateful for her freedom, but will not live long to enjoy it.

MOCKERY OF JUSTICE

There was still another case that is a strong sidelight on the mockery known as justice. A woman was arrested in 1891 and charged with being an infamously woman. She was discharged after being held a short time, and declares that she gained her freedom by paying the district judge $900. There came a change of justice and the poor woman was again arrested on the old charge. She says that she paid the judge $2,000 and because she could not pay it she was sent to prison. Another case of shocking injustice was that of a young contractor. Six years ago, while engaged on some ironwork on one of the bridges across the Pacific, he was arrested and sworn to sustain the charge of the guard that arrested him. He was given six years for what in the United States is known as the misdemeanor of vulgar language. When he entered the prison he was told that by good conduct he could gain credit enough to free him in five years. He was all his credits, and his time properly expired nine months ago.

CAMPAIGN COMMITTEES GO HOME

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The work of the congressional campaign committees practically closed last night, and many of the employees are already on their way home to vote. Chairman Babcock of the republican committee has decided not to go to Wisconsin. His vote is not needed and his presence here on the night of the election, when the returns are arriving, is of no importance. Chairman Kerr of the democratic committee will leave here on Monday and return on Tuesday night. Both chairmen express the utmost confidence in their prognostications of victory.

BABY'S FACE

LOOKED LIKE RAW MEAT. Our baby's face and neck was all raw meat, and something awful to look at. The baby that suffered, mother and child never had any rest day or night as it constantly itched, and the blood used to run down her cheeks, and she had to be kept in bed with no result. By using CUTICURA REMEDY, CUTICURA (ointment), and CUTICURA SOAP, the skin was entirely healed. Mrs. GARNJOUR, 213 Nassau Ave., BROOKLYN, N.Y.
