DERELICT WAR SHIP MAY YET BE SAVED

Supposed at the Bottom of the Sea, the Vessel is Henrd From Near the Bahamas and Rescue Crews Are at Once Dispatched.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 .- A message received at the Navy department today from Captain Crowninshield, chief of the navigation bureau, who is in New York, called attention to the report that the Spanish cruiser Maria Teresa had been seen off Cat island. The captain expressed his belief in the accuracy of the report and suggested to the department that the repair ship Vulcan, now at Norfolk, be sent at once to make search for the derelict.

The department acted at once upon the suggestion. A telegram was sent to the commandant of the Norfolk navy yard, directing him to place the Vulcan in command of Captain McCalla, the captain of the yard, and send it with all dispatch to look for the Teresa. A similar order was cabled to Captain Converse at Guantanamo, directing him to send the wrecking tug Potomac from that place northward on the same quest. It goes in charge of J. E. Craven and the department believes it will be in the vicinity of Cat island within thirty-six hours.

The Vulcan was one of the vessels which was towing the Teresa when it was supposed to have foundered and the department believes that it will reach the scene of the wreck in about forty-eight hours after feaving Norfolk.

Chance of Saving the Ship.

Cat island lies about thirty miles southwest of the spot where the Teresa was last seen and it is said at the department that if the vessel did not founder outright within a very few hours after having been cut adrift it would almost certainly have fetched up on the shoal beach off Cat island, for the wind and tide set directly on that beach. If so, the location is much more favorable, for saving the ship than the position occupied by it off Santiago, where the bottom was covered with rocks and the wreckers worked at great disadvantage. Captain McCalla was selected for the task because of his great energy and ability for this particular class of work and the officers declare that if any man can bring the Teresa into port he can,

It is the belief of naval constructors that the Teresa took water aboard almost altogether throughout the decks and not through the hull, as would appear from the first accounts of the loss of the ship These decks were rude temporary constructions and were entirely unsuitable for rough weather. The fact that the reports indicate that the ship settled by the head and that water ran into the coal bunkers and thence into the firerooms goes to bear out the constructors' theory. It also tends to give color to the report that the ship may not have foundered at once but have drifted ashore on Cat Island. NASSAU, N. P., Nov. 8 .- No information is obtainable here which in any way tends to confirm the report in circulation in the United States that the cruiser Maria Teresa, which was abandoned in a sinking condition off Wattling island on November 1, has been sighted aground off Cat island of the Bahama group. I was rather surprised at her remark, but fixed that it was apropos. I had noticed many a case of nervous prostration that was directly traceable to coffee, for the individuals at once began to improve when they left off coffee, and I had found it so in my own experience
