The American attitude toward the Philippine islands is also certainly welcomed by the British companies engaged in developing the islands. These companies, in anticipation of a stable, honest government, are already taking steps to enlarge their enterprises. This is notably the case with the Manila Railroad company, controlled by that the infusion of German blood explained English capitalists, which is projecting an the efficiency of the American soldiers. Gen extension of its lines.

Henry Seton-Karr, member of Parliament for St. Helens, who has just returned from years and we make a soldier of him in a visit to the United States, has given his impressions of the trip to the Pall Mall Gazette. He dwelt enthusiastically upon the friendliness for Great Britain which he says is animating the entire American people and adds that he considers an Anglo-American alliance feasible and desirable. Such an alliance of kindred people-probably the richest ever known-is in his opinion well worth considering in Great Britain, while, he further asserts, from the American point of view, a permanent alliance with the old country would be a good policy as well as sound business.

Emperor William as an Arbitrator.

While the Spaniards are unquestionably hugging the hope of finding a friend and protector in Emperor William of Germany, the London diplomats accept his majesty's disclaimers, arguing that the whole trend of British and German policies is converging, particularly since the friendly apportionment of spheres of influence in Africa, i and that the emperor, believing his interests lie in the Anglo-American rather than in the Franco-Russian camp, will not show any disposition to duplicate his President Kruger telegram.

A member of General Merritt's party says that while the bearing of the Germans at Manila left much to be desired at first, a markedly more cordial feeling grew up as

"My observations forced me to the conclusion that if we take the Philippine islands we shall be shouldering a century of trouble and broils. The extent of the Spanish possession merely consisted in cont:olling a few of the larger towns. The rest of the country ran itself. The Spanlards were compelled to pay tribute to the sultans of some of the islands to keep the peace. The United States would not be content with Spanish methods of governing. We should refuse to pay blackmail for the enforcement of an efficient government. Keeping the peace among the various factions, quelling intrigues among the batives, friars and foreigners, collecting taxes and defending ourselves against foreign aggressions seems a superhuman task."
