ADVERSE INFLUENCES OUT OF THE WAY

War Clouds, Silver Question, Supreme Court Decision and Elections Are Past and Financial Skies Are Clear.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 .- (Special.)-Henry Clews of the banking firm of Clews & Co says of Wall street conditions:

The result of the elections has brought The result of the elections has brought a veritable boom into Wall street. The significance of the sound money outlook in the next congress was promptly recognized; and on Thursday when the position was better ter understood a most pronounced change for the better took place. London, which has always been particularly sensitive about the money issue, bought freely on the strength of this favorable development, and these purchases were supplemented by strong local buying, which readily absorbed all stock offered. Every other influence for the time being was ignored. Good earnings and encouraging business the position was been invested in sterling bills, which are profitable only as long as the market on this side the water is dull. The continuance of these investments is dependent on the conditions which since election seem to have been removed.

Last year during the month of November the reserves of the New York of November the particular than the market on this side the water is dull. The continuance of these investments is dependent on the conditions which since election seem to have been removed. encouraging feature was the wide distribu-tion of orders; activity not being confined to a few cliqued stocks, but spread among all the active shares. The promptness with which railroad stocks cut away from the industrials was another very satisfactory fea dustrials was another very satisfactory re-ture. Manipulation was present, as is in-variably the case in any large movement, but there was also heavy buying of an excel-lent character, suggesting that the present movement is more than a transitory speculation. Many of the reorganized properties have a future before them which, under present conditions of large earnings and cheap money, is sure to reflect itself in a higher range of values.

our bank note system is put on the basis of an early probability and there is no mistaking the public will that the notes shall be redeemable in gold coin. Taken as a whole the election shows a remarkable change in public sentiment from the vagaries that have been deeply unsettling confidence to a conservative and assuring attitude, After listening to the disaffecting schemes of demagogues and the allurements of repudiators, the sober second thought and the fundamental honesty of the popular heart have asserted themselves; and we have another of the many evidences in our history that, while our impulsive people may for a time be misled by the schemes of political agitators, yet at the eleventh hour of danger they may be trusted to come round to the path of safety and the side of honor. These changes bring with them an ex-hilarating sense of national elevation. Men of intelligence and men of business feel that the country has vindicated itself against the aspersions of unfriendly critics and the enomies of our national credit. The repub-lic has silenced the charges of those who have snecred at our incompetence to deal with large economic questions or to dis-tinguish between the sound and the unsound in money and finance. It is remark-able that these popular verdicts, given in the midst of important war issues, should have reflected so little of the passions which war excites. The people have calmly dis-tinguished between the things which deter-mine the future of our material interests time being, are yet only transient and secondary in their bearings. This is a gratifying evidence of the self-governing capacity of our people. and those which, however exciting for the Capital More Confident. It is impossible that such broad and positive assurances as the elections afford should fail to have an important effect upon our business interests in their broadest extent. derchants and financiers seem already to breathe a freer air. The clouds of suspense, that until Tuesday had warned conservative men to keep close sail in their operations, have disappeared. Men who wield large capitals now see their way to undertaking enterprises which they have been holding in suspense. Intending investors, who have had misgivings whether the course of poli-tics might not impair public confidence and impair the value of securities, now find their fears removed and are appearing in the in-vestment market. In a word, this new assertion of the governing ability and the financial honor of the American people seems destined to develop a new era of national prosperity, which for some time past has been postponed by the persistence of politi-

Every adverse influence is now out of the way—the war cloud, the silver question, the supreme court decision, and last, but not least, the elections. All signs of trouble have gone to the rear and are not liable to have gone to the rear and are not liable to again appear at the front. All good stocks are upward bound until they reach figures as much too high as they were during the Cleveland regime too low. The country is how placed in a position to continue drawing gold from the other side, which, together with what we produce, will soon swamp the gilver advocates and wipe out the silver question as an issue beyond redemption, while this country remains on a gold basis it will draw the precious metal from all While this country remains on a gold basis it will draw the precious metal from all other nations; whereas, should this country go on a silver basis, other nations would quickly draw gold away in exchange for silver, enhancing their credit and destroying ours. Another advantageous feature resulting from the elections will be to secure to the nation the full benefit of our brilliant victory in the late war—an achievement in naval warfare unsurpassed in the world's history, but which has been belittled by the press and politicians to such an extent as to seriously diminish its importance and lessen the advantages which should accrue to the American people.

LONDON STOCK AND BOND MARKET.

American Securities Boomed by Recent Republican Victory. LONDON. Nov. 13.—There was a distinct change for the better in the temper of the stock exchange last week, prices displaying a marked improvement, owing to the brighter outlook, which was sufficiently pronounced to attract buyers.

CONDITION OF NEW YORK BANKS. Outlook for the Money Market Favors Firmer Quotations. NEW YORK, Nov. 13 .- The Financier

The decrease of $4,000,000 in The decrease of $4,000,000 in surblus reserves, following the shrinkage of $7,000,000 for the previous week, will attract renewed attention to the condition of the New York money market. The clearing house banks now hold $15,000,000 in excess of legal requirements. At the rate reserves have been falling it will be seen that the margin for available expansion is being narrowed to small proportions. But being parrowed to small proportions. But even with this fact known it is doubtful whether the response will be a rise in rates proportionately rapid. In the first place a stock offered. Every other influence for the time being was ignored. Good earnings and encouraging business prospects of course afforded a strong foundation for a rise, but these were not sufficient to lift the market up to a higher level while uncertainty remained about the complexion of the next house of representatives on the all important currency question. A noteworthy and very encouraging feature was the wide distribu-

Wall street has made no mistake in its estimate of the outcome of the congressional elections. It is a result hopeful bayond all expectations. The silver issue is laid in its grave and Mr. Bryan with it. Populism lies slain in its own strongholds and the divisive policies that belong to it. The firmness with which the gold basis is affirmed exceeds the most sanguine expectations of its friends and confounds its enemies. The movement favoring a reconstruction and expansion of four bank note system is put on the basis of an early probability and there is no mistake in its whole the election shows a remarkable The strength developed by wheat yesterheavy, more especially in flour, the aggregate being equal to 335,000 bu. Flour brokers here reported acceptant es from London of offers made yesterday and at a better price than any previous time this season. The price received for patents was said to be 10c a barrel more than could be got from the home trade. New York reported 100 to 125 boatloads sold for export and a shipping firm here had three boatloads accepted from Liverpool. December was strong from start to finish, but May did not participate to any marked degree in the demand. December made a net gain of 3-8c. May opened unchanged at 661-8c, advanced to 661-8c.

Heavy purchases of December by shippers and covering by May shorts had a firming influence in corn. Cables were higher and the strength in wheat was also a factor. Receipts were heavy, 450 cars, but unsettled weather was predicted for over Sunday and light arrivals are anticipated next week. May began a shade lower at 335-8c buyers.

Oats ruled firm with other grains. Only a light business was transacted and fluctuations were of the narrowest kind. Receipts were 326 cars. May opened a shade lower at 245-8024%c, held steady at 24%c and closed at 245-8024%c, held steady at 24%c.

Provisions were flat. Packers sold freely owing to the liberal receipts of hogs, but the strength in grains checked any decline in prices. The week's shipments were heavy—15,436,000 lbs. meats and 12,309,000 lbs. lard. The range of prices was very narrow.

Estimated receipts for Monday are: Wheat, 370 cars; corn, 470 cars; oats, 260 cars; hogs, 38,000 head.

Wool Market.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—There was little or no wool business during the week. The duliness was due to unsettled politics and hand-to-mouth buying in manufacturing centers. Holders however, are not discouraged, as the limited stocks of fine crossbred and the firm prices ruling for merinos led them to expect better prices. The arrivals to date for the sixth series of auction sales, number 77,585 bales, including 17,000 forwarded direct. The imports for the week were as follows: New South Wales, 3,361 bales; Queensland, 4,471 bales; Melbourne, 2,415 bales; New Zealand, 1,819 bales; Cape of Good Hope and Natal, 791 bales; Bussorah, 1,004 bales, and elsewhere, 21,410 bales. New York Dry Goods Market. New York Dry Goods Market.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12—There has been a quiet market today for both cotton and woolen goods. Printers and converters are buying lightweight fine brown cottons fairly, but other frown goods are in quite moderate request. Staple ginghams were firm and Lancaster staples advanced to 5c per yard. Colored goods were dull and generally easy to buy. Business in all lines of woolens was indifferent and the market was without any feature of moment.

7.150 CATTLE—As usual on the last day of the week there was very little here in the way of cattle and the market was only nominal. Such cattle as were suitable for killers brought good prices, and for the last day of the week there was no fault to find with the condition of the cattle trade.

last day of the week there was no fault to find with the condition of the cattle trade.

It has been a long time since so few cattle arrived here during a period of six days. The total receipts for the week were little more than half the average run of a week for the past month, as will be noted from the table of figures given above. As will be readily understood by shippers the heavy decrease in receipts is due to the fact that the range cattle have been pretty well run out, and that it is still too early to expect many cornfed cattle. Values during the week showed a very decided change. Cornfed cattle broke badly in all eastern markets, and while the small supply at this point held this market up better than others it was lower. It would be a very moderate estimate to say that cornfed steers sold here the middle of the week 15620c lower than the previous week. The moderate receipts and the very good demand right at the end of the week give values a little more strength, so that the loss for the week was in part made up. As compared with other selling points, the fat cattle market here has been exceedingly favorable to sellers.

Cows and helfers were in light supply all the week, so that while values on beef steers were declining, good cow stuff was if anything a little stronger. For the week cows and helfers coud safely be quoted a dime higher. Bulls for the week are also strong. Veal calves have been scarce and strong all the week.

The heavy falling off in cattle was largely in feeders, and on most days of the week quoted a dime higher. Bulls for the week are also strong. Veal calves have been scarce and strong all the week.

The heavy falling off in cattle was largely in feeders, and on most days of the week the supply of that kind of cattle was very meager. As there was a considerable demand values firmed up and are 15@30c higher, the most advance being on such cattle as sold, say $3.6@3.90 at the low time. Common kinds of feeders have not advanced as much as the more desirable kinds, and on some days were slow sale. At the close of the week practically everything in the yards was cleaned up.

HOGS—The week closed up with a good, liberal run of hogs, but one train of fourteen cars was consigned direct to packers, so that the actual number on sale was no larger than the average receipts of a Saturday. The low prices prevailing in Kansas City, and the high prices, together with the moderate supply, at this point, has induced South Omaha packers to ship in a good many Kansas City hogs.

The market today was a little stronger on heavy and packing hogs, but about steady on others. Good packing hogs sold today at $3.42\foxious 3.45\foxious 3.57\foxious 1.50\foxious 3.57\foxious 1.50\foxious 3.57\foxious 1.50\foxious 3.60\foxious 3.57\foxious 1.50\foxious 3.57\foxious 1.50\foxious 3.57\foxious 1.50\foxious 3.57\foxious 1.50\foxious 3.50\foxious 3.57\foxious 1.50\foxious 3.50\foxious 3.50\f than the best heavy or butcher weight hogs.

The receipts of hogs have been larger this week than they were either last week or week before, still packers have complained that they could not get hogs enough to meet requirements of their houses. At the same time this has been the high market and there has been every reason why all the shippers in this territory should give this market the preference over all others. The market started out the week with lower prices, but recovered the loss on Tuesday, which proved to be the high day of the week. Values were still lower on Wednesday and Friday, and the week closed 7½c lower than the previous week.

week closed 7½c lower than the previous week.

SHEEP—The market on sheep did not show much change today, the trade being in very much the same condition as noted yesterday.

The arrivals this week have been liberal, as will be noted from the table of receipts given above, but there has been a decided searcity of mutton grades. On one or two days there was a fair showing of fat sheep, but on most days there was a decided shortage. The result is that values are 10% 15c higher than a week ago. There have not been enough lambs in to make a test of the market, but it is safe to say that had there been any here to speak of they, too, would have sold higher. One small bunch of native lambs that were very good brought $5.50.

Feeding sheep are as much lower as fat sheep are higher. There were a good many old and undesirable week in during the week and the whole trade in feeders was slow and draggy. The reason is to be found in the fact that some of the sheep that went out early in the season have been coming back and losing their owners plenty of money and buyers are afraid to take hold of feeding stock unless on a lower basis.

One spot there was in the rough riders' camp where you could always find a curious group, visitors and troopers. This was about Josie's cage, Josie being a mountain lion, one of the regimental pets. To watch Josie snarl and show her white teeth; to admire the daring of her tamer, the one rough rider whose touch she would permit, Q. F. WELLER, V. Prest. as he rolled her, spitting and clawing, on her back, and cuffed her playfully and otherwise displayed his mastery; to see her welcome poor little frowsy Cuba, the regimental yellow dog, and pat him with her paws and show that she loved him-these were sights that never grew tame for the followers of Colonel Roosevelt, writes Cleveland Moffett in Leslie's Weekly. It was in this group one morning that I met "Happy Jack," and for an hour or so there after I enjoyed the picturesqueness of his talk. "Happy Jack" is a product of Arizona. In time of peace he delves the ground for precious metal and breaks the monotony of things by playing faro, tackhis presence over the visage of frontier towns. He does all things, good or bad with delight, and it is not on record that he ever was afraid. He is a sharp-featured, clean-shaven young man of about 30. He speaks English like anybody else, dialect writers to the contrary notwithstanding.
"Tell him about how you got the Spanish sharpshooter, Happy," said one of the group. "Yes," said I, "tell me about the Spanish sharpshooter." Without further urging "Happy Jack" took the center of the stage and proceeded thus: "It was on the great day when pretty much everything happened down there-the 1st of July-and I had just gone back from the firing line a few hundred yards to carry a wounded comrade out of danger. But it looked as if I'd done the wrong thing, for just as I came up to where some orderlies were, zip came a bullet under my hat and went into a gentleman behind me. I was just thinking what a lot of life there was in that spent ball when zip came another bullet on the other side of my head and landed in a tree.

" 'That's no spent ball,' said I; 'there's a lad getting a range on me.' 'It's a Spanish sharpshooter somewhere about, said an orderly; 'he's killed eight or nine men in the last half-hour. See 'em there.' He pointed to a lot of dead bodies. "'Well,' said I, 'if that's the case I guess I'd better go hunting for that Spanish sharpshooter.' So I goes down on the ground and gets under cover, and I waits and I watches to make out where the fellow is. You see, he had smokeless powder and it was a job to fix him. "I guess it took me fifteen minutes before I found him. He was high up in a cocoanut palm, close to the trunk; just made a dark spot there like a crow's nest. So I throws up my sight to 600 yards, gets good and steady and then I says, 'Almighty God, put justice and Christianity in this shot,' and then I pulls the trigger. I said that because I was shooting with a Krag-Jorgensen, and I ain't so well used to them. If I'd had a Win-chester I wouldn't have need to pray; a Winchester is 'Happy Jack's' graft every time. Well, sir, it worked all right. Justice and Christianity prevailed, and my friend the Spanish sharpshooter came tumbling out of that cocoanut tree so fast he never knew what hit him. He fell forty feet and was dead before he struck the ground."
