as to the Shows. Beyond a statement that Superintendent Wadley had tried to inveigle the owners of the Streets of All Nations into a quiet little game of poker to divert their attention from the litigation and their fears of being tied up all through the exposition, nothing of great interest has so far come from Lermy in the present long-drawn out proceeding before Judge Scott. Mahoney has been endeavoring to get out of him some idea of the proportion of business done by the Streets of Cairo to the total of paid exposition admissions in Nashville, Atlanta and other places, hoping to show hypothetically how much the Streets of All Nations cut into the business of the Streets of Cairo here. An exceedingly long hypothetical question from Mahoney to this end was objected to by Mr. Hall as not being relevant and the court sustained the objection. Lermy had shown that the average proportion was about 20 per cent-25 at Nashville, 18 at places. Then the examination turned onto the character of the goods sold as Oriental. Lormy admitted that much of this stuff was imitation, though he did not have an opportunity during the morning session ot the court to specialize to any great extent. It did not appear that either of the socalled Oriental shows had been very scrupulous as to the gentineness or otherwise of their goods, represented to the public as being genuine. Mr. Hall grew tired of the tedium of the proceeding yesterday afternoon and beggeo the court to excuse him. The rest of the day was then devoted to the submission of documentary evidence pertaining to the suit of the Streets of Cairo and the injunction against the Streets of All Nations. In the little cross-examination to which he was subjected Lermy managed to stick to his previous statements. The court may allow him to testify as to the proportion of the Oriental business to the gate receipts here after a foundation has been laid. Atchinson Resists Condemnation. Manager Rosewater explained that in recommending the acceptance of this bld the executive committee had acted solely with a view to getting the most money out of it for the stockholders and of getting rid of the property at once. He said that it was HE SWINDLES COLLEGE MEN costing the association about $500 a day to protect the property and consequently every day's delay meant just so much actual loss. All things considered, it had been decided that the Her bld was the most desirable feaving all question of what was to be done with the property out of consideration. Several directors opposed the report on the score that it proposed to dispose of the property with a view to an exposition next year. Others contended that the directory had no business to speculate on what the purchaser intended to do with the property, but was legally bound to dispose of it to the best bidder. After some further debate the report was adopted as follows: Ayes-Babcock, Brandeis, Brown, Hussie

Kilpatrick, Kirkendall, Lindsey, Markel, Murphy, Rosewater, Saunders, Dudley Smith, Wattles, Wilheim, Yost, Youngs-16. Noes-Carpenter, Evans, Johnson, Kimball, Lee, Manderson, Metz, Montgomery, Payne, Price, A. C. Smith, Wilcox-12. This was the only business to be transacted, but General Manderson claimed the floor for the purpose of introducing a resolution. This referred to his previous effort to absorb $10,000 of the funds of the exposition for the purpose of compiling an "official history" of the exposition under the direction of a committee of which he was himself chairman, and the consequent restraining order which was issued by the district court to prevent this illegal disposition of the stockholders' money. The resolution cited the history of the deal at length, declared that it had been passed by a nearly unanimous vote of the directory and that every other exposition had made a similar expenditure. In this connection he took occasion to insert a few sarcastic reflections on Manager Rosewater for his opposition to the scheme and concluded by authorizing the executive committee to take measures to resist the injunction proceedings. Something About Histories. The resolution was met by a vigorous opposition by Manager Rosewater. He declared that the fact was that the resolution to which General Manderson referred had never been legally passed by the board of directors. It had been brought in and pushed through at the close of a meeting after several members had gone away and when no quorum was present. He also corrected the statement that other expositions had made such an expenditure. The history of the Chicago exposition had been published by Appleton & Co. at their own expense. A similar course had been followed at Atlanta, and in every case the material had been furnished by the Department of Fublicity. During Mr. Rosewater's remarks Mr. Manderson interrupted him frequently with satirical comments and finally Mr. Rosewater turned to him and declared that be had stood his insults long enough. "I may have never presided over the United States senate." he answered, "but I am an American citizen and in every respect your peer." He pointedly remarked that he had not thrown cold water on the exposition enterprise in its incipiency and concluded by stating that he had applied for the injunction at that from now on the company would be the solicitation of numerous stockholders who were indignant at the attempt to squander their money in such a fashion. General Manderson made a long speech it support of his resolution. He admitted that he had not been a believer in the exposition at the start, but declared that after it was

HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS WORK

Current Topic Club Organized and Plan for Its General Course Laid Out.

One of the new departures in the senior year of the High school is the Current Topic club, which has completed its organ ization and will hold its first regular meeting on Friday afternoon under the direction of Miss Kate A. McHugh. The club has been formed into two divisions and will meet each alternate Friday. The main idea of this organization is to keep up current politics and up-to-date literature. Individuals will review one magazine, stating the articles contained and give a brief summary of one or more of the principal topics. A collection has been taken and six of the popular magazines and several newspapers

Another phase that will come up with sideration: then a joint meeting of the two sections will be held. The following will gua Canal: Where Should it Be Built? Rea-
