Charles E. Blaney's big extravaganza success, "A Boy Wanted," will be the attraction at the Boyd for four days, commencing Sunday matinee. It is conceded to be one of the biggest financial successes of the past season. "A Boy Wanted" is a mixture of farce comedy, extravaganza, burlesque and vaudeville, and was written by Mr. Blaney for the purpose of introducing a host of pretty girls, clever comedians, talented vocalists, expert dancers and high class vaudeville artists. There are a great many funny situations throughout the play, which are brought out in the brightest manner possible, the witty remarks and the jokes being all new. The scenery is handsome and in keeping with the play.

There is something about a military play that appeals to the popular mind-a flavor that all the eociety plays written could not give. That is why "The Girl I Left Behind Me" has obtained such a firm hold on audiences. It has lived several years while several others built at the same time have passed into oblivion. The scene is laid on the border and the chief characters have to do with the subjection of the Indians with | pany, has a fine chorus and the orchestra the result that many pretty pictures are produced. While the main plot is being worked out two little love episodes run through and are happily terminated. There are thrilling and sentimental situations that combined result in a most acceptable stage presentation. Creighton, Wednesday matinee and night. November 23.

Robert Downing, the well known and pop ular tragedian, will appear at the Creighton theater, in this city, Thanksgiving matinee and night, in his most successful charming triple bill. He will be seen in his famous creation of the "Gladiator," which has made him known all over the world. This part is to him what Hamlet was to Edwin Booth, or Rip Van Winkle to Joseph Jefferson. In conjunction with this bill, he will also be seen in romance in the part of "Ingomar," the barbarian. It was in this character that he made such a great success with Mary Anderson. Mr. Downing has played this character many hundreds of times. From this Mr. Downing takes a great bound-from the Amphitheater of Rome, to the wild forests of the Cvennes, he goes to Paris, and in the life of that gay capital he shows how a true husband cures a woman of imaginary love, and also brings forth the fact that sweet memory is sometimes better to remain so, than try to bring back the past. In this comedy, "French Marriage," he shows his versalitity. His comedy is said to be very fine, in fact, one looking at him in his magnificent costume of the French gentleman can hardly realize that it is the gladiator that we have just heard hurling defiance at the populace, or the barbarian lover of the

MUSIC.

AND AND ASSESSMENT OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PROP The International Opera company will appear in Omaha. Such was the pleasant news which the musical people of this community received through the columns of The Bee advantage as any. The company was greeted yesterday morning and from the telephonic with a large audience and the press speaks communications to both theaters for verificain a most flattering manner of the tion it would seem that the news was most acceptable. The stimulus which the exposition gave to the musical interests of Omaha Jacob Rosenthal, who has been the man- is already bearing fruit, and, while St. ager of the Los Angeles house in the Louis was unable to support this company Orpheum circuit, is to be the manager of as it deserved, and Kansas City followed the Creighton when that house passes into the example of St. Louis, it is highly creditthe control of the Orpheum people on able to Omaha that the demands of the December 1. The house will be known as people induced Manager Burgess to make the Creighton-Orpheum. Mr. Rosenthal, if a special trip to Kansas City in order to the comment of the Los Angeles press is secure the filling of the engagement if posany criticism, is destined to be popular in sible. Another interesting indication of the this city. He is spoken of as being an ex- interest manifested in good music at this point is that during the last week it was impossible to obtain at music stores a copy of any of the operas to be given, except by placing an order in advance. Many people have stated with much show of authority that Omaha would be musically dead after the exposition, because the people would all be bankrupt. These same people seem to forget that a great amount of money must have been spent in Omaha during the last six months by people from out of town, and therefore some persons have not been stricken with poverty. The demand for seats is very brisk and indications are that the season of grand opera will be a paying venture. May it be so. If a local management is encouraged at this early date in will be Mr. Nat Brigham, who will be rethe season it will mean the securing of membered by the majority of the musical splendid attractions later on.

The opening opera will be "Faust," and and that is what he doubtless will give. the date will be tonight. The Creighton theater has been put to some severe test acoustically by opera companies in the past, and it has proved thoroughly satisfactory Mr. Homer Moore, whose opinion will be valued by many people in Omaha, writes to The Bee that he has heard the International Opera company in St. Louis, and that any praise given to the company in this column will not be undeserved. It is a strong comis thoroughly adequate.

The matinee will be given on Tuesday afternoon ,and the bill will be the "Cavallooria Rusticana," and "Il Trovatore," day night will have "Il Trovatore." To morrow night has been allotted to "Lucia." A full synopsis of all these operas was given in the musical column of last Sun-

In connection with the Woman's club there has been considerable talk relative to the fact that here is a strong organization, with money to kindle, prestige, influence, and yet that Omaha's musicians never get a chance to touch that pernicious and abominable lucre, which is supposed to be only for the worldly, and not for those ethereal beings who have been unfortunate enough to have been sent to this earth to endure a short season of purgatory. True, Omaha musicians have not enriched themselves by the receipts they have obtained from this estimable organization, but whose fault is it? As usual, the musicians themselves are to blame.

If it comes down to the point, it will be found that the musicians donate their services, and then complain that they do not get paid. The Woman's club is understood to have good credit, no collection agency has been employed to collect bills from them. Therefore, to all those who complain and rail at the club today, and temerrow play and sing for the club for nothing, let this advice be given in the spirit of friendship; "The laborer is worthy of his hire; if you are worth a price charge it. If you want to give away your neans of livelihood, keep quiet."

Of course, this does not apply to those who keep a stiff price, and have sought engagements, and still have not been engaged. To this class, which surely must be in the minority, let a word be said, seriously and without presumption, and that is: member that the woman's musical department does not owe any one a living, and the purchaser, by right of all commercial class collection of Irish sceneries to be found usage, reserves the right to choose his own goods. But, on the other hand, the purchaser can not dictate the price. The Woman's club has selected, it may here be noted, a conductor for the chorus, passing The Trocadero offers today and all week over several who have in times past aswhat is confidently believed to be an ex- sisted the club, and would doubless do it eral of the people are local favorites from other instructors should feel aggrieved at their own organizations. Many programs would be agreeably shortened if singers especially has been in Fullerton for ten days. were to bow once, and even twice, before singing again.

And this calls to mind a story which appeared in one of the humorous journals of the country a few weeks ago. Mr. and Mrs. having been sung, the audience applauds vigorously, whereupon, of course, the singer operas which it was previously intended to everywhere it has been seen. The two appears, smiling, music in hand, and royal coons, Charles E. Johnson and Dora proceeds to repeat the last verse, as an encore. The innocent and tender heart of the poor old lady is touched, and with tears in her voice she remarks to her equally unsophisticated husband: "Look John, they make her come out and sing it again until she gets it right!"

A new journal has started on a career of onslaught on some of the leading musical journals, and pretending to have "art" for basis, condemns by editorial and cartoon the business methods of contemporaries. How well might it be said, what terrible things are done, O art, in thy name!

This magazine rejoices in having amongst its contributors one Hahn, who signs the articles which appear from Omaha. In one of them he states that the chorus which did such acceptable work at the exposition. whose merits were attested to by Mr. Arthur Mees, as well as soloists of the Thomas orchestra, and by other visiting musicians, whose work was praised highly by Hans Albert over his own signature, this chorus, says he, sang nothing but hymns, and old songs like "Annie Laurie," because they could not sing anything else. This, notwithstanding the fact that previously the scribe eulogized the work of the chorus in the "Rose Maiden." This work is not very simple, nor yet is it so difficult as is "Fair Ellen," by Max Bruch, while it lasts. The 'Daughter of Jairus," by Stainer, is another work which was given by the Exposition chorous, and which is not by any means Sunday school music. This furious attack on the Exposition chorus, because of malicious feelings toward the conductor, is unworthy and apart from any personal exoneration or apology or defense this opportunity is taken to say a word of ap preciation for the unremitting labor, earnest nterest, and excellent attendance of those who had no small share in the success of the exposition, who helped to attract the evening crowds, and who also assisted in putting money into the pockets of the stockholders-the much abused and very patient members of the Exposition chorus.

It seems strange that a person who admittedly knows not one thing about music except, as the old lady, who liked "what leased her"), shall be the vehicle for musical news to a New York paper about the doings of Omaha people in the musical

Mrs. Ford, who is at the head of the musical department of the Woman's club, is preparing to conduct the department on very aggressive lines this winter. It can be made a great power for the good of music in the community and Mrs. Ford very wisely realizes that in order to get the best results some money must be spent. Artists who are well known throughout the country will be here and will give programs of special interest, which will be open to the public for a very nominal charge. The scheme as laid down is a good one, and, while it is unnecessary to detail it here, it will prove an attractive piece of financier-Conspicuous amongst the entertainers people. SPAIN MUST BANDY NO MORE TERMS

Lengthy Spanish Note Found to Contain Only Time Worn Contention About Word "Disposition."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.-It was not until late last evening that the last paragraphs of the long translation of the Spanish note which was presented to the American peace commissioners last Wednesday was deciphered at the State department, and most of the members of the cabinet were not aware of the full contents of the document until today, when they called at the White House. It appears that in addition to the long argument which was intended to show that the word "Disposition," used in relation to the Philippines, meant something else, the Spanish note includes a proposition to submit the Philippine clause of the protocol to the interpretation of an arbitrator.

Another cablegram followed the first long message, this time directly from Judge Day, seeking instructions definitely on some points to be made in the American answer which is yet to be presented. These instructions have been sent forward and it may be stated without going into details that they are precisely in line with the policy which the American commissioners have been pursuing up to this point in the negotiations. Judge Day made no mention in his message of any intention on the part of the commissioners to adjourn their sessions today without transacting any business, but in view of the fact the last instructions were sent so recently as to afford insufficient time for putting them in form it was believed to be probable that nothing would be done at today's session and that the meeting would be purely pro forma.

Other Important Matters. There are several matters of real importance, though not ranking with the Pailippine question, to be treated by the com-125 new members to Ogden lodge at Ogden, missioners, but the instructions to the Americans are not to call up these at present or until the main pending issue relathey can to make this one of the largest tive to the Philippines has been settled, in order to avoid complicating proceedings. One of these subjects concerns the restoration of trade relations between the United States and Spain. At the beginning of the war Spain terminated all of her treaties with the United States, and if the two countries are to get along amicably even after the declaration of peace there must be wo:king arrangements in treaty form, for the protection of trade interests, the equalization of tariff charges, the regulation of extradition and such subjects as are usually treated charged.
