A CITY WITHOUT FIRES.

Idaho's Capital Warmed with Boiling Artesian Water. The water and heating system of Boise City, Idaho, has always attracted the attention of visitors to that city. In speaking of his state and city C. J. Sinsel, a prominent fruit grower and merchant of Boise, says in the Denver Times: "We have the advantage over every city in the union when it comes to a water supply. We burn no fires, we have no boilers and there is not a heating stove in the city. No, we do not have electricity to heat with, either," he said, "for we are supplied with a limitless quantity of naturally bolling water. It is piped into all the blocks and houses and conducted to the radiators. The heat thus obtained is always uniform. The water is conducted from an artesian well of boiling water in the mountains only a short distance from the city. Another phenomenon is the cold water supply. Only a half mile distant from the hot water well is one of ice cold, sparkling water, the purest in the world. We never use any ice, even in the summer time. This cold water is always almost ice cold. "Bolse City has one of the finest natatorwide and 220 feet long. The water is the purest in the world and of great remedial You can see the bottom of that twenty-threefoot pool when the natatorium is full, and the smallest object is clearly discernible at that depth. Many invalids are being attracted there on account of the beautiful surroundings and the facilities offered for the recovery of health. "Idaho is the greatest fruit country in the newly-discovered northwest. Mining is carried on to a great extent, but fruit raising is getting to be the main industry. Agriculture is carried on profitably, but the profits of fruit growing make that the most extensive occupation of the people of the valleys. Sheep have gradually driven out the cattle and Idaho is fast losing all importance as a cattle country. The large herds of wild horses and bronchos that were raised there twenty years ago are fast being shipped out and few are being raised to take their places. There is no money in raising scrub horses and Idaho men are turning their attention to other things." LIVING IN THE COUNTRY.

Growing Fondness for Rural Life a Good Sign of the Times. In the December Ladies' Home Journal Edward Bok, with much satisfaction, notes the strong tendency to country living, and • 4:35 pm •• 4 45 pm the strong tendency to country living, and believes that "it is one of the best signs of the times. Nothing in the world can keep a man or woman so young and fresh as to be keep our children to the soil, the healthler will they be physically, and the stronger will they develop mentally. The more our girls breathe in the pure air which God intended for all, but which man in the cities pollutes, the better women we shall have; the fewer worried mothers we shall see. The more our young men see of out-of-door sports the more *11:50 pm splendid physical health. The more the fred * 8:10 am housewife sees of flowers and plants and trees the closer will become her interest in all things natural and simple; and as she secs the simplicity with which nature works, unconsciously will the lesson be forced upon her and enter into her own methods. We all agree that there is no teacher like nature herself. Let us all, then, get as close to her as possible. Whatever she teaches is wholesome to the mind and uplifting to the soul and strengthening to the body. In the very act of studying her wonderful ways there is health."
