No The company now refuses to surrender the land to the purchasers, maintaining that are. The published tariffs of all the lines clear title can be given to show that the packing house rates have been the land on account of the failure of the openly cut from 181/2 cents to counties to whom the delinquent taxes were 10 cents per 100 pounds from Omaha to the counties to whom the delinquent taxes were due to notify the receivers of the Union Pacific of the sale of their lands.

The question is one of vast importance to many counties of western Kansas and eastern Coloorado, and the attorney general of Kansas estimates that it will be a fight to the finish. C. F. Diffenbacher, attorney of Barton county, and J. C. Rupenthal, attorney of Russell county, Kansas, have beseeched the attorney general of that com-monwealth for legal aid in their fight, and he has told them in reply to bide their time while he looks up the law and makes out a case against the railroad company.

History of the Matter.

During the receivership of the Union Pa-cific a great deal of the lands in the counties mentioned belonging to the company were sold on account of the failure of the company to pay its delinquent taxes. The lands were obtained by the Union Pacific under its original land grant, the government giving to the Union Pacific each altornate section for ten miles on either side of the vallroad line.

When the treasurers of the counties in question could not obtain the delinquent taxes from the Union Pacific they advertised the lands for sale, just the same as though the lands belonged to any individual delinquent. At the stated time the lands were sold.

General Solicitor Kelly now maintains City removing George D. Loomis, mastercounty treasurers were too in-chancery in charge of the sale of the that the hasty with their sales. He says that the proper form of procedure against a road like the then Union Pacific in the state of prise to railroad officials in Omaha, as most receivership would have been to file with the federal court a claim for the taxes due and then secure an order of the court on the receivers for the payment of the taxes. Up to date the Union Pacific has declined to give up possession of the lands or to pay the delinquent taxes with all of the costs of advertising sale, other expenses and sales, as provided for by law. The company does, however, now seek to clear up the muddle, and incidentally hold possession of its lands, by the payment of the delinquent taxes and the legal penalties. It holds that the expenses of the sale should not be borne by the company. It also holds the land.

Burlington & Quincy is authority for the statement that the proposed changes in the fast mail service between Chicago and Omaha will not go into effect right away. It is thought they are scheduled for January 1. 1899. It is known that the railway mail service and the Lake Shore officials have not yet finally agreed upon the time card changes into Chicago that are contemplated. In the meanwhile both the Burlington and the Northwestern systems are keeping their eyes wide open for the mail contract between Chicago and Omaha. The Burlington road now hauls the mail and desires to continue its present service. But the Northwestern is going to make a final effort to wrest this contract away from the Burlington. If it can show faster time with its new mail train perior service on the cut-off of forty-seven miles from Missouri Valley, Ia., to Fremont, from Chicago to Omaha for seven consecufive days, it is likely to get the contract. The Northwestern will base its claim for su-Neh., delivering the overland mail to the Union Pacific at Fremont and saving between an hour and eighty-five minutes in time. The Northwestern will also call attention to the recent shortening of its line in Iowa by the removal of innumerable curves and the improvement by the cutting down of steep grades.

On the other hand the Burlington argues its superiority in past speed tests between Chicago and Omaha for mail contracts as a precedent, and expresses its willingness renew the competition at any time. The Burlington men in Omaha say that it is the ability of the "Q" engineers to drive their engines for all they are worth that enables them to make the best time, and they have supreme confidence in their engineers to beat any other line at any time from Chicago to Omaha. One thing is sure, and that is that some lively running is ant to be seen on both lines during the present month. Reports from Burlington, are to the effect that the engineers on the lowa division are all getting ready for runs of ten hours and even nine and a half hours from Chicago to Omaha, averaging over fifty miles an hour for the whole run, including stops, slowing down, and the climbing of the lows hills. It to said the Burlington feels that it will have to make nine and a half hours for the en tire run in order to offset the advantage of
