AUSTRIA'S RULER IS HONORED public life of both countries, than a written alliance. We have finally come to realize a double patriotism, the patriotism of race and Today's session was a repetition virtually of several earlier meetings Still Courting Delny.

When, after two hours of discussion, taking a wide range, the Spaniards were pressed for defin's statements they pleaded that they had not received instructions from Madrid. Thereupon the Americans declared, in diplomatic phraseology, that it was useless to waste time in debate with men who were not empowered to make bargains. Although adjournment was taken till tomorrow, it is probable there will be a further postponement till Monday.

The Spaniards' version of today's session is that they asked to have the treaty concluded first and then the minor matters discussed. According to reports from American sources the Spanish commissioners endeavored to draw hints as to how far the Americans were willing to compromise the demands under discussion without disclosing what concessions Spain was willing to make.

As the negotiations proceed, the prospect of consuming much time increases. Several very important propositions, presenting many phases, invite discussion, and must afterward he embodied in the agreements. This task of embodying may be long drawn out, every word and comma requiring consideration. As to questions yet unsettled, which do not concern territorial or financial interests, both commissions display laudable anxiety to promote the welfare of the inhabitants involved.

An American commissioner remarked to the correspondent of the Associated Press: 'We realize that these people are to become hibit a willingness to co-operate in this work of guaranteeing the rights of the people they are losing, a willingness that must command our respect, for we realize that they might make the tack much more difficult it they were disposed to display a resentful spirit."

Among the problems of the foregoing nature, to which the commissioners are devoting much attention, is that of the courts. Both commissions desire, as far as posible, to arrange that contracts entered upon and lawsuits brought under the Spanish regime may be transferred to the jurisdiction of the American courts, so that the litigants may lose no right through the change of

The question of continuing contracts for public works now under way is also being considered and it is possible the treaty will guarantee the fulfillment of existing mail

Press Comment.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—The Times, discussing editorially this morning "the strange and embarassing problem" facing the United States, that springs out from "their novel imperial policy," says: "It is impossible to view the policy disclosed in Secretary Alger's report as complete or even intelligible until it is known what the Washington government means to do for the navy. If the Philippines are to be effectively occupied a large navy and transport force will be necessary. The United States must show themselves ready to repel any attempt on the part of other powers to attack portions of the territory or to assert a claim to a share in the spoils of the disorganized conquest."

Referring to the "magnificent effect on the relations between the United States and Great Britain accomplished by the free press of a free people on each side of the Atlantic, expressing the generous impulses of each nation," he said: "I would rather have the free play of this national sentiment, which is enriching the the patriotism of country. There is a common bond between the two peoples and we should look in times of peace to see the sentiment growing, in times of disturbance to find in it something upon which we could lean for mutual support."

Sir Edward Grey condemned the "attempts of some conservative apeakers to make party capital out of this understanding," and expressed a hope that both Germany and the United States "may incline more and more to our policy of the 'open door,' which will lead to a great improvement in trade throughout the world."

ENTERTAINMENTS LAST NIGHT

Frank Roberson Gives His Dewey Lecture Before a Goodly Audience at Y. M. C. A. Hall.

The auditorium of the Young Men's Christian association was filled last evening with Omahans desirous of learning something of Manila and the Philippines. Frank H. Roberson of this city exhibited a rich collection of pictures taken on the islands and thereabouts during a recent visit, accompanying the display of the stereopticon views by a pleasing narration of some personal experiences beyond "the open door." The bulk of the pictures were beautifully colored and illustrated almost every phase of life in the Philippines at the present time. The Spanish wrecks of May 1 and the American war ships that accomplished the feat, pictures of Admiral Dewey and his officers, as well as of the men behind the guns, the regulars and volunteers of the army now stationed there, their camp life, the life of the natives, the old and new parts of Manila and the surrounding country are graphically illustrated.

The lecturer expressed his opinion as strongly opposed to the annexation of the islands by the United States. He thinks that the climate is unfitted for Americans and will prove an insurmountable barrier to auccessful celonization by this country. Although there is much sickness among the troops he says the government is doing all it can, and the medical arrangements are being improved daily. The men of the navy are better off than the soldiers, as life on the sea is more healthful there than on land. He fears that the United States will have trouble with the Filipinos in the near future and estimates the latter number about 65,000 armed men.

The lecture will be repeated in the same hall this evening and will be the last to be given by Mr. Roberson in Omaha this win-

Now contrast the experience of the folowing citizens of the United States with the emperor of Germany. Like the emperor, they failed to find a cure. But, unlike the emperor, they happened to be plain citizens of the United States, rather than the center of the inner court of the most exclusive and carefully guarded aristocracy of the world. In his position nothing but the remedies that

THIEVES CAUGHT IN THE ACT lieve the woman murdered her husband, but Try to Steal Goods in Omaha Stores and Lund in Jali as a Result.

A man who says his name is John Kelly stepped into the woolen goods department of Hayden Bros.' store yesterday afternoo to make a small purchase. When he started to leave the clerk who had been waiting on him noticed that a large bolt of cloth which had lain on the counter a few minutes before was missing. He glanced after Kelly and seeing that his coat bulged out as if some thing was concealed under it, he called to him to stop, but Kelly paid no attention and once outside the store he began to quicket his steps. The clerk gave chase and Kelly ran. A bystander named Nash also joined the pursuit, but before either of the men could overtake Kelly he ran into the arms of Detectives Dunn and Davis, who took both the man and the woolen goods to the police station for safe keeping. The man was locked up on the charge of larceny and the cloth was kept for evidence.
