LEGAL NOTICE.

MORE ISLANDS ARE OURS.

explored the Southern Pacific ocean and vast excitement, especially when it was dissubsequent days of earnest missionary work among the islanders, has there been so much Islands of the Pacific as now. It is noticeatmosphere which pervades the offices of cause for annoyance, but, clas! an official the geological survey, writes a correspondent pounced upon them and, having announced of the New York Sun. This bureau has sent | that all placards, bills, posters and sandwich one of its experts to make a preliminary survey of the Philippines and two more are bear a stamp, demanded to know whether about to start for Porto Rico with instructions to make plans for a thorough geological curred the other day when one of the govrnment officials, in looking up the maps of the Caroline group, for one of which our peace commissioners vainly tried to bargain, opened an English atlas and found a whole galaxy of islands in the middle of the Pacific credited to the United States. looked at the date of the atlas and fored it was 1881. It was the Keith Johnson royal atlas, sancitioned by the foreign office and generally considered among the most trustworthy in the world. On the map devoted to Colorado Special Denver and all rado points Southern Pacific a green line encircled a big slice of the ocean containing a lot of choice islands and the word "American" was printed across them in the came way that the Fijl islands were labeled British and the Marquesas were credited to the French.

In a foot note it was explained that .b 4:35 pm b12:20 pm "American" meant the United States, Within the circle were the well known Phoenix and Union groups and a score of scattered islands extending eastward as far as the latitude of the Sandwich islands, while the western boundary reached almost to the Carolines. The Phoenix and Union groups are quite important in size and population. They lie east of the Carolines and north of the Samoas, are directly in the path of steamers from San Francisco to Australian ports and would be near the course of steamers from the Nicaragua canal to the Philippines. In the present trend of events any old island in the middle of the Pacific would be of some Imperiance to the United States, but here was a lot of them which it was found had been credited to the United States for many years up to 1881, not only by trustworthy mapmakers, but by authentic British publications. The question naturally arcse, how or when these islands ceased to belong to us, or whether as a matter of fact they had ceased to be ours. Did we really possess all these islands without knowing it, or had we simply forgot it? The matter was taken to the State department, where no one had any information on the subject that was ready. A little investigation, however, revealed an nteresting history. It appeared that for more than fifty years hese islands were generally conceded as belonging to the United States by right of discovery and occupation. For many years our small merchant marine had considerable trade with them. American guano companies had works on them and derived large profits till about 1870, when the guano deposits apparently began to run out, hough some of these works still remain. But while the government of the United States never denied its ownership of the islands, no record has yet been found to show that it ever officially affirmed it. hough in many instances it has notified other powers that it could not recognize he right of others to any privileges in hose waters not enjoyed by the United States. Like some European governments till within a score of years, we left these slands to their own governmental devices. GIGANTIC ADVERTISEMENTS.

Floral Signs Visible at a Distance of Four Miles. Some little time ago it was announced hat at Ardenice, in Scotland, there existed wonderful advertisement made of flower eds, says a writer in Tid-Bits, each bed taking the shape of a letter forty feet long, and the whole comprising 120 odd feet of clossoms, and the name of a Glasgow newspaper, which name could be read from a distance of four and a half miles. In France, however, the idea has been adopted and improved to a certain extent, for, instead of decorating hillsides as in the above nstance, they are about to decorate railway embankments with floral advertisements, in which case the flower beds cannot fail to please the eye, even though they extol at sizes.

29,500 reams white writing paper, various the same time the virtues of a pick-me-up or a sewing machine, The experiment is to be tried first of all on the grassy slopes of the French Great Western, particularly on those positions the highway, and it is said that as soon as the project was announced 10,000 square meters of embankment were speedily snapped up by enterprising advertisers, who recognized that this space, allowing the let-ers to be twenty feet high, would permit of a floral poster over one mile long. Scotland apparently is in the forefront so far as advertising novelties are concerned, for, if rumor does not lie, a soap firm, on hearing that the congregation of a church found it difficult to provide their minister with a suitable salary, promised to pay £120 a year for five years on condition that its advertisement should be hung up in front of the gallery in the church. An advertising dodge of extraordinary ingenuity hails from Quebec, where an enterprising shoe dealer gave away a pair of overshoes with each pair of footwear he sold; as each sole of the overshoe bore in reversed letters a notification that So-andso's wares are the best in the market, and as an impression of this legend was left in it must be admitted that the ingenious dealer conceived an excellent plan to make his customers take steps to advertise him. Theatrical managers are very enterprising advertisers, as the following example, which might be adopted by their British brethren to the advantage of themselves and their patrons, shows. A New York manager sent thousands of these advertisements out and in view of the fact that people do not usually cash 2-pence checks, but paid great attention to the document sent with them, had no reason to regret his enterprise The advertisement consisted of a perfectly good check, payable to bearer for the sum of 2 pence, and it was accompanied by the following note: "Dear Sir: Assuming that your income is $15,000 (£3,000) a year and that you appreciate the fact that 'Time is money,' we inclose our check for 4 cents (2 pence) in payment for two minutes of your time, at that rate, to be employed in carefully reading a brief and honest statement of a few of the many original, new and novel applause-winning features to be found in the new three-act musical farce to be produced for the first time in New York on Monday next." A few extremely complimentary remarks about the piece then fol-

About a year ago ten well dressed gentlemen were seen promenading about the Boulevard des Italiens, Paris. At intervals they would walk up to any lady or ladies who were shopping in that thoroughfare, and, coming to attention simultaneously, doffed their hats and stood for a brief space with bowed heads before the at first startled promenaders, who afterward smiled and continued on their way, when the polite gen-tlemen without a word resumed their hats Van Buren, when a United States expedition and their journey. Their progress caused covered that their clean-shaven scalps were inscribed with the words, written in large

This novel mode of advertising, it would be thought, could give the authorities no men's boards have to pay a certain duty and their skulls were duly licensed Unfortunately, not a single skull bore the regulation stamp, and as by French law the cial view of finding its stores of mineral authorities can confiscate all unlicensed wealth, for it is well known that there is posters, the position of the ten unfortunate men who were in imminent peril of being scalped became alarming-at least the pubcific that special interest is being shown just lie thought so; the ten, however, never lost now. For many years two bulky volumes their heads-or even their scalps-for each published a long time ago in England and man was aware that even if the law were entitled a "Directory of the Northern and enforced in all its rigor he, or rather his Southern Pacific" remained undisturbed on employer, would be only a well-fitting wig
