Holiday Season Proves to Be a Joyous One with Society People.

MANY DELIGHTFUL FUNCTIONS CARDED York and St. Louis.

Indications that from Now Until Lent the Social Whirl Will Be Filled with More Than the Usual Number of Attractions.

The new year has been ushered in in the most joyful manner possible, and it has been made the signal for universally festive gatherings and brilliant functions of every kind known in the social world. The heartiness of the welcome has never been exceeded and rarely equaled.

The time-honored proverb that, "All's well that ends well," has surely been clearly demonstrated by the grand finale afforded the old year, by the climax of great events which attended its gorgeous exit; and for that very reason there is all the more faith to be placed in the equally old adage that "A good beginning makes a good ending," so that all anxious flutterings of the social breast may be once for all peacefully laid

The busy little gods, Cupid and Hymen, cannot possibly do better than follow in the well-chosen footsteps trodden by them dur-

The new year opened brilliantly with the reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Z. T. Lindsey, the second dinner-dance of the season given by Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Poppleton and Mr. and Mrs. Myron L. Learned at Elizabeth Place, which was preceded by eight delightful dinners given at as many different homes Mrs. Harry McCormick's buffet luncheon and numerous smaller but none the less enjoyable events made the week a busy one for Omaha society folk.

New Year's Reception.

One of the largest and most brilliant receptions of the season was that given by Mr. and Mrs. Zachary T. Lindsey, at their residence on Fortieth street, in the afternoon and evening of Monday. The affair was arranged to occur on that day in accordance with the time-honored custom of keeping open house on the first day every year. In the reception hall the decorations consisted of unusually fine holly, plentifully besprinkled with large berries, whose ruddy tints harmonized perfectly with the art red of the walls, frieze and ceilings, to all of which the shining, verdant hue of its foliage formed a pretty contrast. Bunches of holly filled the handsome freplace, and on the mantel stood two wrought-iron candlesticks, holding red candles. Pink was the prevailing color in the dining room, where the decorations consisted of pink roses and candles to match, to which the light and dark green of the mural tints formed an effective background. The handsome parlors were well filled with guests during the receiving hours. The young women who assisted in receiving the afternoon guests were: Mesdames Charles Kountze and George Palmer, who poured coffee in the dining room; Miss Crounse and Miss Urn Kelly, who served delicious pink ice in the reception hall; and the Misses Flora Webster, Buck, Evans and Lindsey. In the evening the host and hostess were supported by the following: Messrs, and Mesdames Buchanan, Burns, Richard Carrier, Hitchcock, Lewis Reed, Mrs. Greene Misses Millard, Evans, Lindsey and Mr.

Coffee was served in the dining room under the auspices of Mesdames Hitchcock and Reed, while the reception hall, in which ice was served, was presided over by Mrs. Carrier and Miss Millard.

The popularity of buffet breakfasts and luncheous is decidedly and worthily on the increase, and small wonder, for could a more delightful and enjoyable deviation from the regulation luncheon party possibly be imagined? The success of the dinnerdances is an assured fact and that they are much looked forward to events on the social calendar by all nobody can deny. Meetings goon. of card clubs preceded by a luncheon are also much in vogue and find great favor with a large number of the "upper ten."

Some novel and highly successful features introduced at a Christmas bazar were a roof garden (which contained a miniature theater), with a continuous program; a "grab" bag for the children and silhouette

A progressive "cinch" party, recently given by a young society woman in an eastern city, caused quite a sensation and was pronounced a thoroughly enjoyable affair. A series of luncheons to be given by prominent members of society has been organized in a city not far from Omaha. Each luncheon is to represent the distinctive features of a foreign country. For example, suppose Great Britain to be the country chosen, the national colors would form the chief feature of the decorating scheme and the characteristics of that country be faithfully carried out even to the smallest de-

Mrs. McCormick's Luncheon. The buffet luncheon given by Mrs. Harry McCormick on Thursday at her home on Park avenue was one of the most enjoyable and brilliant affairs of the week. The repast, which consisted of a number of dainty and recherche dishes, was served in two elaborate courses. The entire color scheme of red was tastefully carried out and a most becoming glow was shed upon the gay most becoming glow was shed upon the gay scene, from which all natural light had been excluded, by the red candles with shades of the home of Mrs. Katz was postponed owing the same color, which alone were used. The dining room was specially worthy of notice. Upon the table stood handsome silver candelabra, holding red candles. Lovely clusters of Neapolitan violets, whose deliclous perfume filled the air and whose delishaded petals and green foliage formed a pretty contrast to the ruddy glow shed by the waxen lights, added greatly to the beauty of the scene. The handsome centerpieces of Mexican drawn work were much admired by all. About fifty guests enjoyed the graceful hospitality of the hostess. Mrs. Charles T. Kountze presided over the coffee urn, and Mrs. A. L. Reed poured chocolate. Assisting through the rooms were: Mesdames Warren, M. Rogers, Ar-Remington, E. H. Sprague, Wheeler, jr., and the Misses Bessie Yates, Ida Sharpe and Elizabeth Peck. Delightful music was furnished by a stringed orchestra.

This preparation excels all others in three particulars—it gives the hair most NAT-URAL appearance—is most permanent in wearing qualities—and positively does not injure the hair.
