Drexel Estate Case. Judges Keysor and Dickinson declined to Drexels for removal of the the Reed-Drexel estate case to the federal court.

Their reason was that they did not have jurisdiction and this was based upon the fact that the appeal had not been com. menced until four days after the statutory time. It amounted to a decision that the appellants had no standing in court and therefore the court had no jurisdiction to pass upon any application made by them on any supposed appeal.

W. D. Beckett pointed out that the petition of the appellees was not perfect for the reason that, although the appeal purorder to the effect that the court denied the removal application for the reason that for want of evidence.
