JOE HAWLEY IS RENOMINATED lands, thus giving him two votes. A legislative caucus wil probably be held on Sunday night. Contest for Republican Endorsement in Connecticut is Ended. WARMEST FIGHT IN STATE'S HISTORY

Two of the Strongest Politicians in the Commonwealth Compete with the Soldier Statesman.

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 11 .-- General Joseph R. Hawley was this afternoon nominated by the republican caucus of the Connecticut general assembly as a candidate to succeed himself as the junior United States senator from Connecticut. The victory which came to the distinguished soldier and statesman furnished the climax to one of the most bitterly waged political contests ever fought in the Nutmeg state. For weeks and for months there has been no end to strife, which was rendered complicated by the presence in the field as General Hawley's competitors of two of the most prominent republicans in the state, Samuel Fessenden of Stamford, member of the republican national committee, and ex-Governor Morgan G. Bulkley. The final battle took place this afternoon when the republicans of the house and senate met in a joint caucus in representative hall at 3 o'clock. The victory of General Hawley was not secured until three full hours had been consumed and nearly all of that time was occupied in balloting. Technically or officially there were seven ballots, but practically nine ballots were taken.

On the third ballot it was discovered that a total of 199 ballots had been cast. At that time, however, there were but 197 members in the caucus, and the ballot was thrown out. A new ballot was ordered, with the same result, and a third ballot was thus taken before the difficulty was removed.

Sonator Hawley was at all times in the lead, but until the final ballot was cast and counted his margin was too narrow to permit of great confidence. The first ballot found the cenator just two votes short. In other words, it required but the change of one vote to give him the nomination.

The second ballot, however, showed a loss for Hawley of four, and a corresponding gain for his nearest competitor, Mr. Fessenden. On the third ballot Fessenden gained one, and repeated it in the next two, Senator Hawley meanwhile losing seven.

On the sixth ballot Mr. Fessenden dropped two, while General Hawley was given seven of the votes which he had lost, and on the next ballot he was carried through with 117 votes, and a few minutes later the leader of the most formidable opposition moved to make it unanimous, and General Hawley was declared the nominee of the caucus amid cheers, which became deafening as they were reinforced by the throngs in the lobbles which had patiently waited during the long balloting.

The Fessenden men gave three cheers for General Hawley and Mr. Fessenden sent congratulations to the senator.

ELLERBEE WOULD STOP LYNCHING.

Makes Some Suggestions to the South Carolina Legislature. COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 11 .- The general assembly of South Carolina convened in annual session yesterday. Governor Ellerbee, in his message, took occasion to refer to a matter now much in the public mind, the subject of lynching. He says at the "During the last several years ture. outset:

there has been an apparently increasing disposition among us to attempt the righting of real or supposed wrongs by the law-break ing practice of lynching." He says it means the abolition of the regular order of steps and the destruction of social order.

Concluding, he says the remedy suggests itself. "See to it, as conservers of the peace of the state, as makers of its laws, as the guardians of its sacred honor, that its laws are so enacted and so administered that conviction and punishment shall follow crime with the certainty that links effects to causes. It is possible, it is necessary in the protection of society and vindication of justice, that a stop be put to these lega quibbles, those astute technicalities, that vice encouraging dilatoriness in the administration of justice which tends not so much to the protection of individual rights of society as to utter loss of confidence in the stability and even in the possibility of government

'As an additional measure of restraint i would be well, and I recommend that any county in which the crime of lynching is committed shall be liable to the heirs of victims of the lynchers in the sum of $5,000, and that men who shall be convicted of participation in lynching shall be deprived of the right to vote or hold office a this state."

Trade with Newly Acquired Colonies is Seriously Affected. WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 .- The State department is greatly embarrassed in dealing with numerous and important questions arising almost daily, owing to the abolition of the old consular service in the newly acquired colonies without replacement. The consuls representing European powers in Cuba, for instance, have generally been unable to discharge the functions of their consular offices and trade in some cases has been seriously obstructed. This state of affairs up to this point has affected foreign shipping chiefly, but now has come the turn of the American shippers.

Recently application was made by the master of an American vessel to Con-ul Wildman at Ponglacng for entrance to the island of Cebu, one of the Philippine group. The consul was obliged, owing to the fact hat the peace treaty has not yet been ratified, to decline to issue a certificate and as no one else was empowered to do so the vessel must forego its trip unless the officials here take a different view of the matter. As the decision undoubtedly will have a considerable effect upon a prospective valuable trade with the Philippines it is watched with some interest. In the case of the foreign consuls stationed in Cuba the Treasury department, after endeavoring to meet the temporary emergency, has been obliged to call upon the attorney general for his advice.

terest to medical science has developed out of the death of a valuable S. Bernard dog owned by Robert Cummings of Newark, N. J According to veterinarians who performed an autopsy the dog was killed by mosquitoes. In his heart was a sest of threadworms, which caused death by clogging one of the valves. These worms, the doctors say, came from mosquito eggs, which were either intected into the blood by the insect itself or taken into the system when the dog was lapping water from some stagant pool. Mr. Cummings had the automy performed because he thought the dog and been polsoned. No trace of poison was found, and the veterinarians were puzzled until Dr. Glennon opened the heart. How the worms made their way there he does not know, but he is inclined to the belief that they traveled around the system in the blood, finally lodging in the heart. Carefully removing each worm separately the doctor found that there were twenty-siven of them. One was twenty-two inches long, while its width was no greater than that of a thread. In none of the works of veternary writers, Dr. Glennon says, is there sentioned a greater length than fifteen inches, and these works cover all the known cases of threadworms in America and Europe. So rare, in fact, is the threadworm that its presence in the system is mentioned only in the latest works.

"According to Prof. Mansor," says Dr. Glennon, "mosquitoes inject the embryo of the threadworm along with the human blood. From the mosquito's stomach the worm penetrates into the dest cavity, where its migration ceases, and it goes through six stages of development. The female mosquito lays its eggs ind goes to die in the water. Then the worms travel through the tegmentary skeletor and swim freely in the water. Man or mimal may thus become infected in two ways-through Archibshop Martinelli, the delegate, has re-ceived no word to indicate Bishop Matz has worms, or through the infection of water resigned as reported. This fact, however, is holding the embryo of the parastes in sus-not significant, as Bishop Matz would tender pension."

critical state. He was interrupted by Mr. Hoar, who de sired to inquire, "Where do we get the right to use force against the people of Iloilo? I would be glad to be honored by the attention of the distinguished senator from Delaware (referring to Mr. Gray, one of the peace commissioners). We made a protocol some time in August," continued Mr. Hoar, 'under which we are still living with Spain." Mr. Hoar then read from the protoco showing that the United States would hold the bay, harbor and city of Manila until the disposition of the Philippine islands should be determined.

"That clearly implied," said Mr. Hoar, "that we will make no advance upon Spain or the Spanish people on the islands until the situation shall have been changed. If now we have the power to use the military forces against the Filipinos where does it come from?"

Mr. Gray, at whom the question of Mr. Hoar seemed to be directed, rose and said:

"I wish to remark that the question of the senator from Massachusetts answers in part the position taken in his remarks by the senator from Nebraska" (Mr. Allen.)

Technically Still at War.

After pointing out the reasons why this was true, in his opinion, Mr. Gray said that technically we were still at war with Spain. It was true that we were living under a truce, but in pursuing the war the president was simply exercising the powers that had been conferred upon him by the war-making power.

He pointed out that the only question that could arise would be as to whether we were. in making war upon the Filipinos, violating the protocol, and if there were such violation it would be a matter between the United States and Spain, without reference to anybody else.

Mr. Hoar contended it was a breach of faith to attack Spa n at Ilollo and bad policy to attack Aguinal12.

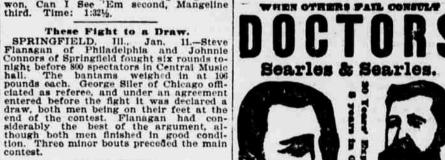

Mr. Allen replied to Mr. Cray, stating that Spain had no jurisdiction in the Philippines and that Aguinaldo's government was the only government there. His government was both a de facto and a de jure government and it had maintained itself for several years, therefore the United States did not succeed to Spain's title to the islands. Mr. Gray replied that evidently Mr. Allen was laboring under a misapprehension that this country was technically at war with Spain until the peace treaty was completed. It was true that active military operations had ceased and for this reason the United States was under the highest obligation to maintain good faith in the observance to the terms of the protoco
