BERESFORD ON OPEN DOOR

America the Greatest Gainer by the Adoption of Such a Policy.

SHUT OUT OF THE ORIENT WITHOUT IT

Each European Nation Would Monopolize the Trade in Its Sphere of Influence. Also the Gainer by the Policy.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 10.—The new Japanese liner America Maru arrived here today from China and Japan, via Honolulu, one day ahead of time. On board the vessel was Lord Charles Beresford, admiral of the British navy. The America Maru was met at the Heads by a government tugboat bearing a party of distinguished citizens who went to welcome the admiral, who comes to this country in a three-fold capacity, viz.: as a British statesman, an officer of the royal navy and a commissioner from the Associated Chambers of Commerce of England. The party landed before the vessel docked by special permission and the admiral was driven to the Palace hotel.

Lord Beresford's proposal of an 'open door' policy in the Orient has been received with great attention throughout the world and it will likely play a most prominent part in the settlement of the far eastern question. In an interview today Lord Beresford said: "It means simply that instead of 'spheres of influence,' which means the breaking up of the Chinese empire, that England, America, Germany and Japan shall by agreement maintain free and equal commercial relations for all to the Orient. It includes the reorganization of the Chinese army, offered both as to commissioned and non-commissioned officers by Europeans, that the Chinese empire may be properly policed and life and property made safe. As it is now mobs and rebellions are liable at any time to destroy both lives and property, as actually happened not long ago when about 6,000,000 taels worth of property belonging to the French mission in western China was destroyed. "China must have a revenue and the 'open door' policy, by guaranteeing order and uniformity in customs regulations and tariffs, will provide it in greater abundance than it has ever been provided before, besides insuring that it shall not be wasted as it is now. It will mean the opening up of the empire in all its provinces and the development of its wonderful resources of mining and commerce. The returns from concessions of these natural resources now lying idle will be a source of great revenue to the empire. "If the spheres of influence policy is allowed to be adopted Russia will, of course, become all powerful in the north. France in the south. England, of course, cannot get everything. Germany will get what she can, while America will probably get nothing, for though I think she is destined to be a great trading nation in the Orient, greater than Great Britain or any other country, her interests there now are comparatively slight and in the scramble it is not likely that the American people would feel the interests demanded a struggle for a portion of it at this time. But with the 'open door' her commerce is bound to grow. With the spheres of influence of course Russia would put preferential tariffs in the regions she dominated and France would do the same in her territory. I don't know whether Germany and England would or not. Thus America would be out altogether, or practically so, from the China and England from all but what she dominated. So that America really has more at stake in the 'open door' than England has. "I go from here to Chicago, New York and Washington to get the sentiment of the boards of directors of chambers of commerce there on the proposal. "Lord Beresford will remain here for some time and many receptions have been planned for his entertainment. On next Monday the Chamber of Commerce will give the distinguished gentleman a reception and he will probably be invited to give his views on some of the questions of the day, particularly on the condition of commerce in the far east and an opportunity for investment of American money. Mayor Phelan will deliver the address of welcome and other well known San Franciscans will speak.

dwelling house belonging to M. L. Rawlings in the south part of the city. The house was insured for $200 and the household goods, which were a total loss, were insured for $300. The loss on the property was $500. The fire was discovered by the night crew in the Burlington yards and had gained such a headway that it was impossible to save anything. The fire is thought to be of incendiary origin.

Explosion Causes a Fire. MANSFIELD, O., Feb. 10.—An explosion in the jannery department of the Baxter Shoe works caused a fire with a loss of $100,000, with only a small insurance. The fire burned with great rapidity and within an hour nothing but the walls remained. The severity of the weather added greatly to the difficulty of fighting the fire.

Ice and Beer Consumed. PORT DODGE, Ia., Feb. 10.—(Special Telegram.)—The cold storage house of the John Gund Brewing company at this place was burned here this morning. The building contained seventy-five tons of ice and several carloads of beer. The fire originated in an oil stove in the office. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

Several Business Blocks. LA CROSSE, Wis., Feb. 10.—A disastrous blaze in West Salem has destroyed several business blocks. The La Crosse fire department was called on for assistance, but did not arrive in time to be of service.

DEATH RECORD.

Cold Weather Claims Victim. BARNSTON, Neb., Feb. 10.—(Special Telegram.)—Frank Husa, an eccentric well-to-do Bohemian farmer about 70 years of age, was found dead today in an old livery stable office in town. He was in town late and it is supposed went there to spend the night with a Bohemian blacksmith who sleeps in the office. Husa went to sleep on the floor wrapped up in an old quilt and this morning when the blacksmith arose he found that his companion was dead. The coroner arrived here at noon, empaneled a jury and examined several witnesses. The jury brought in the verdict that Frank Husa came to his death by being exposed to the cold weather, combined with the effects of injuries received on his head while under the influence of liquor on February 9. The source of the injuries is unknown to the jury.

Black Hills Miner. DEADWOOD, S. D., Feb. 10.—(Special.)—P. J. Fogh died last night at St. Joseph's hospital, in this city, from the effects of an operation for appendicitis. He was an Iowa miner from the Elk Creek mining district, where he owned considerable valuable mining ground.

Damage was comparatively slight.

Incendiary Chooses Cold Night. WYOMING, Neb., Feb. 10.—(Special.)—With the thermometer 17 degrees below zero at 2 o'clock yesterday morning a fire broke out and totally destroyed the frame

SOUTH OMAHA NEWS.

Innumerable complaints have been lodged against the street commissioner within the last few weeks and several members of the city council have intimated that all of the lumber purchased could not be accounted for. At a recent meeting of the city council Kelly stated that he walked about the city a great deal and that he noticed but few new planks in the sidewalks. For this reason he called upon Street Commissioner Ross to explain where all of the lumber went. Ross promptly replied to the question by saying that he had checked the lumber received.

It has been suggested that an easy way out of the controversy would be to compel the street commissioner to make a report weekly, showing where lumber for sidewalk repairs had been used. These reports could be placed on file in the office of the city clerk and any property owner who felt that he was getting the worst of it could inspect the records at any time and if the tally of the street commissioner did not correspond with the property owner's measurement there would be cause for an investigation or a remonstrance. It is thought that if this practice, which it is stated is in vogue in other cities, was made a rule here there would be far less complaints about the repairs of sidewalks.

Dr. Stone has made a complaint which the street and water committee will be expected to investigate and other complaints of a similar nature have been made, but not filed. According to the bills the city is certainly buying enough lumber to keep the sidewalks in a passable condition. The great trouble, however, is that planks are frequently stolen. Not over a month ago a rod of new plank was laid on the west side of Twenty-fifth street at the intersection of J street. One plank in this new plank is now missing and others will most likely be torn up before the present cold snap is over with. However, the stealing of planks already laid will not account for the amount of lumber alleged to have been used unless the street commissioner sees fit to send to the committee on streets and alleys an itemized account of where the lumber was used. Last summer the council had to have the same members charged to have the walk on the east side of Twenty-sixth street, near the corner of M street, repaired. This walk is in a deplorable condition, as about half of the planks are missing. Orders have been issued to the street commissioner time and again, directing that a new walk be laid on this property, but nothing has been done up to the present time and now it is too cold. Since these orders were issued the street commissioner has torn up portions of walks on N street which were in fairly good condition and relaid them, and the same has been done on the property of Ross has studiously ignored the orders of the city council as regards sidewalk repairs and when questioned closely, falls back on the statement that he is obeying the orders of the mayor by doing as little work as possible during the winter. It is a fact, however, that time checks are issued by Ross for labor supposed to have been performed during some of the coldest days of the year.

Magic City Gospel. Mrs. James G. Ernie has returned from Chicago. T. G. Rice is erecting a store building at Twenty-first and W streets. An important meeting of the Eastern Star will be held at Masonic hall tonight. Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Keyes of Indianapolis, Nob., visited relatives here Wednesday. Mr. R. Stoddard, a prominent business man of Newark, Ok., is here visiting friends. The quarterly statements just published by the national banks show business in South Omaha has a healthy growth and an increase in deposits over the last statements.

Alex Williams, colored, has been sent to the county jail for thirty days for petit larceny. John F. Schultz Thirtieth and R streets, has returned from a business trip to Washington. George Miller has been sentenced to thirty days in the county jail for robbing a dummy in front of Flynn's store. T. B. Scott has sold out his business and has bought the blacksmith shop of Ray & Neff, Twenty-fifth and O streets. The cottage occupied by Jack Leonard in the alley back of the old police station was partially destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. Miss Helen Seelye has obtained a permit for a residence at Twenty-second and J streets. The cost will be in the neighborhood of $2,000. The plumbers are still kept busy on account of frozen water pipes. About half the water supply in the city is shut off on account of frozen pipes. Cudahy's employees gave a dancing party at the hall in the new city hall building last night. It was well attended and proved to be a very enjoyable affair. Major Cramer, superintendent of the post-office building, has been notified that Inspector Roberts and all Treasury department will visit South Omaha within a few days for the purpose of inspecting the new federal building. A water plug at the corner of Twenty-sixth and Q streets let go early yesterday morning and flooded a portion of the street. Before the water was shut off several cellars were filled and while the damage will not amount to a great deal the annoyance at this time amounts to a great deal. There is a scheme on foot to raise funds for the building of a hospital. The present hospital has had a hard time getting along and it is hard to say what would become of it if it were abandoned. Quite a number appear to be in favor of the idea and some steps toward forming a permanent hospital association will be taken next week. Hon. John T. Keating, national president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, will spend Sunday in this city and will deliver an address at Ancient Order of Hibernians hall, Twenty-third and N streets. A special meeting of the local lodge of Hibernians will be called and all members of this city and Omaha, are invited to attend. President Keating is a speaker of note and will doubtless make one of his interesting addresses.

Minor Matters in Court.

In a suit brought against the Union Pacific for $5,000 damages for the death of her husband, Frederick Miller, Mrs. Ardella Miller yesterday accepted a confession of judgment for $255. Her husband was a janitor employed upon a ballasting train. On December 22 last while a car was being unloaded near Avery, in Sippy county, Miller was dragged down through the trap door in the bottom of the car with the slag and killed. The winter of the county court had a curiosity yesterday in the shape of a soldier's will sent on from Manila by the War department for probate. It was the will of Fred Taylor of the Thurston Rifles, who died December 15 at Manila of typhoid fever. The will was made by Taylor April 18, his mother, Mrs. Mary N. Taylor, from whom it was inherited, is here. It bequeaths $1,000 worth of real estate and $100 worth of personal property. Dr. P. Rank has just brought suit against the Transmississippian Exposition company for $2,700 damages for alleged loss of some 100 China dogs on exhibition through being exposed to hog cholera, as he charges.

Without Any Results. City Engineer Rosenberger had a conference yesterday afternoon with President Burt of the Union Pacific, General Manager Holdrege of the E. & M., and the chief engineers of the Missouri Pacific and the Bixbeath street viaduct, but again the meeting resulted in nothing of a definite character and only a promise was made on the part of the railroad that in a few days some definite decision will be given.

CHARGE OF GRAND LARCENY

Wernamont Accused of Being Mixed Up in Theft of Typewriting Machine. H. G. Wernamont was arrested Friday afternoon and arraigned in the police court on the charge of grand larceny. He entered a plea of not guilty and his case was set for trial February 16. This case is the outgrowth of one in which Frank Johnson, alias William Nixon, was charged with the theft of a typewriter. About 5 o'clock on the afternoon of December 23 the machine disappeared from the office of Mr. Wernamont, who had it on trial. It was traced to Denver, where it was found in a box of household goods belonging to Frank Johnson, alias William Nixon, who was arrested and held for its theft. Tiring of incarceration it is alleged that Ehrhart gave the county attorney information that leads him to believe Wernamont guilty of taking the machine. Ehrhart is still in the county jail awaiting trial in the district court. Another complaint was filed against Andrew Amerson, a farmer from Polk county, who was arrested yesterday afternoon on the charge of larceny of a typewriter. On February 2 he broke into the shop of Lyon & Berquist and stole two pairs of shoes belonging to them and three pairs of trousers which were owned by Max Ege. Frank Johnson, alias William Nixon, was bound over to the district court for high-way robbery. He was accused of taking a watch and chain from Henry Johnson. Emil Hasselbach, a farmer from Polk county, was arrested yesterday afternoon on the complaint of F. M. Russell, who accused him of the larceny of $25 as balance. Russell said he bought two horses and half a set of harness from Hasselbach for $125. Being in a hurry he made the bill of sale for $120 and when his clerk wrote a check it was also for that amount. The clerk had the check cashed and gave the money to the defendant. Mr. Russell discovered the error and overtook the defendant on his way to the depot. He called his attention to the error, but the latter declined to refund the $25. Upon that Russell called an officer and had him arrested. Hasselbach, on the other hand, insists that he was arrested for the outfit and points to Russell's own bill of sale as evidence. He says the money belongs to him and declines to return any of it. He put up a $50 cash bond and was released pending the trial today.

AN ACCOUNTING IS DEMANDED.

Another Move in the Litigation Over the Drexel Estate. A suit was commenced by Sylvester Cunningham and William Thompson yesterday demanding an accounting from Horatio Fowkes and Sarah M. Fowkes, his wife, of New York, on two promissory notes amounting together to $112,500, secured by a mortgage given by Fowkes on property purchased in December, 1892, from Cunningham. The basis of the suit is the default in the payment of interest for the year 1893. Fowkes was the Drexel representative here, buying property in the interest of the estate of John Drexel, and Anthony J. Drexel was one of the biggest backers of the Omaha Bridge and Terminal company. He purchased from the Reeds $30,000 worth of property north of Nicholas street, and about the same time he bought the most of Cunningham's addition. In both instances he immediately conveyed to Edward T. Stotesbury, who in these transactions represented the Drexel interest in the Bridge and Terminal company. The Reeds obtained a judgment for notes amounting to over $250,000 in the county court last summer and their three suits are now in the district court on appeal by the Drexel heirs. Owing to the large number of parties interested in various ways Mr Cunningham makes Special Administrator Charles A. Goss of the Drexel estate, Trustees Wallace, Hall and Perkins, representing Mrs. Mary M. Reed's interest; Abraham L. Reed, Edward T. Stotesbury, the Rochester Loan and Banking company, Mrs. Maria Reed Johnson and the Bridge and Terminal company, co-defendants for the purpose of obtaining a priority of claim against Fowkes. One of the two notes was transferred by Cunningham to Thompson. They do not mature before 1903. Plaintiffs want a contingent foreclosure and sale with the account.

Says Bank Was Not Insolvent.

In the German Savings bank case Joel W. West has filed an answer in behalf of the stockholders, denying that Bank Examiner Benjamin R. Cowdery found the bank insolvent, conducted in an unsafe and unauthorized manner and in jeopardy of the interests of the depositors in his examination of July 15, 1893. His report, says the document, was simply that "the capital stock was impaired." As to the bank's condition Mr. West says it was not insolvent and that the order of the State Banking board was untwise. There were unpaid subscriptions amounting to $400,000 of which $250,000 was collectible at any time on call.

WITH DANCING AND MUSIC

Formal Opening of the Her Grand Proves to Be Something of a Social Function. The weather that Forecaster Welch has been handing out to the general public for the last few days cast a gloom over most of the entertainments set for last evening, but the formal opening of the Her Grand hotel seemed to have been but little affected by it. The old-time settlers of Omaha and many of the prominent society men and women were there by the score. This may have been because of the fact that P. E. Her is the proprietor, or it may have been due in a measure to the popularity of Manager Powell.

In the hotel arrangements for the accommodation of a large number of guests had been made and the manager was not disappointed in the attendance. During the evening the manager and his assistants were kept busy showing their guests through the building. An orchestra had been engaged for the evening and a spacious room prepared for dancing for those who were so inclined. In the safe luncheon and punch were served to the guests.

Attorney Refuses a Case.

A well known attorney who has figured prominently in a number of habeas corpus cases recently has received a request to take a case which he says he is compelled to refuse. A guest in the Vendome hotel telephoned the attorney and asked if there is not some way to get out. He said he is tired of being deprived of his liberty and does not believe the city has any right to keep him housed against his will. He ended by urging the attorney to sue out a writ of habeas corpus, which he hoped would result in giving him his liberty. The attorney promptly refused the request, saying that if he were willing to take the case he could not find a judge who would order a smallpox suspect brought before him. He is satisfied that the best thing his client can do is to take it easy and wait until the quarantine on the hotel is lifted.
