Increased Activity at Union Pacific Shops Made Possible.

COMPANY NOT DEPENDENT UPON COMBINE

Advanced Prices on Rolling Stock Likely to Force the Overland to Do More of Its Work at Home.

It isn't often one is impressed with the beneficent results of a trust, but according to an Omaha railroad man the prospective freight car trust, which is now in process of organization under the name of the American Car and Foundry company, may be of some benefit to Omaha, in that it will possibly induce the Union Pacific shops here to engage more largely in car The shops have heretofore built a number of cars, but had not made a specialty of this work because of lack of proper This condition can easily be machinery. improved if the organization of the trust is followed by any noticeable increase in the price of box cars.

The incorporation will include nearly all the big car companies in the country save those of the Pullman and Wagner people, and these are so enormous in themselves it is not felt to endanger the purpose of the consolidated concern if they do not enter it. It is believed they can be depended upon to abide by an agreement without necessarily becoming active parties to a contract. The annual capacity of the united companies will be $5,000 freight cars, 500 passenger coaches, 820,000 wheels, 125,000 tons of castings, 30,000 tons of pipe, and 90,000 tons of bar iron. The capital stock of the concern will be $60,-000,000, and of this amount $4,800,000 will be held in the treasury with which to purchase other properties and to make im-

It has been re-the company contemplated putting in new machinery, but this has lately been officially denied, although it is not unreasonable to suppose that when the operations of the trust make the price of rolling stock higher than the cost at which the company can build its own cars that the needed machinery will at once be put in and car building made one of the features of the work at the shops in this city. Under these conditions the officials of the Union Pacific, especially in the operating department, are watching the progress of the formation of this gigantic trust with some interest.

NORFOLK MERCHANTS COMPLAIN Contend that Rates from South Sioux

City Are Too High. Protests by business men at Norfolk that freight rates to that point from South Sioux City are too high is to receive attention by the powers influencing such matters Some time ago complaint was made that the merchants there could not buy goods in Omaha because the rates from this city were higher than from Sioux City (which is the real basic point, instead of South Sioux City). This was taken up with the roads and after some faithful plugging Omaha was given the same rate as Sioux City, although the latter is much nearer

Then Norfolk found complaint in that those merchants who desired to trade at Sioux City were discriminated against in rates, because they had to pay the same as other merchants who traded in Omaha which is the more remote point. The agitation was kept up until the State Board of Transportation took it up, and the latest phase of the agitation is the appearance in this city of H. M. Pearce of St. Paul, who is the general freight agent of the Omaha road. His trip at this time is to go over the rate situation with the interested parties, and seek to remedy the defects in the present tariff if he finds any.

Business on the Increase.

The American Refrigerator Transportation company has found its business in this locallty increasing to such extent that it has sent an assistant to take part of the work from the shoulders of J. O. Phillippi, its local agent. F. G. Savage of Kansas City has been selected for this position and he will have his office in the Missouri Pacific at Fourteenth and Douglas streets. Mr. Savage will be a traveling agent and his territory will embrace South Dakota, western Iowa and northwestern Missouri. Mr. Phillippi will still retain personal jurisdiction over the entire territory and will have direct charge of the Nebraska

YATES REPLIES TO PENFOLD

Produces Figures to Show What He Expends in Paying Taxes.

OMAHA, Feb. 11.—To the Editor of The Bee: My attention has been directed to a communication in The Bee of Friday, entitled, "Penfold on the School Levy," in hesitate to recommend Cramer's Kidney and though I dislike, as anyone may know, to market. discuss in this manner a purely personal atter. The reference, however, to the taxes paid by me is made by the writer to serve a special purpose in which the public is interested, and my reply, therefore, is in the interest of the public as well as that of common truth and candor. When a president of a Board of Education submits statements with figures to support them, he is naturally accredited with some knowledge of what he is talking about and would at least be supposed to give correctly information easily obtained by any one. In this communication it is stated that my home "and grounds surrounding" were only taxed $362 for 1898 and that I paid "about $20 in personal taxes, and a total of only $1,342 upon property worth $250,000." If this statement is correct, then it is evident that I am shirking my taxes, and in so doing am assisted by the tax commissioner. How far, however, the figures given differ from the truth will appear by the following taken from the tax receipts in my possession. The total taxes for city purposes alone the figures given by Mr. Penfold convey the impression that they include county and state as well as city) upon my residence and the grounds enclosed therewith for 1898

Under the levy adopted by the council of 25 mills upon an increased valuation it will be $678, an increase of $118, or 21 per cent. f the further increase to 29 mills is accepted by the council it will be $786.48, an ncrease of $226, or 40 per cept more than

The figures given in my personal case may be of some service to other taxpayers who have not given the subject the same attention. This increase may be a small matter to me, as suggested by Mr. Penfold, who probably thinks from his standpoint of personal interests only, but there is a much arger question involved. The increase does not affect me alone, but touches every man who pays taxes, and aggregates a sum that our already tax-burdened community is not able to stand. In this matter of increased taxation I stated at the council meeting only what very man, intimately acquainted with the IF financial resources of the city, knows to be fact. There are limits to forbearance, and he army of tax-eaters should be met firmly and unitedly by those who must sustain the burden of city government (or misgovernment), or else something worse than abuse and misrepresentation may be the consequence in the early future. We have managed to maintain our credi as a city, and as a banker I believe it will be conceded that I have done my full duty in this respect, and I shall continue to do so to the best of my ability and influence, but this pressure upon our only real resources should be lightened instead of being increased at this particular time, which may prove to be a critical period in the HENRY W. YATES. city's history.

Attitude of German Naval Officers is Said to Be Friendly and Press is Condemned for Alleged Misrepresentations.

BERLIN, Feb. 11 .- In the Reichstag tomated his readiness to reply forthwith. In introducing the interpellation Count Von Kanitz referred to the prohibitive effects of the Dingley bill and contrasted the decrease American exports. He said that to denounce the treatles containing the favored nation clause was now scarcely necessary, as the Americans no longer fully observed their reaty. The Americans, he added, must be made o understand that the Germans had no need whatever to obtain their whole list of neces saries from them alone. If one country losed its markets to another, good commercial relations could not permanently continue. In this connection it was in the interest of German agriculture to uphold the purchasing power of the country against American measures. A tariff war was certainly undesirable, but in the event of such a struggle, America, owing to the greater volume of its imports, had much more to lose than Germany. The count concluded with expressing the hope that the federal Charles R. Higgins, Omaha 23 energetically. His remarks were applauded by the rightists.

Reply of the Minister.

Baron von Buelow replied that it was imossible in view of pending negotiations to make an exhaustive declaration of the position taken by the German and American governments. In the specific question, Germany's differences with America were mainly attributable to conflicting interpretations of the favored nation treatment assured by the treaty of 1828. (Loud conservative interruptions.)

The baron then read part of the treaty and ontinued: "The German government has always considered these clauses of the treaty as implying unlimited most favored nation reatment for Germany in all tariff questions. Concessions of any other kind which the United States might grant to a third state, in return for some special compensation, Germany would only claim if it made a corresponding return to the United States. From this view is based the well-welghed meaning and text of the treaties. Germany cannot recede from this position."

In the course of his speech Baron Von Suclow emphatically declared that Germany nly intended to protect the life and property of Germans in the Philippine islands and added: "Now we have no fears, we are convinced that our countrymen in the Phil-

In denying the statements made regardng German intrigues with Aguinaldo and he Fifipines and the story about the German consul at Hong Kong supplying arms and ammunition to the Filipinos, Baron von Buelow said: "Those are among the fattest canards that ever fluttered out of a duck pond. The relations between the German and American paval officers at Manila were not only friendly throughout, but were mutually courteous." (Cheers.)

The baron then referred to the July 4 speech of the United States ambassador here, Andrew D. White, which he said did lay Count Von Kanitz, the agrarian leader, Germany justice. The minister afterwards at the instance of the German government, spoke of the "perfidious press representainterpellated the government on the ques- tives of both countries," and enumerated tion of the commercial relations between the many historical ties between the two na-United States and Germany.
