ON THE HIGH SEAS.

American Scamen Subjected to Wanton Brutalities. The personal treatment accorded the seaman by American ships' officers, says a writer in the Forum, is the most oppressive, because the most acute, feature of his life. Extreme brutality is the rule, almost without exception. It is a standing charge against our maritime law that it requires no qualification other than that of citizenship on the part of sailing-ship officers. In this respect the United States stands alone among maritime nations of any consequence. The result is that the men in authority on board American ships are chosen for their ability to "drive," i. e., to beat, the men under them, rather than for their ability as seamen and navigators. The reputation thus attained finds its sequence in an esprit de corps leading to the commission of the most wanton brutalities conceivable by minds trained to ingenious methods of inflicting torture upon their subordinates, and undeterred by the fear of consequences, social or

The frequent recurrence of seamen's charges against ships' officers, and the monotonous regularity with which these charges are dismissed by the courts, has created a feeling of indifference, and even scepticism, on the part of the public. The charges made by the seaman appear incredible when judged by the standard of conduct prevailing on land. But it must be remembered that the standard prevailing at sea is one of practical slavery, in which a Legree is an actual personification. An investigation shows that during the last eleven years more than 100 ships' crews have brought charges against their officers in ports of the United States alone. This list includes only those cases that have come most prominently before the public. Characteristic features of this record are: Fifteen deaths resulted from the treatment received; many cases resulted in the loss of limbs, eyes, or teeth, and in other injuries of a permanent character, including insanity; several suicides are attributed to persecution; only seven convictions were obtained, and, with one exception, the penalties inflicted were merely nominal; the name of certain ships and their officers recur frequently in the list. At the present moment an American boy named Amos Stone, a native of Boston, and the son of respectable parents, is an inmate of a lunatic asylum at Seattle, Wash., as the result of treatment received at the hands of the officers of an American ship. Another American boy, Epraim W. Clark, has been confined in Thomason (Maine) penitentiary for more than twenty-three years for mutiny under circumstances of the most extreme provocation. Such cases contain a sufficient explanation of the native American's aversion to the sea.

It can hardly be expected that any important portion of these securities will be returned to Europe at the present range of prices; there is no idea, however, among houses directly connected with these realizations that they are intended to be permanent, but rather that any important drop in prices would bring out considerable buying orders from London and Berlin.

Europe Has Unloaded.

This reflux of securities does not appear to be due merely to the condition of the European money markets, nor to any discrimination against American investments. The fall, in prices on the New York Stock exchange at the outbreak of the war caused large purchases of our stocks by London and Berlin and the great ries following the close of the war has yielded handsome profits on the operations, which are now being realized. This seems to be the whole explanation of the movement, which has not only exchange at the outbreak of the movement, which has not only exchange at the outbreak of the movement against the contract.

These liquidations, however, can hardly have sufficed to fully offset what Europe is owing us on open account, but they have, for the present at least, averted remittances of gold to this country which might have produced a serious stringency in London and the continental money centers.

however, is that Europe is, after a pretty long postponement of payment, settling for its food purchases from us by the remit-tance of its investments and it is more fortunate for them than for us that they have been able to do so upon such favorable terms. We have the advantage of buying from our creditors a considerable amount of our long obligations, but the disadvantage of paying a very high premium on them. It is not easy to see what just occasion European critics can find for discrediting our investments, when, after keeping them a few years they can realize upon them at such handsome advances. This experience, however, may be expected to bring these lucky people into our market again when a new

"Both the writer of the letter and the recipient had lived many years on the Pacific coast, and each knew the jargon known as chinook, a sort of lingo invented by the Hudson Bay company for facilitating trade with the Indians. The officer, unfortunately as it proved, in a spirit of fun, wrote his friend in chinook, and the letter was intercepted by order of Secretary Stanton, who had authorized this course regarding the congressman's mail. The epistle was opened and there was this outlandish hotchpotch of words that no one could make out.

"The upshot of it was that Stanton sent for the congressman intending to give him the letter in the presence of several witnesses, not doubting that he would be overcome by such direct evidence of his guilt. The suspected man came to the secretary's office, not dreaming of the reason of his summons. Immediately he was handed the letter and asked to give an explicit account of its contents. Notwithstanding that Europe has thus liquidated nearly $70,000,000 of its floating obligations to us, there is probably a large amount still outstanding. After balancing all items of the debtor and creditor accounts between this and other countries for the year 1898 there must have been same $150,000,000 remaining due to this country. The bond and stock remittances of the last six weeks have but half liquidated that balance and at that rate there should still remain a large sum payable to us on demaod in gold.
