opposition. He expressed the opinion that whatever the United States might do, it would not follow the policy indicated by the resolution. This country was under no obligation to go to the expense of establishing a government for the islands, the United States were not in the business of capturing coun tries, educating their people and then selling On the contrary, he thought we them. should hold the Philippines and thus render the United States independent of other countries in the production of tropleal products which must otherwise be a source of great expense. Now it costs $250,000,000 to secure these products. "Why not, therefore, hold these islands and produce our own fruits, he asked. ete?"

Mr. Lindsay also expressed the opinion that the time was inauspicious for the adoption of any resolution bearing upon the subject of the government of the Philippines, but said that if any expression were to be given it should be clear and distinct and unmistakable in terms. Mr. Lindsay offered a w substitute reciting that the acquisition of territory carried no constitutional obligation to admit it as a state.

Mr. Lindsay gave notice that he would ask the senate to vote on his resolution as soon ins the senate had voted on the McEnery · resolution.

Declares it "Vicious Declaration."

Mr. Bacon then addressed the senate in opposition to the McEnery resolution. He declared that it was a vicious and unfortunate declaration. He maintained that the resolution meant nothing favorable to the Filipinos. It did not look to the future freedom and safe government of the Philippines. He regarded it as simply a declaration that while the Filipinos were subjects of this country they could never become citizens of the United States.

Mr. Hoar was opposed to the McEnery resolution, because it gave no hope of freedom or liberty or self-government to the inhabitants of the Philippines and because it provided that they should never have a part in their own government or ever become a part of the United States.

It was, he said, an infamous declaration simply that the Louisiana sugar planters should never be afraid of the competition of the Philippine islands. To the Filipinos the McEnery resolution would be a mesmage of tyranny, of hate, of oppression and of slaughter. Mr. Hoar reverted to references in speeches referring to Aguinaldo, and then entered upon a defense of the Filipino leader. He spoke of Aguinaldo's appeal to the people of the United States so remarkable as to be capable of being drafted by "not ten men on this planet."

'I do not see." said Mr. Hoar, feelingly, "how any American heart not of stone could fail to recognize the force of that appeal display of power was unprecedented.

Mr. Hoar said he was perfectly satisfied with his course in the whole question regarding the Philippines, but that he was right

"I am satisfied," said he, "to stand with the fathers who founded our liberty and framed our constitution."

Mr. Hale said he had not much hope that the senate would take any course that would stop the desolating program now being carried out in the Philippines.

Hardly had the treaty been ratified, howover, before a foreign war was precipitated. 'I am not disappointed," he said.

"I am not inclined to say, 'I told you so,' but I told senators when the treaty was ratified that it would be impossible to take any steps to alleviate the condition of the Filipinos. Congress will adjourn and the war will go on, and there is not a man who enth New York volunteers, in Porto Rico will not realize in three months that it is yesterday a war of conquest and subjugation."

Good Heathens Are Dead Filipinos.

He said that Admiral Dewey and General Merritt had said that in three months not 5,060 troops would be needed in the Philip pines, yet we now had 20,000 men there and 7.000 more and the battleship Oregon on the way.
