

NEW BOOKS OF THE MONTH

Works on Current History and Descriptive of Newly Acquired Provinces.

VOLUMES FOR ALL CLASSES OF READERS

An Abundance of Valuable and Entertaining Fiction for Readers Both Young and Old—Halstead's Account of the Philippines.

The stirring events of the last twelve months have furnished an abundance of material for the writers of current history, as well as works of fiction. The Spanish war has proven an almost inexhaustible mine and it would seem as if the makers of books would never tire of telling, or the public would never tire of reading about, the events of the Spanish war.

Another work of this same character and one that is bound to attract attention by reason of the prominence of the author is "The Story of the Philippines," by Murat Halstead. The veteran newspaper man has gone to the bottom of the subject, sparing no pains in research, and the result of his observations are set forth in this volume which will be found most interesting reading at the present time.

A book on the Nicaragua canal project is certainly very timely in view of the discussions that have been carried on in congress and through the columns of the daily press. To meet the general desire for reliable and full information bearing upon this great project Henry I. Sheldon of Chicago has published a second enlarged edition of his "Notes on the Nicaragua Canal."

"Some Persons Unknown" is the title of a volume of stories by E. W. Hornung. The stories are good and in addition to being well written touch the deeper springs of human feeling in many a case and illustrate more or less unconventional types of human nature. Charles Scribner's Sons, New York, Cl. 125.

"Through the Year," books I and II, by Anna M. Clyde and Lillian Wallace, are two delightful little books intended as supplementary school reading for third and fourth year pupils.

"The Cruise of Cachalot," by Frank T. Bullen, is a graphic story of the adventures of the crew of a South sea whaler which started from New Bedford and circumnavigated the globe. Mr. Bullen has given the public one of the most complete and most interesting accounts of a voyage ever published.

It has been observed that a story containing an appropriate and striking illustration of a moral truth is the pleasantest and surest medium of enforcing a character lesson. Such a story attracts the attention, stimulates interest and causes conviction. Dr. Banks has incorporated this idea that proverbs are better teachers than platitudes in his new book, "Anecdotes and Morals."

An Emblem of Purity that brings in its train all the good things of life. Withania Water. Pure, sparkling and delicious. Recommended by best physicians and sold everywhere.

and in 1897 was invited to deliver the centennial address on the death of Edmund Burke in both London and Dublin. He has traveled and lectured in this country, and his travels seem with appropriate reference to America, the scene being laid in part in New York and Chicago. The Century Co., New York.

"The Knight of the Golden Chain," by R. D. Chetwode, is an English romance of the twelfth century and is quite as affluent in adventure as could reasonably be expected of a story of that period. It is the story of the younger of two orphan brothers of a noble family, who, to save the family estates from a complication, permits himself to be charged with a murder committed by the elder and heir of the house. The occurrence is placed in 1135, when King Stephen was the lord of England and Matilda, daughter of the first Henry, and known as the Countess of Anjou, was plotting for the crown. Escaping from prison after an incarceration of two years the young man found Stephen a prisoner in Bristol castle and Matilda the sovereign of England.

"Katharine Conway" is the title of a new work of fiction by Margaret E. Blackburn, who is already known to quite a circle of readers as the author of "Things a Pastor's Wife May Do." "Katharine Conway" is the story of a young woman, the youngest of a large family, very deeply interested in all charitable and religious works. An older sister, the reverse of the heroine in character, plots to marry the young Chicago millionaire who is deeply in love with Katharine, but the scheme fails and the story ends most happily. Charles Wells Moulton, Buffalo, Cl. 125.

Florence Converse is a new southern author and a promising one, if her recent volume, "Diana Victor," may be taken as an indication. It is a story of New Orleans, the White mountains and Boston, and portrays both southerners and northerners. The writer is naturally most at home in the domestic life, with its striking incidents, and she has written a most interesting and readable story of a young woman, the youngest of a large family, very deeply interested in all charitable and religious works.

"Some Persons Unknown" is the title of a volume of stories by E. W. Hornung. The stories are good and in addition to being well written touch the deeper springs of human feeling in many a case and illustrate more or less unconventional types of human nature. Charles Scribner's Sons, New York, Cl. 125.

"Through the Year," books I and II, by Anna M. Clyde and Lillian Wallace, are two delightful little books intended as supplementary school reading for third and fourth year pupils. The topics selected are those which are most seasonable for the several divisions of the calendar. They follow through the procession of the months that make up the year, from germination and seed-making; the life history of the moth and butterfly; the history of a little drop of water that "within the ocean lay," through all its varied changes into vapor, rain, hail, snow, ice, etc., the winds and their work; also the work of the sun and rain, and appropriate history lessons clustering around the lives of the great men whose birthdays we celebrate, as Lincoln and Washington, and the important national holidays of Thanksgiving, Christmas, Decoration day, Flag day, etc.

"The Cruise of Cachalot," by Frank T. Bullen, is a graphic story of the adventures of the crew of a South sea whaler which started from New Bedford and circumnavigated the globe. Mr. Bullen has given the public one of the most complete and most interesting accounts of a voyage ever published. The author's style is simple and direct, and his descriptions are full of life and interest. The book is a valuable addition to our literature of foreign countries. A. C. McClurg & Co., Chicago, Cl. 125.

"The Cruise of Cachalot," by Frank T. Bullen, is a graphic story of the adventures of the crew of a South sea whaler which started from New Bedford and circumnavigated the globe. Mr. Bullen has given the public one of the most complete and most interesting accounts of a voyage ever published. The author's style is simple and direct, and his descriptions are full of life and interest. The book is a valuable addition to our literature of foreign countries. A. C. McClurg & Co., Chicago, Cl. 125.

It has been observed that a story containing an appropriate and striking illustration of a moral truth is the pleasantest and surest medium of enforcing a character lesson. Such a story attracts the attention, stimulates interest and causes conviction. Dr. Banks has incorporated this idea that proverbs are better teachers than platitudes in his new book, "Anecdotes and Morals."

An Emblem of Purity that brings in its train all the good things of life. Withania Water. Pure, sparkling and delicious. Recommended by best physicians and sold everywhere.

and in 1897 was invited to deliver the centennial address on the death of Edmund Burke in both London and Dublin. He has traveled and lectured in this country, and his travels seem with appropriate reference to America, the scene being laid in part in New York and Chicago. The Century Co., New York.

"The Knight of the Golden Chain," by R. D. Chetwode, is an English romance of the twelfth century and is quite as affluent in adventure as could reasonably be expected of a story of that period. It is the story of the younger of two orphan brothers of a noble family, who, to save the family estates from a complication, permits himself to be charged with a murder committed by the elder and heir of the house. The occurrence is placed in 1135, when King Stephen was the lord of England and Matilda, daughter of the first Henry, and known as the Countess of Anjou, was plotting for the crown. Escaping from prison after an incarceration of two years the young man found Stephen a prisoner in Bristol castle and Matilda the sovereign of England.

"Katharine Conway" is the title of a new work of fiction by Margaret E. Blackburn, who is already known to quite a circle of readers as the author of "Things a Pastor's Wife May Do." "Katharine Conway" is the story of a young woman, the youngest of a large family, very deeply interested in all charitable and religious works. An older sister, the reverse of the heroine in character, plots to marry the young Chicago millionaire who is deeply in love with Katharine, but the scheme fails and the story ends most happily. Charles Wells Moulton, Buffalo, Cl. 125.

Florence Converse is a new southern author and a promising one, if her recent volume, "Diana Victor," may be taken as an indication. It is a story of New Orleans, the White mountains and Boston, and portrays both southerners and northerners. The writer is naturally most at home in the domestic life, with its striking incidents, and she has written a most interesting and readable story of a young woman, the youngest of a large family, very deeply interested in all charitable and religious works.

"Some Persons Unknown" is the title of a volume of stories by E. W. Hornung. The stories are good and in addition to being well written touch the deeper springs of human feeling in many a case and illustrate more or less unconventional types of human nature. Charles Scribner's Sons, New York, Cl. 125.

"Through the Year," books I and II, by Anna M. Clyde and Lillian Wallace, are two delightful little books intended as supplementary school reading for third and fourth year pupils. The topics selected are those which are most seasonable for the several divisions of the calendar. They follow through the procession of the months that make up the year, from germination and seed-making; the life history of the moth and butterfly; the history of a little drop of water that "within the ocean lay," through all its varied changes into vapor, rain, hail, snow, ice, etc., the winds and their work; also the work of the sun and rain, and appropriate history lessons clustering around the lives of the great men whose birthdays we celebrate, as Lincoln and Washington, and the important national holidays of Thanksgiving, Christmas, Decoration day, Flag day, etc.

"The Cruise of Cachalot," by Frank T. Bullen, is a graphic story of the adventures of the crew of a South sea whaler which started from New Bedford and circumnavigated the globe. Mr. Bullen has given the public one of the most complete and most interesting accounts of a voyage ever published. The author's style is simple and direct, and his descriptions are full of life and interest. The book is a valuable addition to our literature of foreign countries. A. C. McClurg & Co., Chicago, Cl. 125.

"The Cruise of Cachalot," by Frank T. Bullen, is a graphic story of the adventures of the crew of a South sea whaler which started from New Bedford and circumnavigated the globe. Mr. Bullen has given the public one of the most complete and most interesting accounts of a voyage ever published. The author's style is simple and direct, and his descriptions are full of life and interest. The book is a valuable addition to our literature of foreign countries. A. C. McClurg & Co., Chicago, Cl. 125.

"The Cruise of Cachalot," by Frank T. Bullen, is a graphic story of the adventures of the crew of a South sea whaler which started from New Bedford and circumnavigated the globe. Mr. Bullen has given the public one of the most complete and most interesting accounts of a voyage ever published. The author's style is simple and direct, and his descriptions are full of life and interest. The book is a valuable addition to our literature of foreign countries. A. C. McClurg & Co., Chicago, Cl. 125.

It has been observed that a story containing an appropriate and striking illustration of a moral truth is the pleasantest and surest medium of enforcing a character lesson. Such a story attracts the attention, stimulates interest and causes conviction. Dr. Banks has incorporated this idea that proverbs are better teachers than platitudes in his new book, "Anecdotes and Morals."

An Emblem of Purity that brings in its train all the good things of life. Withania Water. Pure, sparkling and delicious. Recommended by best physicians and sold everywhere.

CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Members Start In To Do A Little Cutting Down of Expenses.

REDUCTION OF THE COMPTROLLER'S FORCE

Scheme to Plant Gas Lights Strikes a Snag by Mayor Introducing a Veto and Calling Attention to Condition of Funds.

The city council convened Tuesday night shortly after 7 o'clock and hustled business through in order to permit the members to attend the state legislature. The mayor presided and the first order of business was a report of the State Superintendent of Public Schools of the State of Maine, by W. W. Stetson, state superintendent of schools, Augusta, Me.

Literary Notes. Houghton, Mifflin & Co. will issue in the near future a second edition of "The Magic of the Horns," a volume of folk-lore notes, by Robert Means Lawrence. All lovers of the woods and fields will hail with delight the appearance of "How to Know the Ferns," a volume of the same author, which, during the few years that it has elapsed since its appearance, has reached the extraordinary sale of 40,000 copies.

Mrs. Spafford's "Heater Stanley at St. Marks," lately issued in a new edition by Little, Brown & Co., contains the whole story of Samoa, together with facts about the islands not to be found elsewhere. They were all told to the writer by the late Chief Mamea, who negotiated the existing treaty. The heroine of the book, it will be remembered, was a child sent from Samoa to be educated in America.

The next volume in Messrs. Houghton, Mifflin & Co.'s Cambridge edition of the poets will be devoted to Milton. Its editor is Mr. William Austin Moody, of the University of Chicago, a comparatively recent graduate of Harvard, and it is said that his work will be followed shortly by an edition of Keats, prepared by the general editor of the Cambridge series, Mr. Horace E. Scudder.

Mr. Frederic Palmer, who is a well known journalist, has written a book on the Klondike which includes the account of a winter journey, as well as of a winter residence, in that famous mining field. Mr. Palmer has told the interesting story of his adventurous trip in a capital and successful manner, and in giving us the best picture that has yet been drawn of a Klondike mining town. His book, which is to be published by Scribner's, will be published by the Scribners.

Following the "Memoirs of Alphonse Daudet," issued last fall, Little, Brown & Co. continue their edition of Daudet's works with "The Nabob," translated by George Burnham Ives, with introduction by Brander Matthews. The novel is accounted one of Daudet's masterpieces, and is "Nana Roustan." It is a brilliant picture of Parisian life under the second empire. The work was first issued in French, and has since reached a sale in France of over 160,000 copies.

A work which will be awaited with great interest by the Jewish community is the "Lagerlofs," "The Miracles of Antichrist," what is known as the "Kabbalah," and "The Story of the Stars." The first book, "The Stars," by Elmer Truesdell Merrill, M. A., professor of Latin language and literature at Cornell university, is a translation from the Greek Lyric Poets, Vol. I. "The Melle Poets," edited by Herbert Weil, Ph. D., professor of Greek at Bryn Mawr college.

Of Course You Eat—And it isn't always convenient to go home for lunch—there may be other places—but you won't find in Omaha the equal to Baldwin's for quiet, excellence and cheapness. You should remember that we have reduced our former prices just half—which makes our economy Pork Tenderloin Saute, with mushrooms, 25c; Lobster Pate, 25c; Fried Pike with Tomato Sauce, 15c; Cream Puffs, 15c; Chocolates and Coffee, 15c & 10c.

THE RIDE FROM SOUTH MEASURE TO ALLIANCE

Waltston was to have been shot for the murder of his uncle, and came to the execution grounds, had promised to do, he had been at liberty pending final action by the court.

LOST THE MONEY AT CARDS

Cashier Cooley Said to Have Gambled Away Railroad Funds Entrusted to His Care.

Friends who have been working in behalf of Thomas H. Cooley, late cashier of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha road in this city, have learned that a good portion of the funds which he is reported to be short was lost in playing cards in the quarters of the Jacksonian club. They are so certain of this that a prominent member of the club was given a position with the suggestive remark that since the money had been dissipated in that way the club members will be expected to assist in getting Cooley out of his trouble.

Cooley was a member of the Jacksonian club and often visited it in the evening, frequently participating in a game of cards. The rules of the club provide against gambling in the quarters, but "this matter is left largely to the discretion of the steward," as one member expresses it. The steward when seen stated positively that Cooley played cards in the club rooms a number of times, but he did not notice whether any large sum of money was lost. The steward volunteered further that Cooley was in the club room Friday or Saturday evening prior to his disappearance. He could not be positive which date, he said. It is alleged that on Saturday evening Cooley had between $400 and $500 on his person and often visited it in the evening, frequently participating in a game of cards. The steward when seen stated positively that Cooley played cards in the club rooms a number of times, but he did not notice whether any large sum of money was lost.

No demand has been made upon Cooley yet for the funds which he is alleged to be short, because it is not known absolutely just what amount will be required to square his accounts. The auditors of all the roads have been completing their check and as soon as the end is reached, the surety company will receive a demand from the several roads for the funds. It is now said that the shortage will approximate $40,000. Cooley is staying at a hotel with a friend who were in company night and day. Friends have been endeavoring to raise enough to meet the shortage and it is understood that one man has guaranteed that if they will advance enough to help Cooley out of his trouble he will undertake personally to see that it is repaid.

WILD WEST SHOW IN COURT

Partners Have a Falling Out and Serious Charges Are Alleged.

The "Great Omaha Wild West Show" is yet to have its day of troubles in court. A suit has just been started by three of the parties interested in the show and against all the members of the show. The suit is for the recovery of a large sum of money which was advanced to the show by the plaintiffs and which has not been repaid. The suit is for the recovery of a large sum of money which was advanced to the show by the plaintiffs and which has not been repaid.

ASSISTANT ENGINEER RESIGNS

Another reduction in city forces was effected by the resignation of Assistant City Engineer August Stenger. Stenger presented his resignation to the council to take effect March 1. A motion to accept the resignation was not seconded and on motion the resignation was referred to the council to take effect March 1. A motion to accept the resignation was not seconded and on motion the resignation was referred to the council to take effect March 1.

SELICK TRIAL ON IN COURT

The trial of John Selick for shooting Conrad Kneess last September was commenced Tuesday. In the evidence it came out that Selick and Kneess had trouble over some property at Tenth and Charles streets, and both men used their pistols in the quarrel. Selick was a renter from John Dillon and Kneess squatted on the land. The quarrel arose over an attempt by Selick to chop down a fence. The charge was simply "shooting with intent to wound," as Kneess recovered in a short time and there was no testimony to prove that Selick had intended to kill him. Selick's defense was that he shot in self-defense, but the prosecution had witnesses to show that Kneess was in a stepping position at the time the latter took place.

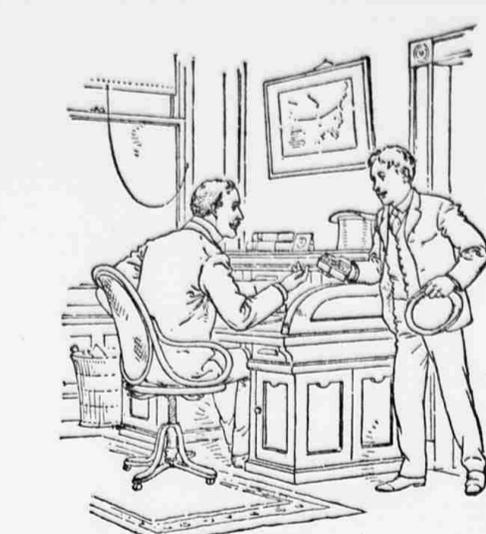

MINOR MATTERS IN COURT

The will of Edwin H. Davis, late of Chicago, has been admitted to probate. Davis died last July leaving $5,000 worth of Omaha real estate. There are no heirs in this city. Judge Sleigh has committed Louise Spade, a negro girl, to the industrial school at Geneva for incorrigibility. She is a daughter of Louis Spade, and the father was in court to urge this disposition of the girl. Arguments are in progress before Judge Dickinson in the suit of Arthur E. English against Nelson W. Hayes over a formula for a new preparation of kalmecine. English says he was drawn into an agreement with Hayes to pay a royalty to the latter and hire him, and then discovered he had no patent. English then advanced money for a caveat. He asks that Hayes be restrained from transferring his rights over to third parties.

RAILWAY TAXATION BILL PASSES

LANSING, Mich., Feb. 28.—The Pingree-Atkinson railway taxation bill has passed the house by a vote of 72 to 23. The bill of Edwin H. Davis, late of Chicago, has been admitted to probate. Davis died last July leaving $5,000 worth of Omaha real estate. There are no heirs in this city. Judge Sleigh has committed Louise Spade, a negro girl, to the industrial school at Geneva for incorrigibility. She is a daughter of Louis Spade, and the father was in court to urge this disposition of the girl.

CABSTORIA. The Kind You Have Always Bought. Signature of Dr. J. C. Atkinson.

The chances are nine in ten that the office boy will bring a cake of Ivory Soap if sent for "a cake of good soap." But be sure of it. Each cake of Ivory Soap is stamped "Ivory."

IT FLOATS. COPYRIGHT 1898 BY THE PROCTER & GAMBLE CO. CINCINNATI

MINING IN THE BLACK HILLS

New Syndicate Begins Operations in Search of Gold and Copper On the Side.

DEADWOOD, S. D., Feb. 28.—(Special)—James Lussen, general manager of the Detroit and Deadwood mining syndicate, has made final payment of $12,000 on operations on the copper mine in Deadwood. This syndicate purchased over 100 acres of land, partly within the city limits of Deadwood, a few weeks ago, the price paid being $125,000. The syndicate ran a prospective tunnel several hundred feet into the mountainside, which will have to be run back about 1,000 feet to strike the copper ledge. This tunnel is run to open up the ore ledge nearer the water level, where it is expected to be much wider and richer. The copper ore found in the upper tunnel averaged from 8 to 10 per cent copper, which would make a paying investment as it is. The company intends to determine the extent of the ore ledge as far as possible before erecting the proposed smelter.

The syndicate is operating in the Black Hills. Copper ore is the principal metal which the company is working at, but it is almost certain that a rich gold mine will be opened up at the same time with the copper. Following alongside with the copper ledge is a wide ledge of free-milling gold ore which assays from $3.50 to $8 a ton. The ledge follows the copper vertical down and it is expected that when the thousand-foot tunnel is finished that the gold ledge will be found to be much larger and richer. The company intends to erect some sort of a smelter at the mine as soon as the ledge is sufficiently developed to guarantee the output of several hundred thousand dollars. Everything needed for the smelting of the ore will be found in the mine. Iron is one of the essentials and the sulphides and copper can be mined directly to the smelting works and the gold values can be extracted with very little cost. The tunnel is to be run by air drills which will cut through to the copper ledge in about three months. This same Detroit syndicate is operating in the Two B district. A shaft is being put down to quartzite and there are only a few feet left yet before the lower contact is reached. A year of drifting on quartzite will be done if necessary to find ore.

PROSPECT OF MINERS' STRIKE

MASSILLON, O., Feb. 28.—William Morgan, president of the Massillon Miners' union, has issued a call for a convention on March 15. He says that under no condition will the miners of this district accept 1 cent less than the present price, which was agreed upon for another year by the interstate convention, at which the Hocking Valley was not represented. "We are prepared for a long and bitter struggle," he said, "to retain what we have gained."

IF YOU STUDY THE MAP

or anything else your eyes are liable to become affected and your head may ache. The proper remedy for such eye ills is a pair of properly fitted glasses. Dr. McCarty, the eye specialist, succeeds where others fail—and will guarantee to furnish glasses that will prove their worth.

DR. MCCARTHY, THE EYE SPECIALIST. 413-414 KARBACH BLOCK, OMAHA. Examinations Free.

HOSPE MUST HAVE THE ROOM

On account of some heavy shipments of pianos expected the end of this week, he proposes to clean out all of the used pianos, both square and upright. One Fry piano, price $32. Terms, $5 cash; $4 per month. One Gilbert piano, price $37. Terms, $5 cash; $4 per month. One Emerson piano, price $48. Terms, $5 cash; $4 per month. One Schumacher piano, price $58. Terms, $10 cash; $5 per month. One Knaube square piano, price $65. Terms, $10 cash; $6 per month.

A. HOSPE

We celebrate our 25th business anniversary Oct. 23rd, 1899.

Music and Art. 1513 Douglas.

Plenty of Snow to Shovel—

Plenty of water this spring—that don't concern Drexel Shoes—our light weight calf and heavy weight doulgosa shoes are the ideal spring and wet weather foot covering for the misses—not coarse, heavy or clumsy, but neat, easy to wear and keep your feet dry—made up in the very latest styles and popular toes, with the extension soles—either lace or button. Not in all our shoe selling have we ever offered a greater shoe value—the misses' sizes $1.50—child's sizes at $1.25. We recommend this shoe to parents as the one shoe that will prove satisfactory in wear, style and price.

Drexel Shoe Co., Omaha's Up-to-date Shoe House, 1419 FARNAM STREET.