A KICKER RESTRAINED.

Of an Objector. It was known Monday, relates the Washngton Post, that the committee on rules intended to give the committee on public buildings and grounds Tuesday afternoon in which to pass all the public building bills possible. Chairman Mercer had already lost one opportunity by a successful fillbuster against his bills, and he was afraid of another. Particularly he feared Handy of Delaware, who, though serving his first term, has develoyed an extraordinary capacity for obstructing business when things are not going his way, and they never are. Mercer told McIntire his fears. The latter's custom house bill was at stake. He and Handy travel much together, the former living in Lincoln, Hastings and Leave. Arrive. Buildings and the latter in Newark, Del. Monday evening they traveled together. WANTED-TO BORROW.
